LINDBERGH JOINS HUNT FOR FLYER

ITALIAN KING, QUEEN, VISIT POPE

MERCHANT POLICEMAN IS KILLED BY DAYTON COP

DAYTON, O., Dec. 5.—P. J. Carrier, 38, a merchant policeman, was shot and killed early today by Motorcycle Patrolman W. P. Dempsey.

According to the story which Dempsey told to his superior officers, Carrier was prowling about the rear of some buildings on Wayne Avenue here.

Dempsey accosted the merchant policeman and asked him what he was doing. The motorcycle officer said that Carrier refused to answer him.

The officer took the merchant watchman to a nearby call box and summoned a police patrol. While they were waiting, Dempsey declared, Carrier made a break for freedom and started running across the street.

Dempsey shouted his commands to stop and Carrier allegedly turned and pulled his revolver Dempsey also drew his gun and shot the merchant policeman dead.

No charges have been filed against Dempsey. An investigation into the shooting is expected to be made today.

WOOSTER GIRL WINS SPECIAL SING-OFF FROM XENIA SINGER

Miss McDonnell Loses Audition Prize At Cleveland

Adjudged the winner of the special Atwater Kent audition contest for girls over station WTAM at Cleveland Wednesday night, Miss Genevieve Irene Rowe, Wooster, O., coloratura soprano, will be the mid-west entry in the young woman's group in the national finals at New York City December 15.

Previously Miss Rowe had been declared best of the eleven state vocal champions who were heard in the regular mid-west district audition at Chicago recently, and Wednesday night she competed with Eleanor Catherine McDonnell, Xenia soprano, for the honor of representing the mid-west.

Because of an unforeseen conclusion of the fixed broadcasting period, Miss McDonnell, who was adjudged amateur vocal champion among southern Ohio girls, was prevented from properly completing her number in the Chicago trials and a special audition was arranged to give her the opportunity of which she had been deprived.

Miss Rowe, as mid-west winner, is assured of $1,000 in cash and a year's tuition in music and will compete December 15 with girls from the other three districts of the United States at the final audition in New York. The national winner will receive $5,000 in cash and a two-year tuition.

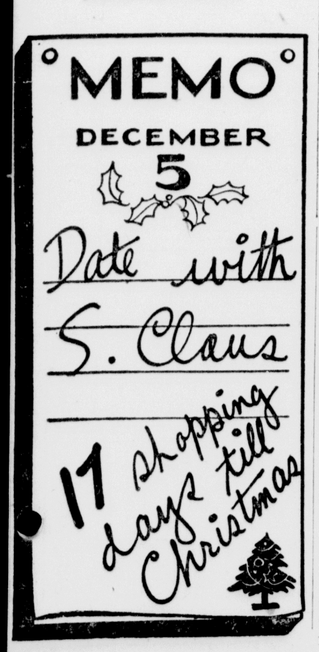

Judges for the special sing-off Wednesday night were Charles D. Dawe, Cleveland, director of the Orpheus Male Chorus; Royal Hughes, head of the music department of Ohio State University, and Daniel Prothero, Chicago, noted conductor and composer.

Xenia listeners who tuned in on the program heard the two girls sing from 6:35 to 7 o'clock. While they were singing the judges selected the winner and announced their choice at the close of the program.

Miss Rowe's numbers were "Caro Nomа" from "Rigoletto" and the "Shadow Song" from "Dinorah." Miss McDonnell sang, "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio" and "Ave Maria." Following the contest Miss Rowe also sang "The Swiss Echo Song."

The contest winner is a senior in both the college and conservatory at Wooster. She was accompanied Wednesday night by her father, Neil Rowe, dean and director of Wooster conservatory. She has been studying voice under Miss Eve Richmond, of the conservatory.

Miss McDonnell's piano accompaniment was played by her sister, Miss Mary McDonnell.

SHE'S FAT, MY DEAR!

PARIS, Dec. 5.—Prince Carol of Roumania and his Titian-haired sweetheart, Madame Lupescue, have given the Parisiennes something new to talk about on their latest appearance in Paris after a long absence.

Both show a decided increase in weight.

Paris' night - club habitues were not a little surprised when the formerly Sevite beauty, whose charms are said to have lost Carol his throne, appeared with shoulders not so slim and waist not quite so syiph-like. But on her right hand blazed a brilliant diamond as large as a small square shoe buckle.

BUSINESS LEADERS GATHER IN CAPITAL TO CONSIDER FUTURE

Industrial Chiefs Diagnose Business Prospects

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—American business, as represented by 400 of its outstanding leaders, mobilized in Washington today for a clinical diagnosis of existing conditions, future prospects, and to consider measures for keeping the business wheels humming busily through the winter.

Today's meeting was an outgrowth of the series of conferences which President Hoover initiated at the White House to offset the psychological effect of a falling market, and the list of those attending read like a blue book of high finance and industry.

Henry Ford, who gave his industrial competitors a shock by granting $20,000,000 wage and salary increases to his employes in the face of falling prices, was again one of the conferees. And others among the 400 were W. W. Atterbury, Bernard M. Baruch, John J. Raskob, Charles M. Schwab, Pierre DuPont, J. A. Farrell, James G. Harbord, Louis F. Swift, Myron C. Taylor, Julius Rosenwald, Daniel Willard, Owen D. Young, and scores of others whose names are by-words in big business.

Every branch of business was represented, railroads, manufacturing, merchandising, banking, mining, utilities, construction, insurance, warehousing, publishing, and even motion picture producing.

Nearly 250 trade associations, embracing everything from such institutions as the iron and steel institute to the national taxicab owners' association were represented by one or more delegates.

The mobilization was undertaken by the United States Chamber of Commerce, to which President Hoover turned over the job of "carrying on" the work he initiated in his more personal White House conferences.

It was by far the most ambitious undertaking of the sort ever attempted, and its objective was denoted by the name given it: "The National Business Survey Conference."

President Hoover is to demonstrate his still keen interest in the situation by opening the session with an address. Secretary of Commerce Lamont, and his assistant, Dr. Julius Klein, also will speak, and then representatives of some thirty-two distinct trade groups will present reports covering their particular lines.

BANDITS BEAT BANK RUNNER; GET CHECKS

PHILADELPHIA, Dec 5.—Three bandits battered a runner of the Overbrook National Bank of West Philadelphia unconscious early today and escaped in an automobile with his bag containing between $40,000 and $50,000 in checks.

First Visit In Six Decades Returned By Cardinal

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 5.—In a colorful and imposing ceremony such as only this tradition-drenched seat of ecclesiasticism can produce, friendly relations between the throne of Italy and the popes of Rome were formally re-established today when King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena drove in state to the vatican for their long-heralded meeting with Pope Pius XI.

It was the first time since Rome became the capital of the Italian state that an Italian sovereign had set foot inside the Vatican palace.

RECEIVE GIFTS

The pope presented the king with a mosaic reproduction of Raphael's Madonna and a gold rosary, while he gave the queen a silver-framed autographed photograph of himself.

It was the first time in more than six decades that an Italian king had bowed to the temporal sovereignty of the pope.

The historic meeting was made possible by the signing of the lateran treaties which ended the sixty-year old feud between church and state of Italy, and brought to a termination the pope's voluntary imprisonment within the confines of the Vatican.

A crowd estimated at more than half a million persons witnessed the state procession from the Quirinal royal palace to the Vatican city.

The triumphant procession from the Quirinal to the Vatican was made in seven royal motor cars, although the original program called for luxurious state coaches, richly ornamented and driven by four horses each, to be used. This plan was abandoned by the wish of King Victor Emmanuel, who desired to avoid over-ostentation as well as to speed up the procession.

VISIT RETURNED

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 5.—The visit of the king and queen of Italy to the Vatican today was returned almost immediately by Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, acting on behalf of the pontiff.

Less than half an hour after the sovereigns had departed from St. Peter's Church at the conclusion of their visit, Cardinal Gasparri motored to the Quirinal palace to return the call.

This was in accordance with Pope Pius' expressed determination not to repay in person visits made to him by ruling sovereigns.

At the entrance to St. Peter's square, Swiss guards, attired in their mediaeval uniforms emblazoned with color, were lined at the entrance to the papal state to welcome the royal visitors.

Silver trumpets heralded the approach of the sovereigns as the Swiss guards stood at rigid attention. The king saluted as the royal car swept past them to Sacristy Square, where the whole strength of the pope's army was assembled to honor the guests.

RADIO PHOTOGRAPH RESULTS IN ARREST

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—A radio photograph flashed across the Atlantic Ocean, today had resulted in the identification and arrest at Harwich, Eng. of C. S. Westergaard who, since his having obtained $60,000 from the Chase National Bank here last October, allegedly by the use of forged transfer papers, had been a fugitive from justice.

The photograph, believed to be the first use of trans-Atlantic photographic service for criminal identification, enabled private detectives to prove to officials of Scotland Yard Westergaard was the man they wanted.

SOVIET RESENTMENT AGAINST U. S. NOTE CONTINUES SEVERE

Press Applauding Litvinoff Speech On "Meddling"

MOSCOW, Dec. 5.—The Soviet press continued its staunch support of Acting Commissar of Foreign Affairs Litvinoff today for what it termed his patriotic and heroic stand against "meddling" by foreign powers, particularly the United States, in the Manchurian situation.

It hailed his two hour speech before the central executive committee of the communist party as a straignt-forward, clean-cut presentation of Soviet government's stand in relation to the Kellogg pact.

Litvinoff's declaration that the "demarches of the foreign powers cannot frighten us" was hailed especially as a striking keynote of the Soviet viewpoint regarding "reminders" from foreign powers that the Kellogg pact should be remembered in the Sino-Russ situation.

Litvinoff, while not actually stating that the intentions of foreign powers in sending "reminders" of the Kellogg pact were guided by a desire to interfere just when negotiations between Soviet and Mukden delegates were nearing a favorable conclusion, intimated as much while asserting such interference would in no way alter Soviet policy.

"The Chinese and the Russian people are determined to live peacefully together," he said. "If foreign powers interfere, the Soviet is depending upon the sympathy of the workers, the peasants and the Red army in forcing acceptance of the three conditions of peace presented to China."

Touching upon the sore point of the Soviet government, the United States' failure to recognize it, Litvinoff stated that although business relations between the Soviet and the United States were developing favorably "Washington still considers us too insignificant to recognize diplomatically."

"The reception accorded the airplane 'Land of the Soviets' shows a growing sympathy toward Russia in the United States, despite Washington coolness," he added.

He charged that Secretary Stimson's "reminder" had a hidden purpose behind it—the internationalization of the Chinese Eastern Railroad.

"American capital long desired to grab control of the C. E. R. If we tear off the pacificist husk enclosing the note of Secretary Stimson, we discover the note's hidden purpose— to internationalize the railroad in order to eliminate Soviet participation for the benefit of American and French imperialists."

He reiterated that China, not the Soviets, violated the Kellogg pact.

"The big powers whose troops parade their colonies without violating the Kellogg pact, cannot intimidate the Soviets, in the guise of peace, to believe that the Soviets violated the pact during the Sino-Russ conflict, which we considered would be happily settled.

"China violated the Kellogg pact. As soon as the Soviets launched decisive military action, the big powers decided to interfere.

"The Soviets, unlike Great Britain and France, made no reservations to the Kellogg pact, allowing unhampered action in certain portions of the globe.

TRAIN WRECKER?

Tom Vernon, above, five-time convict, is under arrest at Pawnee, Okla., charged with the wrecking and robbing of the Portland Limited near Cheyenne, Wyo., and the West Coast Limited near Saugus, Cal. Passengers victimized in each wreck have identified pictures of Vernon as the bandit.

VATICAN CEREMONY RESUMES FRIENDLY STATUS WITH KINGS

Return Visit Would Establish Precedent, Said

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 5.—The historic visit of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena to the pope today re-opened the friendly relations that united the royal house of Savoy with the pontiffs of Rome up to the perid of the "risorgimento," when Italian unity was achieved under leadership of the Piedmont dynasty.

Prior to that period when a king of Sardinia visited Rome, he paid a visit to the reigning pope in the natural order of things. As a general rule, the pope returned the call. The last time such an exchange of courtesies occurred was in 1802, when Pope Pius VII returned the call of King Victor Emmanuel 1, and his wife Queen Marie Theresa of Austria.

However, the present pontiff did not return today's visit. On the contrary, Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, returned the visit on behalf of the pope. The present pope did not wish to establish the precedent of visiting reigning sovereigns in their native territories. To go "abroad" from the Vatican confines—even the two miles to the Italian royal palace—should set a precedent that would have to be followed by all subsequent pontiffs.

It would mean that all future popes would have to make long journeys to visit the countries of those sovereigns who in the future call at the Vatican to pay their respects to the pontiff.

When the lateran treaties first were signed between the Vatican and the Italian state, it was thought possible Pope Pius would take advantage of his new "freedom" to journey to foreign lands. He has stated definitely, however, that he has no desire to make long journeys, particularly state visits to foreign countries.

ASK STATION WLW TO STOP BROADCAST

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5.—Word has been directed to officials of radio station WLW, Cincinnati, to discontinue the broadcasting of an invitation to its listeners to buy "Penny-a-Day" insurance, by C. S. Younger, state superintendent of insurance.

One of the paramount reasons for Younger's action is that the insurance company which issues the policy, a Chicago concern, is not licensed in Ohio.

Younger's message to officials of WLW said, "We trust you may see yourself clear to discontinue the broadcasting and co-operate with this department in keeping the insurance business clean in Ohio."

TUNNEY BACK FROM HONEYMOON

HOUSE LEADERS PREPARE FOR PROMPT TAX REDUCTION ACTION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. — Administration leaders of the house today donned their fighting armor and prepared to use their powerful steam roller, if necessary, to assure prompt passage of the administration's $160,000,000 tax reduction resolution.

The resolution was formally laid before the house by Representative Hawley of Oregon, chairman of the ways and means committee, which advocated its passage in a lengthy report.

The threat of Representative Ramseyer (R) of Iowa to invoke the rules of the house to prevent immediate consideration of the resolution as a privileged measure aroused the Republican leaders to action.

In the event of an adverse ruling by Speaker Longworth, the rules committee was prepared to meet and immediately report out a rule for the bill's consideration.

Ramseyer, leading the opposition to the measure, had exacted a promise from the administration leaders for a full and free debate It is possible he may forestall a vote on the measure late today, as originally planned.

The belligerent Iowa member, however, was not expected to gather sufficient adherents to upset the tax cut plan. With all Democrats on the ways and means committee and all Republicans except himself favoring it, Ramseyer faced an uphill fight.

Efforts were being made to enroll the "farm bloc" which has consistently stood for the application of treasury surpluses to retirement of the public debt. The prediction that tax reduction would force congress to curtail appropriations for the federal farm board in the future also was thrown into the faces of "farm bloc" members.

Ramseyer announced his principal objection to the proposed reduction is that it will invite a treasury deficit. He declared that on the basis of the budget submitted by President Hoover, the probable surplus in the next two years and needs of the federal farm board the tax bill would bring about a deficit of $107,000,000 in 1931.

Declaring the prediction is false, Chairman Hawley pointed out the proposed tax reduction is on incomes for the present year, and the administration already knows what the expenditures will be during the period it covers. Even governmental activity can be properly taken care of even though tax reduction is voted, he asserted.

GARMENT WORKERS PREPARE TO START GENERAL STRIKES

New York Strike Is Voted; Others Before Delegates

CLEVELAND, Dec. 5. — With their strike machinery oiled and set in motion by the passage of a resolution calling for a walk-out of 45,000 dressmakers in New York, delegates to the twentieth biennial convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union prepared to authorize general strikes in seven other important garment centers today.

Followed by a fervent demonstration, the New York strike was unanimously voted at the convention yesterday to begin December 31 at the expiration of their existing agreement.

Strike resolutions before the delegates today include those which would affect Philadelphia, Boston, Toronto, Chicago, Cleveland and Toledo. They are expected to be passed with the same enthusiasm that marked the passage of the New York resolution.

The fight, according to the union leaders, is to drive out the sweat shops and cut throat competition, which, they charge, is infesting the garment-making industry.

"The whole industry must be ventilated," Benjamin Schlesinger, New York, president of the union, declared to the delegates.

HARTER APPOINTED JUDGE BY COOPER

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5.—Henry W. Harter, Jr., prosecuting attorney of Stark County, was appointed common pleas judge by Myers Y. Coopertoday to succeed the late Abram W. Agler.

Governor Cooper issued a five line statement at the time of the appointment in which he simply said he made the selection of the prosecutor after "careful consideration of many worthy candidates suggested."

ALL SURVIVORS OF WRECKED STEAMER HAVE BEEN RESCUED

TUTUILA, Samoa, Dec. 5.—All of the survivors of the wrecked British steamer Norwich City have been rescued, according to a radio message received here today from the steamer Trongate, one of the three vessels that were engaged in taking the crew from Gardner Island.

Eleven of the crew of thirty-four were drowned when the ship struck a reef off the island on November 30. The vessel is reported to be a total loss.

The rescue crews surmounted the greatest difficulties in taking the survivors from the island. Before they were finally saved, the Trongate appealed to the governor of American Samoa, asking that a cruiser be sent with seaplanes, in order that a landing might be made in the lagoon, which they reported swarming with sharks.

HONOLULU, T. H., Dec. 5.—Agents of the British steamer Norwich City, which was wrecked on the reef off Gardner Island, received a radio message from the steamer Lavington Court, one of the rescue ships, today, giving the names of those drowned when the ship crashed.

They are: Shorne and Scott, engineers; Jones, steward; Somers and Hamann, carpenters and six Arab firemen.

LEADS FIFTEEN AIR BUDDIES OF NELSON IN INTENSIVE HUNT

Planes Scour Land From Cleveland To Bellefonte

CLEVELAND, Dec. 5.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, veteran leader of many an aerial searching squadron, arrived at the Cleveland Airport at 8:30 a. m. today to take command of a fleet of fifteen planes in a search for an old "buddy," Thomas P. Nelson, air mail pilot who has been missing since early Monday morning.

Defying darkness and snowstorms, the lone eagle flew here from New York early today in an open cockpit Curtiss-Falcon biplane. His route lay over the same snow-swept path, which, it is believed, has claimed the life of Nelson.

Swinging his plane into line along with the fifteen other crafts composing the searching squadron, Lindy, wrapped in a fur-lined flying outfit, heavy boots and a helmet, leaped out of his plane and hurriedly conferred with local airport officials.

Immediately afterward, he returned to his plane, signalled to the fifteen pilots and roared his craft across the field into the air. One by one the other members of the searching fleet followed.

Led by the lone eagle, the squadron—the greatest ever assembled in this territory in search for a missing pilot—winged its way eastward over the snow-swept stretches which are believed to hold the fate of Nelson.

Each of the flyers was given a five-mile square portion of territory between here and Bellefonte, Pa., to scour. One of the points that will be thoroughly searched, officials at the Cleveland airport said before the start this morning, will be the vicinity of Stonesboro, Pa., where it was reported a plane was heard to crash Monday.

Part of the searching squadron, the officials said, is heading directly for Andover, O., to give that territory a second combing for traces of the missing pilot. This district is sparsely settled and is covered with nearly 2,000 acres of heavy, almost impenetrable timberland.

Phil Love of St. Louis, another old flying "buddy" of the missing aviator, was among the pilots of the searching squadron.

Besides the fleet of 15, it was anticipated that several other planes might arrive from Chicago later in the day to join in the hunt.

Many of the planes which set out this morning are equipped with radios. They will keep in touch with ground stations as the search progresses.

Although a $500 reward has been offered to the person who locates Nelson it was not needed to spur the hunt. All of the pilots were grimly determined to find their missing "buddy."

SELECT SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA TO PLAY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 5.—After "being on the fence" for a time, the football committee of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses today had selected the University of Southern California as western representative to play an eastern team in the annual New Year's Day contest. The invitation has been accepted by the Trojans.

No intimation was forthcoming concerning the eastern representative—an opponent to be chosen by Southern California. Among the possibilities are Pittsburgh, Purdue, Tulane, Tennessee, Notre Dame and Texas Christian.

MARTIAL LAW IN EFFECT IN CANTON

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Martial law has been declared in Canton because of the heavy fighting between Nationalist and rebel troops outside the city, a dispatch from Hong Kong to the London Times stated today.

According to this dispatch, the defenders of the city have checked the advance of the rebel Kwangai armies on the northwest but are now retreating to face the advance of the independent "ironsides" army which is menacing the main lines of the Nationalist defense at Kwantsin.

Dispatches from Shanghai indicated that the mutiny at Pukow was more serious than at first reported.

JUDGE ACCUSED OF BEING DRUNK QUITS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 5—Alleged to have appeared on the bench while intoxicated, Judge I. C. Herndon, of the circuit court embracing McDowell and Mingo Counties, tendered his resignation to Governor G. Conley and it has been accepted, it was learned today.

Judge Herndon was under treatment for three days in a Huntington hospital after he is said to have officially appeared in court while under the influence of liquor.

He received a great deal of publicity last Saturday when he granted a stay of execution to Woodrow Pemberton, 17-year-old boy who had been found guilty of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the slaying of Dewey Copley at Ragland, W. Va., which climaxed an argument over a package of cigarettes. Judge Herndon released Pemberton, a high school senior, under $1,000 bond to permit the lad to complete his school year and graduate before starting to serve the manslaughter sentence.

FEAR RED ARMIES TO RESUME ATTACK

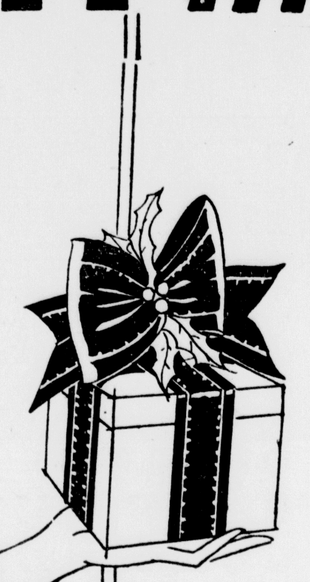

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Fears that the Red armies in Manchuria would resume their aggressive activities on a larger scale than ever were expressed today in dispatches from Shanghai which indicated that negotiations of the Chinese Eastern Railway dispute were still far from a successful termination.

According to these dispatches, the Mukden government, while assuring the outside powers which have interested themselves in the situation that it was anxious to settle the controversy, is not yet willing to accept the stringent terms laid down by Soviet representatives.

STATE EXPECTED TO REST ARNLD CASE

WOOSTER, O., Dec. 5.—The state is expected to rest its case against Elias and Arthur Arnold, father and son, who are on trial here a second time for the alleged kidnaping of 4-year-old Melvin Horst.

In attempting to prove its child-stealing charges which the state filed against the Arnolds, the prosecution relied mainly on the same testimony which was introduced at the first trial of the two accused men.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE WILL OF GOD—And this is the will of him that sent me, that every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him, may have everlasting life; and I will raise him up at the last day.—John 6:40.

REASON FOR THANKFULNESS

Possibly as tangible a reason as any for observing Thanksgiving day in a heartfelt way is the fact that most of us are able to celebrate with a good degree of comfort, and with a feeling of assurance that there is nothing substantial to worry about as far as the future prosperity and progress of the country are concerned, unless through utter folly we directly invoke trouble as a necromancer invokes the dead.

That is considerably more than the nation really deserves. For the neglect of heritage and responsibility of which the people of the republic have sometimes been guilty of late would have crippled seriously a less naturally vigorous and opulently blessed land.

The carelessness regarding preservation of natural resources in these United States has amounted to gross shiftlessness. The flouting of law and the tolerance of criminality and social disorder have been a matter of amazement to the outside world. The neglect of the opportunities and duties of self-government has been a constant invitation to trouble. The general indifference to the status of public and private morality has constituted flagrant recklessness.

Yet the United States remains sound. Its fundamental vigor is unimpaired as far as anybody can detect. Its opportunities, both domestic and world-wide, are bigger than they ever were before, and so are its international prestige and influence. The nation possesses in the capital city an administration which has both a conscience and a world-wide vision; which is honest, aggressive and practical; and which, insofar as government may so function in a free republic, will lead the nation in the ways of honors and righteousness.

America is highly favored by Providence; it is fortunate; it is downright lucky. It ought to be deeply thankful because it still has ample chance to quit its follies while relatively unscarred, and build up its virtues and its future.

CONGRESS MEETS

The seventy-first congress reconvened Monday for its first regular session. The brief recess the senate has enjoyed has been, we hope, a salutary break in the chain of vituperation, a cooling off period, which will assist it to approach its important labors wtih asperities so softened that senators may eventually realize their constitutional obligation to be more than decorative inutilities.

A disposition on the part of the insurgents to take a broader and more liberal view of matters of concern to industry, as well as to agriculture, will aid the senate to redeem itself in the eyes of the country. The insurgents are but a minority of their own party in the senate; but by their unnatural and for them and their party eventually unfruitful alliance with the Democrats, they can outvote the combined Old Guard, Young Guard and middle-of-the-road guard, which is ready to flop whichever way the flopping is best. They have a legal right to persist in their insurgency; but if they carry it to extremes in connection with the tariff they are bound to end up with a bill which will have to be compromised in conference or will be vetoed. One horn of this dilemma would be as easy to justify to their constituents as the other.

A little more urbanity in the senate, which wore itself down in the special session to a condition that unfitted it to legislate, a little more intellectual flexibility and a little less determination to bull through measures obviously dictated by the passions and pre-possessions of classes that are hostile only in debate, will go far toward refitting the senate to perform its important duties and restoring it to the status of "the most august body in the world."

A NOSEY MAN

Whenever a ship arrives at the port of New York a gentleman by the name of Mahoney—the initials are L. J., and he's Chief of the Section of Customs Statisticans—sticks his nose into the hold with the idea of making a narrowgauge canvass of the freight. A ship may arrive or depart with only a few of the passengers mentioned in the papers; but if there was a pound of garlic or a set of false teeth carried as freight, Brother Mahoney knows about it.

When a Fifth avenue stocking firm wanted to ship half a dozen pair of chiffon silk hose to Iceland the first person it informed was L. J. If a steamship company accepts a package of rat poison for shipment to Madagascar it must report the fact to the Worthy Brother.

He can tell at a moment's notice how many monkey skins were brought here last year from the Gold Coast and how much ketchup was exported to Jugo-Slavia. He will tell you, if you care to listen, that last year Italy sent more cheese to this country than did Switzerland; that Panama hats are imported from Ecuador and not from Panama and that in 1923 we exported 30,000,000 pounds of sardines and then turned around and imported 80,000,000 pounds. This sounds fishy but it's true.

You ought to meet Mahoney some time. You'd like him.

Neysa McMein, one of the leading illustrators of the country, doesn't think much of The Noble Experiment. Neysa's kid, Joan, is five years old and Maw feels that she'd like her to "grow up in a safer world."

INSIDE AND OUT

Those great big, tender, brown and juicy steaks at Beefsteak Charlie's on W. 50th street, with the hard-boiled waiters and the colored sport prints on the walls . . . Elsie Pierce, the complexion coaxer, who won't permit the taxi chauffeur to travel on Sixth avenue. Elsie is afraid of the elevated road pillars . . . The Brevoort, Bohemia's last stand in Tammany Town, decked out in fresh paint, looking like an old lorette in a new gown. . . The praise agent whose elsiesmith was responsible for a half hundred reputations now pan-handling among his erstwhile friends on The Lane . . . The gang of subway track-walkers who night and day, in weird garb, with streaked faces, resembling mountain bandits, prowl through the gloomy, fearsome and smelly labyrinths of New York's catacombs, looking for defective Friaras, who bought his frau a $200 gown for the party that turned out to be a barn dance with the other Broadway Belles decked out in gingham . . . The forthcoming life of Peggy Hopkins Joyce, by Peggy Hopkins Joyce, in which, it is said, justice is tempted with mercy. Peggy's old man was a barber. Peggy's a bit of a head worker herself.

POOR PARK AVENUE!

Park Avenue is going in for Poverty Parties in the interests of those of The Boys who are feeling most keenly the jolly old Ticker Tumble. Guests are requested to wear plain and if possible tattered outfits, and no person in a new "silhouette" gown is admitted. Hard times decorations are used, such as paper napkins and tablecloths, and electric illumination gives way to candlelight.

Evidently nobody over on Park avenue remembers that they gave a ball in Brussels the night before Waterloo.

FRIGHTENED SAPS!

When the Big Freak came, a whole new flock of saps that he was ribbing up got scared, cashed in and ran out.

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

WHERE TRUTH LIES

A Chicago judge, dismissing a charge of perjury brought against a woman, says there are cases where no gentlemen can force a lady to tell the truth. Churchmen, experts on ethics, and others, are inclined to agree with the judge. The case apparently involved the lady's reputation.

There is little defense for lying, and there little defense for telling the truth when silence would be kinder. There is always truth somewhere, and it is not to be tampered with. But there is also the good taste and the generosity of silence.

We of this world do not live all the time inside the trenches of either right or wrong. Much of our lives we spend out in no man's land, meeting situations as they come as best we can.

FILLING THE WOOD BOX

Says the Nomad in the Boston Transcript: "Any boy who has bent his back over a saw-horse, and strained all his muscles with great armfuls of wood for domestic consumption winter after winter, throughout the period, say, from his tenth to his seventeenth year, has laid a foundation for persistence in a pre-eminent duty which will make him an industrious citizen all the rest of his life."

It's a source of unhappiness in our youth that we can't know what is good for us. Few boys who carried in wood night after night, to say nothing of those who had to split it, looked upon their experience as having any value. It was drudgery. And yet, today, the question is raised whether the modern boy has many things as effective for the building of character as the old-fashioned wood box.

Let's not say today's boys are as good as yesterday's but they they have to arrive at character by a different method.

EXPRESSION

Consequently or unconsciously, the thing we are most after is some kind of self-expression. We want, somehow, to do the thing we want to do. Some people interpret that urge as meaning that it is natural and normal for them to do everything they desire to do with very little restriction. But self-expression does not mean the right to do everything one wishes to do. Expression can come through many channels. It is our business to find the channel which in every way is best for ourselves and best for society as a whole.

The World And All

ITEMS

Eddie Cantor's book, "Caught Short," is having a good Christmas sale among those who lost in the stock market crash and have been wondering where to find a nice, cheap Christmas present. It is published by Simon & Schuster, and I do not find it very funny.

H. L. Mencken has a habit of enclosing some tract or pamphlet when he writes to personal acquaintances. The latest I have received from him is a ten-page tract by F. H. Rossiter, entitled, "Is Tobacco-Using a Sin?" It is isued by the No-Tobacco league, of Butler, Ind.

The youngest looking father of six children is Schuyler L. Marshall, a Michigan newspaper publisher. And the most striking name for a newspaper is the Eccentric, published by George R. Averill, at Birmingham, Mich.

About 400,000 Americans, born in America, are living abroad, 20,000 of them in Paris, I read in Harper's Bazaar. But I am not greatly worried by this sad news. I've known some of these expatriated Americans, and I've found them about the unhappiest of all humans. Every country has its own advantages and attractions, but America has so many more good points than any other country that no American can ever be fully contented in a permanent residence abroad.

The most polite and efficient hotel clerk I have ever met is Anselmo Mugica, concierge at the Hotel Biarritz, San Sebastian, Spain. He has a peculiarly difficult job, since guests of all nations are constantly lining up before his desk and asking questions. He is a Basque, and he speaks nine languages fluently. He expresses pleasure about almost anything by smiling, bowing and saying "Magnifico!" That seems to be a good word in any language, and it means whatever the guest wants it to mean.

There's much talk about the low-grade reading matter that is being turned out by printing presses. I've been reading Edmund Pearson's book, "Dime Novels," published by Little, Brown. It gives many extracts and pictures from the "literature" of the nineties. It's my opinion that the reading public of today would scorn such trash. Also, that there's more high-grade reading matter being sold for small prices today than ever before.

Those who live in glass houses should not throw parties. Or, as a concession to the feelings of late home-going prohibition agents, they should pull the shades. There I expiate, passing along the streets that are lined with apartment houses, all lighted up and full of guests that are likewise.

ANOTHERW ORLD UPLIFT MOVEMENT GETS UNDER WAY

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

"All you have told me about my own skin is most interesting, but I'm really much more interested in my daughter than in myself. I wonder if you could help her?" said Mrs. Evans, after her first beauty interview with me.

"I shall be very happy, indeed, to help your daughter, Mrs. Evans," I said. "But you should not lose interest in you. own appearance! So many mothers make the mistake of neglecting themselves, and then feel hurt when their children are a little bit ashamed of them. Yet that is only natural, for young folks, especially, love beauty. Instinctively they are drawn to it. Haven't you ever seen a school boy with a beautiful mother? How proud he is when he introduces her to the other boys! And have you even been to a college commencement? I have two sons in college, and I love to attend college functions—to watch the other boys. How proud they are when anyone says: 'Your mother? Why, she looks like your sister!' But to get back to your daughter, Mrs. Evans, tell me."

"She is such a pretty girl," said Mrs. Evans. "Or at least she would be if her skin were not so oily. And blackheads—she just can't seem to get rid of them; and even worse, of late she has been bothered with pimples—quite a lot of them—red and unsightly. She is terribly sensitive about it, and very unhappy. This is her first year at college, and I do hate to have it spoiled. How can she get rid of these blemishes?"

"So many, many girls and boys are plagued with acne," I said. "It is really the bane of youth. The first thing is to watch the general health. At adolescence the body is undergoing serious changes, and mothers should see that their children have good, simple, wholesome food, not too rich, and not too many sweets!

"Encourage your daughter to take all the outdoor exercise possible. Swimming, canoeing, rowing and long hikes, all are excellent. Dancing is good, too, but not too late! She needs plenty of sleep with windows opened wide. And she should give her skin special attention. Before going to bed, she should wash her face with a medicated acne soap and smooth on a film of medicated acne cream. This cream does not melt, but leaves a healing mask over the face throughout the night. In the morning wash it off with a special pore paste, and once or twice a week with little beauty grains that free the pores of all impurities and dissolve the blackheads. If she will do this, very, very soon she will see a decided improvement—and you will see that the sensitiveness and inferiority complex will vanish! But she will need you as an example, Mrs. Evans, so do take care of your skin, too."

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—Secretary of War James W. Good died because he was not operated on soon enough.

He was operated on directly the doctors were aware he was ill at all, but by that time the odds were many to one against him. They realized that an operation offered only a forlorn hope, but it was all there was. It did no harm though it did no good. The secretary would have died anyway, in a few hours.

Some appendicitis cases are that way. Of discernible symptoms there are none until too late to save their victims.

It may sound foolish in an ignorant layman to raise the question. Nevertheless, even a layman can have noticed that medical science in other lands is far more reluctant to resort to it.

Their version is that they are farther advanced than doctors anywhere else on earth; thus that they are capable of accomplishing beneficent results by surgical means that the profession elsewhere is afraid to tackle.

In at least half a dozen countries I have lived in, I have talked, at one time or another, with quite a lot of them, and it was surprising how exactly their various individual estimates of the surgical trend in the United States tallied with one another.

Not that they did not speak admiringly of American surgical skill.

What they did say was that the average American patient appears literally unable to lie quietly on his back, waiting for nature, and maybe a little medicine, to restore him to health, but insists on something quicker; that the average American doctor sympathizes with them and tries to hasten matters by operating on him, and that the doctor is surprisingly successful at it, but that it is dangerous; that a lot of his operations are unnecessary and that some of them probably are fatal.

In brief, the non-American doctor appears to regard surgery as a last resort instead of the first one, as he insists that the American doctor does.

Obviously, I can furnish no clew to the identity of the American doctor, on the government's payroll, whom I sought for enlightenment on this question, from our own American standpoint, on the very day of the late Secretary Good's funeral.

Imagine how likely he would have been to express himself freely concerning his fellow American doctors' methods!—except under the most binding pledge of anonymity.

Suffice it to say that his job (if it cuold be mentioned) ought to be a sufficient guaranty, to anybody, of his competency.

To begin with, "As to the Good case," said this doctor, "there is no doubt that the war secretary's death was due to delay in the operation—not to the operation, but to the fact that it was not performed much earlier.

"It is equally true that thousands of perfectly healthy appendices are removed—and thousands more which are a little diseased, but not sufficiently to require an operation. The subjects are safer with their appendices gone; still, a needless operation is undesirable.

"Probably the knife does tempt the medical profession, on account of the immediate, definite results which it shows. A doctor knows, too, that a disease is gone permanently, if he has cut out the cause of it."

"Medicine also has its styles," continued the physician, "which change as distinctively as styles in women's dresses change.

"Appendicitis' great vogue was from about 1905 to 1915.

"Recently the extraction of all, or nearly all, of the patient's teeth has enjoyed tremendous popularity.

"On the other hand, possibly others' objections to it may only be their own particular preference in fashions."

Today's Recipes

BAKED HAM—Wash thoroughly a ten-pound ham. Drain the ham dry and over the fleshy side sprinkle a little ground clove, a teaspoon cinnamon and one-half teaspoon ginger. Cover the ham with a very thick paste made of flour and water. Put skin side down in a roasting pan and fill with cider. Bake slowly for three hours, 300 degrees, basting often with the cider in the pan. Remove the paste and rind. An hour before the ham is to be served, return it to the baking pan, flesh side down. Brush the fat portion with beaten egg, sprinkle generously with chopped parsley and bread-crumbs and let it heat through. Make a gravy by boiling down the cider in which the ham was first roasted. If desired one cup chopped raisins and one-fourth cup vinegar may be added to the cider before boiling down for the sauce.

* * *

JELLIED VEGETABLE SALAD—One-half cup peas, one-fourth cup string beans, one-half cup diced cauliflower, one -fourth cup diced carrots, one and one-half tablespoons gelatine, one and one-half cup cold meat stock. Dissolve in rest of stock heated. If stock is not well seasoned add salt and pepper to taste. When mixture begins to stiffen add vegetables. Pour into wet molds.

* * *

PUMPKIN PIE—Three cups of pumpkin, one-half cup brown sugar two teaspoons cinnamon, one teaspoon ginger, one teaspoon salt, four eggs, one-half cup molasses, three cups of milk. Add molasses to pumpkin. Mix sugar, salt, and spices together and add pumpkin. Beat eggs, add milk, combine mixtures. Pour into previously baked shell. Bake in hot oven ten minutes to set the custard, reduce heat to moderate and bake until firm, about twenty minutes. Before serving, cover top of pie with grated cheese, slip under broiler and brown. Makes two pies.

Suggestions
Vitamins

The term vitamin is a group name for substances other than proteins, fats, carbohydrates and salts, which occur in minute quantities in natural foods. They have been found to be essential for normal nutrition and to be responsible for the prevention of various pathological conditions known as deficiency diseases. At present there are six vitamins the existence of which have been definitely established. They are A, B, C, D, E, F or B-1, and G or B-2.

For variety, add to plain or whole wheat muffin recipe one-half to three-fourths cup chopped prunes, dates or figs

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

"DEAR DOCTOR: Some time ago, I wrote you that I was Peter-sizing and had lost at that time 120 pounds in 13 months. I weighed myself today and have lost 35 pounds more since I wrote you. You know I weighed 350 pounds when I began reducing, and weigh 195 now. I am not losing so rapidly now, but I am feeling fine and am not wrinkling at all. My friends hardly know me. I wouldn't have all that fat back for anything. My rheumatism does not bother me any more, and I can keep going from 5 in the morning to 8 at night. I expect to continue to reduce until I am down to 150.

"I am so glad you wrote on stair climbing. I can do that now, the times I cannot get out to walk. I will never be able to thank you enough for what your column has meant to me. MRS. D."

I am glad to hear from you again, Mrs. D. and to know that you are still carrying on. With the loss of 155 pounds, you are our prize winner. That is the greatest loss we have had reported to us, in all the years I've been conducting this anti-fat campaign.

The fact that your "rheumatism" has disappeared with your loss of fat, must be very great relief to you. This very frequently happens. It is not to be wondered at, for the joints are not only strained by the unnatural excess weight that is put on them, but the resistance of the lining membranes to infections is lowered by unbalanced diet that brings on the fat, as well. As I've told before, it has been found that in many cases of rheumatism, the blood sugar content is higher than normal, and the diet that reduces this blood sugar also relieves the patient. Too much sugar in the blood is also a pre-diabetic state, and very, very frequently those who are over-weight are in this state.

In the morning's mail I have a reprint of a medical article from the Bispebjerg Hospital in Copenhagen, in which the author, Dr. Secher, emphasizes that obesity, instead being an associated condition in a number of diseases which are a daily occurrence in the experience of the general practitioner. He goes on to state that treatment of these variegated affections, without treatment of the obesity is useless and accomplishes nothing.

In the Medical department of his hospital, all patients who are admitted with articular rheumatism or other diseases in which obesity plays a part, are placed at once on an "emaciation diet," for it is entirely useless to treat a symptom such as knee-joint affection without simultaneous treatment of the obesity which is the cause of the regional disturbance.

There are many other things that are brought on by excessive weight besides joint trouble: I'll repeat for the thousandth time, for the benefit of those who are just joining us, that in the overweight, heart and kidney disease, high blood pressure, apoplexy, and, yes, it is now being found out, cancer, is much more prevalent. And diabetes fully 75 per cent of those after 40 who have diabetes, are overweight before it is brought on. So you see we have very good reasons for specializing in this reduction field. While it is no doubt true that some carry reduction to an extreme, some go on freak diets, others take powerful medicines, etc., and all of these have bad effects—to the one person who is harmed in this way there are a thousand who are more harmed by continuing to overeat and pile on flesh. I have yet to hear of a case that has just been injured, how ever, by following a scientific reduction regime such as I advocate, and I am in constant receipt of letters such as yours Mrs. D., telling of good results.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Dear Virginia Lee: Because you receive so many letters from unhappy married people, I thought I would like to tell you of something that happened to my husband and me, but we are still happy, though it was a hard test for our love, especially a man's.

"I am 20 years old, have been married almost two years. At times I am very sad because one of my most cherished dreams has been destroyed. All my life I have dearly loved children.

"Nearly five months ago I gave birth to a baby boy who lived only a few minutes. I didn't even see him, although I try to picture in my mind how he must have looked. I nearly lost my life, and since then I have had two serious, but unsuccessful operations from the effects of childbirth. Doctors advise me never to have any more children.

"My husband is a very patient man. Even though this was a terrible blow to him he never shows it. Many times I have been cross and irritable, but he remains the same lovable, patient husband. He does everything under the sun to make me happy.

"Even though a childless life seems hard, an unhappy married life surely must be much worse.

"We wish to extend our sympathies to all those who are not happily married.

"HAPPY LOU."

I am so sorry for your grief over the dear baby, Happy Lou, but so glad you were spared, and know that is the way your husband feels. Why not adopt a child when you feel stronger? Or better, two, as one child should not be brought up alone unless it is necessary. There are so many dear little children in the world who have no parents, that it seems a shame you and your nice husband should not have the comfort of children, and some dear little ones should not have the love and protection that you could give them.

Thank you very much for your sweet letter.

BILLY S.: I certainly do not think it was true love on the part of your boy friend, Billy. I see no connection at all between you breaking a date and his asking you such a thing. I am inclined to think you were lucky to find him out before you married him.

I don't believe in lying about dates or anything else, of course, but it certainly did not give him the right to ask such a thing of you.

If he does not come back and apologize, I feel you should try to forget him, although I know that is a thing that is glibly said and hard to do.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am an everyday reader of your column. I am 18 years of age and married. My husband is the same age.

"Now, Virginia, I love him and he seems to care for other girls. He lies to me and I catch him later, but he doesn't seem to care. I started to leave but he begged me to stay.

"I also have some pictures of other boys I've gone with before meeting him. Do you think it worth while to destroy them?

"JUST BERT.

If the pictures are making trouble in your home, I'd destroy every one, Bert dear. You are both very young, and realizing your husband is nothing but a boy, it is largely up to you to make a success of your marriage. Girls of 18 are generally older than boys the same age. Make up your mind that you will not quarrel. That you will keep a happy home, that you will not let him see that you feel jealous when he "plays around" with other people, as long as he loves you. It probably does not mean a thing except that he is young and doesn't want to feel restraint.

Try to be as "wise as a serpent and as gentle as a dove," and much happiness attend you, my dear.

Peter's Adventures

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

"HERE COMES THE MONSTER MAN!"

The boy was half afraid that Mother Beetle was going to knock one or the other of them over, and he wished that he and Biffer had gotten out of the road. He needn't have worried. Mother Beetle paid no attention to either of them. Just as she had almost reached them she turned sharply and made for the nearest hole. As she flew past Peter he heard her mutter:

"Thank goodness I am in time and the children are all at home."

She bent down over the hole and peered in.

"Child, come up," she cried. "'Tis Mother who has come to warn you." Peter, who had followed her, curious to find out what she was up to, saw the bright eyes of the little tiger grub appear at the opening.

"A horrible man is coming this way," cautioned Mother Beetle and he is hunting for tiger grubs. I heard him say so. Hook yourself to the earth and shut the door with your head so that the wicked man shall not find the hole he is looking for. Above all, do not move until I tell you that all is safe If you do he will catch you and you will never grow up to be a tiger beetle. I have come a long way to save you, so be sure that you mind what I say, baby!"

To one after another of the nest Mother Beetle hurried until she had warned all of her babies and then and only then did she notice the boy.

"Well, what are you following me about for?" she demanded. "Can't you see I am busy? I can't waste much time on you. I must look for a hiding place of my own. I don't care about being taken captive myself."

"Do you think that the man would actually harm you?" asked the boy. "Oh, is he just curious to see you."

"I am sure I don't know. But there is one thing sure, and that I am not taking any chances. Good gracious, you're wasting my time and I'm risking my safety. The man comes like a monster now!"

During the last twenty-five years or more the game of basketball has not only become America's most popular indoor game, but has spread to all parts of the earth.

An investigation brings to light the fact that boys and girls and young men of South America, India, China, Japan, Greece, Italy, France, England and many other countries have not only taken up the game but are becoming quite proficient at playing it. Just a few years ago a team from Mexico toured this country and left with an enviable record of victories.

* * *

From time to time the question is raised of just how the game originated and in a thesis entitled "The History of College Basketball," written by Clarence Moyer, class of 1911, of Springfield College, the following facts are to be found:

The game of basketball was conceived at Springfield College during the winter of 1891-92 by Dr. James Naismith, teacher in the college. The students of the college in their study of physical education, were searching for games that could be used indoors to replace such games as football, baseball, etc. Dr. Luther Gulick, then director of the department of physical education, discussing the game idea with his students, evolved the following requirements that this new game should embody:

1.—It should be such as could be played by a fairly large number of men at once.

2.—It should be adaptable to any kind of a play space.

3.—It should exercise a man all 'round.

4. It should be so attractive that men would desire to play it for its own sake.

5.—It should have little or none of the roughness of football.

6.—It should be easy to learn.

7.—It should be scientific enough to be interesting to old players.

With these requirements in mind Dr. Naismith invented the game of basketball which has since enjoyed tremendous growth and is a headliner in the field of competitive athletics.

* * *

At least two more games, one at home and one away, may be added to Xenia Central High School's basketball schedule for the coming season if negotiations now in progress have a satisfactory ending. This would give the Bucs a sixteen-game chart with nine home games.

Columbus North and Columbus Bexley High Schools are the schools which may appear on the schedule. The Bexley contest would probably be played at Xenia and the other game at Columbus. If the signatures of these schools can be gotten on the dotted lines of contracts the 1929-30 Buccaneer court chart will be the most attractive in many seasons.

* * *

The annual all-star Miami Valley League football teams for the 1929 season, based on the concensus of opinion of the coaches of the six member schools in the league, are expected to make their appearance Sunday in a Dayton newspaper.

It is considered probable that the backfield of the mythical first team will be composed of two Piqua High players, one from Troy and one from Xenia Central.

Xenia, which finished last in the league race without winning a game, has one candidate for a berth on the all-league eleven in the person of Joe Smittle, star fullback, whose play all season stood out like a sore thumb.

Joe will probably be found in the first team backfield along with Cron and Neth of Piqua and Hoover of Troy. It would be difficult to select another backfield combination superior to this quartet.

SIDNEY HIGH WILL PLAY TWENTY GAMES

An imposing schedule of twenty games has been arranged for Sidney High School's basketball team for the coming season. Sidney's court program opens against Bellefontaine at Sidney December 13.

The cage card is featured by two trips, one of four days and the other of two days. On successive nights during the Christmas holidays Sidney basketeers will be called upon to play at Findlay, Fremont, Garfield Heights, Cleveland, and Berea. The team will play at Upper Sandusky and Shelby January 17 and 18.

Sidney's home games in the Miami Valley League are with Xenia Central, Miamisburg and Piqua. The schedule

Dec. 13—Bellefontaine.
Dec. 19—Marysville.
Dec. 27—At Findlay.
Dec. 28—At Fremont.
Dec. 30—At Garfield Heights. (Cleveland).
Dec. 31—At Berea.

GLENN WARNER SAID TO HAVE RECEIVED OFFER WITH OTHERS

Lou Little Named If Georgetown Will Release Him

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—There is a story going around today that Glenn Warner, the old fox of football, can have the Russian sable of all coaching contracts, $25,000 a year, by moving his duffel from Palo Alto to Columbia University and it is a very fine story, even if it isn't right. It isn't the size of the alleged offer that makes it wrong, either. I understand that Charley Crowley got $18,000 a year for losing all day long, which, if true, would entitle Warner, on a mere offer of twenty-five, to enter suit right away for back salary. This job is the fattest morsel on the collegiate meat rack and everybody is eyeing it with a lecherous glance but they shy away from paying the price.

Mr. Warner, for instance, is known to have a hard head. He makes it a point, however, never to butt it against a stone wall and the Columbia situation is nothing if not discouraging. They persist in getting coaches for their football teams instead of getting football teams for their coaches.

As a matter of probability, I don't mind saying that the coach they are likely to get this time is not Mr. Warner, who I understand was considered briefly — without troubling to ask his consent, as it happens. Nor is it likely to be Dick Hanley, of Northwestern.

They had two conferences with Richard and, so far as I can discover, neither of them "took."

The coach they are likely to get is Lou Little, of Georgetown, and even this seems to have a catch in it. As I understand it, Little is under contract at Georgetown and will have to get a waiver of the latter's rights before he can tear those documents down the middle.

Anyhow, one has to admit that they don't cramp themselves when they start thinking about coaches at Columbia. Even when they have to think about somebody else's coach. Long before Crowley was informed that he could go forth and do his losing elsewhere, they were busy "hiring" Warner, Doc Spears, of Minnsota; Hanley and others. Then somebody discovered that Purdue was winning football games and Jimmy Phelan was added to the list, probably much to James' astonishment. In fact, the only thing that stopped them from deciding that Rockne would make a pretty good coach is that they reached that conclusion some years ago and lived to regret it.

Rockne, in fact, did listen to them on that occasion. Possibly his eyes told him much more than his ears heard but, anyhow, he declined to go through when all of the cards were supposed to be on the table and took the next train to South Bend, where it is rumored he was well and favorably received.

They aimed high when they "sighted" at Rockne but no higher than they had done some years before in scoring a direct hit with the late Percy Haughton. This cold, reserved man was as famous in his time as Rockne is today but he couldn't win a marble game at Columbia and ultimately died in harness. So the great hunt for the million-dollar coach was on again and is on to this day.

They will put the cart before the horse and I don't mean cart at all. This cart, as a matter of fact, is a coach.

By JACK VINCENT
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5. —Selections for the 1929 mythical all-Ohio football team, which comprises the cream of the state's gridiron talent, were announced today by the International News Service, which was assisted in its choice by Buckeye state coaches. They follow:

First Team			School
Sigenthaler	l	e	Ohio Wes.
Hutson	l	t	Heidelberg
Nieberg	l	g	Ohio Wes.
Edwards		c	Wittenberg
Papritan	r	g	Ohio Uni.
Griffiths	r	t	Ohio Uni.
Brammer	r	e	Ohio Uni.
Wertz	q	b	Ohio Wes.
Kepler	l	h	Ohio Uni.
Novotony	r	h	Ashland
McEwen	f	b	Muskingum
Second Team			School
Marty	l	e	Wittenberg
Trubey	l	t	Wittenberg
Dost	l	g	Cincinnati
Baker		c	Ashland
Zarna	r	g	Wittenberg
Pierson	r	t	Wilmington
Peele	r	e	Cincinnati
Singer	q	b	Ohio Uni.
Vokaty	l	h	Heidelberg
Thomas	r	h	Ohio Wes.
Young	f	b	Ohio Uni.

A goodly supply of midnight oil was burned and much time was spent by this scribe in pouring over the data which supplied the selections. Some dissenting opinion may be expressed and some dissatisfied feeling may result, but they will be as naught compared to the mental agony of the writer in making the choices.

Sigenthaler and Brammer are admittedly the best ends in the state. The Ohio Wesleyan star—he is that—was honored by being placed on the all-Ohio team last year and he outdid himself during the season just passed. Brammer, of Ohio University, contributed more than his share to the Bobcats' half-a-point a minute team and their marvelous record of a perfect season.

Hutson and Griffiths as tackles represent the best of the gridders who cavorted their pigskin wares on Ohio moleskin fields this season.

Papritan, another of Ohio University's stars, showed the best guard material. Coupled with Nieberg, of Wesleyan, they would make a pair of huskies which would do any team proud.

Edward, of Wittenberg, is a sure choice.

Wertz, of Ohio Wesleyan, was the unanimous choice for the quarterback berth among the coaches who were questioned by International News Service.

Novotony and Kepler, the halfback men on the first team, showed par excellence. Novotony, the Ashland ball toter, held the individual scoring honors in the state and Kepler was the best of Don Peden's record setting squad.

McEwen, of Muskingum, drew the fullback position because of his all-around ability. He can pass, kick and run. He is a strong defensive man, and he was in a large share responsible for the eastern Ohio team completing a perfect season in the Ohio conference. With a team like Ohio University, McEwen, or "Curly" as his friends call him, would probably have given an even more stellar performance.

There are many other players who deserve honorable mention. Every man should get his just due. So in accordance, a number of gridders who should thus have their names in print, follow:

Ends—Cramer, Ohio University; Raber, Mt. Union; Wraster, Ashland; Laird and Novotyn, Oberlin; Bilton, Muskingum; O'Brien, St. Xavier; Halpin, Miami; Swanson, Kenyon and Chapman, Bowling Green.

Tackles—Hastings, Ohio University; Henderson, Ohio Wesleyan; Harre, Wittenberg; Weppner, Case; McEntire, Miami; Wiley, Denison; Jacobs, Muskingum; Stotsbery, St. Xavier.

Quarterbacks—Sidinger, Cincinnati; Saxe, Western Reserve; Nelson, Wooster; Frye, Akron; Paeznick, Wittenberg; Games, Miami; Bickle, Muskingum.

Halfbacks—Franz, Ohio Wesleyan; Cabriel and Hart, Ohio University; Cochran, Akron; Beattie, Oberlin; McDevitt, and Foley, St. Xavier, Eredic and Mulligan, John Carroll; Corry, Miami.

CEDARVILLE OPENS WITH VICTORY OVER ANTIOCH FIVE 46-28

Center Smith Stars; Scores 22 Points Against Foe

Cedarville College's basketball team inaugurated its schedule with a convincing 46 to 28 victory over Antioch College's Division "A" quintet, Wednesday night at Alford gymnasium in Cedarville.

The "Yellow-Jackets" led at the half, 17 to 11 but drew away rapidly in the second half, outscoring Antioch 29 to 17 in the second semester of the contest.

It was the meteor-like darts of Smith, star Cedarville center and acting captain, that sent his team's total skyward like a rocket. Smith collected twenty-two points, including ten field goals and two free throws. He tallied nineteen points in the second half. The remainder of the Cedarville scoring was divided between the forward pair, Allen and Turner, the former scoring fourteen points and the latter, ten.

Antioch's scoring was about evenly apportioned between five players, Rhodes, a forward, registered seven points.

Two complete teams were used by both sides. Lineups:

GRIDDERS DINED AT CENTRAL

XENIA Central High School's 1929 football season is over—including the shouting.

The shouting was provided at the annual testimonial banquet sponsored by girls of the senior class in the school cafeteria Wednesday night at which members of the football squad were honored guests.

Following a dinner served at 6 o'clock, a number of impromptu speeches were heard. The principal speaker was Charles A. Bone, member of the city board of education, who pointed out that when the time comes for the boys to make their own way in the world it will be of no use for them to look for a substitute to take their place. Principal F. R. Woodruff and Coach Walter "Pinky" Wilson also gave short talks.

Blazing Trail on Bottom of World

Carrying the Stars and Stripes to the bottom of the world by air, as he has already carried them to the top, Commander Richard E. Byrd set out on Thanksgiving Day in his successful flight across the South Pole. The daring explorer and his crew used the tri-motored airplane Floyd Bennett, named after Byrd's companion on the famous North Pole flight in 1926. Commander Byrd was accompanied in his flight by (top row left to right) Captain Ashley C. McKinley, who is the aerial photographer of the expedition over the ice-covered continent. (Center) Commander Byrd, Harold I. June, radio operator. The tri-motored plane Floyd Bennett. ALL'S READY FOR GENE TUNNEY'S NEXT "BATTLE"

Gene Tunney might have won the world's heavyweight championship battles with just his fists, but he has an array of legal talent to contest Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty's $500,000 breach of promise suit at Bridgeport, Conn. Mrs. Fogarty is coming from Texas, Gene and Mrs. Tunney from Italy. Above is the ancient Fairfield county courthouse at Bridgeport, scene of the "battle." To the upper left is Gene, himself, and lower left, Mrs. Fogarty; lower center is Judge Frank L. Wilder of Bridgeport, who will second Mrs. Fogarty legally, being chief of her counsel; and lower right is Mrs. Tunney.

Awarded $25,000 For Loss of Her Hair

Award of $25,000 for loss of hair and scalp injuries was granted Regina Kaplan in Supreme Court, New York. In her suit against a beauty salon, she asserted that celluloid combs used to treat her hair ignited under heat of electric dryer. Doctors say victim's hair is permanently destroyed.

Man in the Green Hat

George L. Cassidy (the man in the green hat), who was arrested on the Senate office building steps and charged with possession and transportation of liquor. The case is being closely watched by residents at the capital.

Head McManus Counsel Juror's Former Lawyer

Norris Smith, juror in the McManus trial, who, it has been revealed, was mysteriously shot twice in his apartment in February, 1929. Murray, chief counsel for McManus in the Rothstein case, was attorney for Joseph Monahan, charged with shooting Smith.

SON OF GOVERNOR TAKES BRIDE

Two prominent West Virginia families were united when Miss Gertrude Laing, of Charlestown, W. Va., became the bride of James S. Conley, son of Governor William G. Conley. Mrs. Conley is a graduate of National Park seminary and the governor's son of West Virginia university and Harvard law school.

TOILERS ARGUE ON SKIRT LENGTHS

Shall Toiling Tillie continue to wear a short skirt, or shall she lengthen it according to the present mode? That is the argument which the business girl is trying to settle. Elsie Pluess, short skirt advocate, laughs at Doris Malmgren because her long skirt got tangled in a file cabinet at the National Business show at Chicago recently.

Operatic Shoemaker Toils and Sings In National Capital Musicales

From last to stage is the amazing career of Giuseppe Bruno, of Washington, D. C. The above illustration shows the cobbler of Washington as he toils over a last mending shoes. (Inset)—As he appears at operatic musicales in the nation's capital. The young Italian is rapidly gaining prominence in capital musical circles.

COMPLETE FEMININITY IS EXPRESSED IN MODE

McCormick's Doctor, Freudian Disciple, Gets $300 a Day

The controversy which has brought attorneys and medical experts from all parts of the world in connection with the fight for custodian of Stanley McCormick's $50,000,000 estate, hinges largely on the employment of Dr. Edward J. Kempf, New York neurologist (above) and ardent disciple of Sigmund Freud, Vienna psychologist and originator of psychoanalysis. In the thirty months since Dr. Kempf has been in charge of Stanley McCormick, he has received $10,000 a month.

Freak Will Heir

If 22-year-old Jean Murray, above, of San Bernardino, Cal., does not ever attend movies or dances, wear jewelry or gold, use make-up of any kind, bob her hair, or wear short skirts, she will receive the income from $2,000, which probably will total about $9 a month. This is the provision of the will of her grandfather, John Quincy Murray.

Mysterious Killing

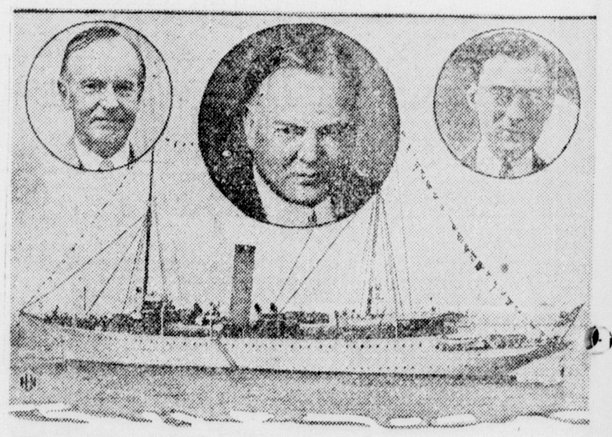

Mysteriously shot by two men who forced their car off the road in a desolate spot on the California coast, Mrs. Lucille Bolton, 20-year-old bride, is dead and her husband, John, seriously wounded. Bolton says his wife seemed to recognize one of the men, calling him by name, at which the men opened fire.

They Leaped Into Matrimony

What is believed to be the world's first actual leap into matrimony was performed at Roosevelt Field, L. I., by Donald Babcock and his bride, the former Marjorie Klinger, when they stepped out of a plane in parachutes after their aerial marriage ceremony. The daring couple are shown here with Justice of the Peace Eugene Flanagan, who accompanied them into the air for their marriage.

Mayflower, Yacht of Five Presidents, May Become Official New York Yacht

Mayor Walker soon may pace the decks of the Mayflower, where the feet of five Presidents have trod. The Mayor confirmed the report that wealthy friends are negotiating for the purchase of the Mayflower. If the deal goes through, the yacht will supplant the Macom as New York City's official welcoming yacht. (Upper) Ex-President Coolidge, President Hoover, Mayor James J. Walker, of New York. (Lower) The historic yacht which President Hoover has discarded as too costly.

Social Leader's Views on Society

"Society doesn't deserve the adulation it gets," declared Mrs. Sigourney Thayer, who was the former Mrs. W. H. Vanderbilt and also the former Mrs. Douglas Parmenter. She adds, "Neither does it deserve so many thrusts." Mrs. Thayer gave at a recent interview many interesting ideas concerning social life.

FOUR ARRESTED IN SERIES OF DRY RAIDS HERE ON WEDNESDAY

A series of sudden raids directed against bootlegging activities in Greene County, and based on information furnished by three "under cover" dry agents employed by Prosecuting Attorney J. Carl Marshall, resulted in the arrest Wednesday of five colored men on liquor law violation charges.

The raids, made in Xenia and Yellow Springs, were conducted by G. A. Baynham and O. P. Davis, state prohibition inspectors from Columbus, the three "under cover" agents and deputies of the sheriff's office.

Those taken into custody Wednesday were: James Jackson, 834 E. Church St., James Banks, Xenia, Charley Cassell, Yellow Springs; Cassell Dodge, Springfield, and W. J. Sims, High St., Yellow Springs, all colored.

An affidavit filed against Banks charges him with selling liquor to Harry Sager, one of the agents employed to investigate liquor activities in the county.

Jackson will face a charge of possessing liquor and a possible charge of selling liquor following a raid on his home in which a pint of corn whiskey and a small quantity of home brew is said to have been confiscated.

Authorities visited Yellow Springs in the afternoon and arrested Cassell and Dodge in a raid on a pool room operated by Melville Jackson, colored. The two men were employed at the establishment.

A search of Dodge's car in the rear of the building is said to have revealed twelve empty half-pint bottles and Dodge is also accussed of ownership of a pint of liquor uncovered when the raiders searched a hay mow in a garage in the rear of the place. A small quantity of home brew was found when W. J. Sims' home was raided, it was said.

Sheriff Ohmer Tate, Deputy Sheriff George Sugden and L. A. Davis, county road patrolman, completed the raiding party.

The four men in custody are expected to be arraigned in Common Pleas or Probate Court Thursday.

Armed with a search warrant issued in Common Pleas Court, authorities also raided the Kosy Korner Restaurant, E. Main St., but came away empty-handed.

Three other affidavits are also on file in Common Pleas Court against suspects who have not been taken into custody.

DR. MESSENGER TO HEAD MEDICAL BODY PHYSICIANS DECIDE

DR. H. C. MESSENGER

Dr. H. C. Messenger was elected president of the Greene County Medical Society, succeeding Dr. A. N. Vandeman of Spring Valley, at the annual business meeting of the society at the Court House, Thursday morning.

Dr. W. C. Marshall, Yellow Springs was elected vice-president; Dr. Marshall Best, Xenia, re-elected secretary and treasurer; Dr. A. N. Vandemen to serve on the board of censors succeeding Dr. M. I. Marsh of Cedarville; Dr. R. H. Grube, delegate to the Ohio State Medical Society convention to be held in May and Dr. L. L. Taylor of Yellow Springs, alternate. Mrs. Pearl Wittenmyer, county health nurse was re-elected assistant secretary.

The society voted to urge the public to use only pasteurized milk and to urge city commissioners to pass an ordinance requiring that all milk be pasteurized. A copy of the ordinance the society will support will be published later. The medical society is taking a stand in the subject of pasteurized milk because of the occurrence of many cases of Malta fever in Greene County and adjoining counties.

CHRISTMAS SEALS OFFERED AT BOOTHS

With permission of the Xenia Community Chest organization Christmas seals will be sold in Xenia at three booths to be located in the business section of the city between December 16 and December 21, it is announced by the Greene County Health League.

The county-wide Christmas seal sale, exclusive of Xenia, was inaugurated November 28 and will continue until December 21.

It is pointed out, however, that Xenians desiring to purchase the seals before the booths are opened here December 16 may communicate with the following persons: Mrs. S. M. McKay, phone number 1034R; Mrs. Rayburn McClellan, phone number 88; Mrs. J. H. Benbow, 1224R, or Mrs. J. J. Stout, 1029.

RISING SUN BANK IS ROBBED OF $2,000

BOWLING GREEN, O., Dec. 5.—For the second time within three months, an employe of the state bank at Rising Sun, fifteen miles southeast of here, was today held up and robbed of $2,000 by three armed bandits.

The bank was robbed on October 2 and loot of $3,600 was then obtained.

M'MANUS CASE DISMISSED BY COURT; ACCUSED MAN GOES FREE

CRIMINAL COURT ROOM, New York, Dec. 5.—George A. McManus walked out of the court here today a free man, when Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., presiding, dismissed the indictment against McManus charging him with the murder of Arnold Rothstein because of "lack of evidence."

McManus, his dark face lighted with a smile, stood up and faced the jurors as they arose in their seats and rendered their verdict.

The judge said the state had failed to produce evidence linking McManus with the crime and that he, therefore, took the responsibility of the verdict from the hands of the jury.

McM[illegible] was warmly congratulated [illegible] friends as he left the courtroom. He walked over to where his wife sat with his sister and kissed both of them. He left the Criminal Courts Building amid a booming of flashlights.

The courtroom was thronged when the session opened this morning, many women being among the spectators.

Assistant District Attorney George N. Brothers addressed the court saying the state had decided not to call its remaining witnesses, including two pistol experts, because the prosecution believed that the court's remarks yesterday that their evidence would only be "cumulative" and would not directly connect the defendant with the crime were "sound." Consequently, at 10:45 a. m., the state had rested its case.

Defense Attorney James D. C. Murray promptly arose and said: "Your honor I move that the indictment against this defendant be dismissed on the ground that the state has failed to produce evidence connecting this defendant with the alleged crime."

WOMAN INJURED BY AUTO IN DAYTON

Mrs. R. M. Fox, whose husband is pastor of the Clifton Presbyterian Church, was removed to her home Thursday from Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, where she was taken late Wednesday morning after being knocked down by an automobile at Main and Third Sts., in Dayton. An x-ray taken Wednesday night revealed no broken bones. Her back was slightly injured and she suffered bruises.

The Rev. Mr. Fox, who is also moderator of the Dayton Presbytery, was in Dayton attending a presbytery meeting when he received word of his wife's accident. Mrs. Fox was crossing Third St. when she was struck by the machine.

OHIO HEALTH CHIEF DIES IN COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5.—Dr. Jackson A. Frank, chief of the division of hygiene of the state department of health, died in University hospital here today as the result of an illness of more than six months. The immediate cause of death was acute nephritis. Dr. Frank was 48 years of age.

He is the third member of the state health department to die within the last fourteen months. Fred Berry, chief of the division of laboratories and one of the outstanding health laboratory men in the country, died in October, 1928, following an illness closely related to that which claimed Dr. Frank. Dr. Chandler P. Robbins, chief of the division of comunicable diseases, was taken by a heart attack on May 4, of this year.

HOLD CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL FOR MONTH

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5. — A Christmas festival lasting for nearly a month is being staged by the Chamber of Commerce here.

It started this week when downtown decorations were completed, lights turned on and stores will have special exhibitions of Christmas merchandise.

The state house will be the center of the downtown decorations. Work of installing varicolored lights there has been completed.

Evergreen trees, red and green bells, tinsel and holly wreaths will be used.

The big event of the celebration will be the arrival of Santa Claus, who will occupy an ice igloo at the west approach to the state house, Dec. 10. There will be peep holes all the way around the igloo so that children may look in and see toyland he is preparing.

EAST HIGH NOTES

Mr. George T. Tanner, a senior student of Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, is cadeting at East High School, under Mr. Jones. Mr. Tanner is acting as coach of the basketball squad and gym instructor during his course at East High.

The ninth grade is now considered "full-fledged" students of East Wednesday, November 27.

A Thanksgiving program was given in the study hall Wednesday November 27, showing the unlimited talent of several students.

Mr. Maurice Jones, coach at East High School, has been absent for a few days on account of illness.

In order to make the luncheon hour of parents and pupils more uniform, the schools are being dismissed fifteen minutes earlier for luncheon.

"KONJOLA ONLY MEDICINE THAT DID ANY GOOD"

Toledo Lady Had Sought In Vain For Relief — Found It Quickly Through New Medicine.

"Konjola is the only medicine that did any good, and I tried scores of them," said Mrs. D. L. Barker, 76 Walbridge Ave., Toledo, Ohio. "I was weak, nervous, rundown and completely exhausted for two years. After every meal my stomach bloated and filled with gas. I derived little nourishment from what I was able to digest, and I lost in weight and vitality. I tried medicine after medicine, but none touched the spot.

MRS. D. L. BARKER

"A friend highly recommended Konjola. Well, Konjola certainly proved to be all and more than she said it was. Konjola lost no time in getting to the very source of my troubles. In two weeks I realized that, at last, I had found the right medicine. I am feeling better than in years; better than I ever hoped to feel again, and I owe this all to Konjola."

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices and roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the fount of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious and lasting health.

Everyone enjoyed a bountiful supper. The program consisted of parts taken by the girls, their president presiding, and a very pleasing talk given by Miss Carrie Reynolds, of Springfield Y. W. C. A.

Music was enjoyed during the social hour.

Prof. C. C. Eckman and family, spent the Thanksgiving holidays with relatives in the southern part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Swaby and daughter, Miss Olive Coe, Mrs. Mary Tobias and family and Miss Cornelia Bradfute, spent Thanksgiving day with Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Coe of Yellow Springs. Rev. and Mrs. W. T. McKinney and Esther, of near Cincinnati weer also guests.

The Presbyterian Ladies Aid will meet with Mrs. Fred Estle at her home on next Wednesday at 2 p. m.

Mr. Mac Harris spent the Thanksgiving holidays with his parents.

Mrs. Martha Dailey has been very ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Omar Sparrow for the past week.

Mrs. Rachel Wragg of this village, gave a very interesting talk on Clifton as it was sixty years ago before the Greene County Historical Society at Xenia, last Saturday afternoon.

Clifton Presbyterian Church is honored to have its pastor, Rev. Ralph M. Fox, preside at two of the meetings to be held Tuesday, Dec. 10th, 1929 at Westminster Church, Dayton, at which Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, of Caicago, moderator of the General Assembly, will be the guest of honor. Rev. Mr. Fox is at present moderator of Dayton Presbytery.

Mr. Dan Aultman, of Batavia, O., and Mrs. H. C. Aultman, Xenia, visited Miss Florence White last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. David Bradfute left for Columbus where they attend the International Livestock Show.

Miss Ruth Collins spent Thanksgiving with her sister, Mrs. Choate at Toledo, Ohio.

Mr. H. H. Kelly, of Detroit, Mich. spent the Thanksgiving holidays with his sister, Mrs. J. G. C. Webster. He sails on Dec. 6th for a trip around the world in the interest of the Hudson Motor Co.

The Young People of the United Presbyterian Church will hold a social at the home of Miss Frances Stover next Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Mary Collins and Robert spent Thanksgiving with her son, William and wife in Columbus, O.

The committee of Clifton Week Day Bible School announces a cafeteria supper to be held in the opera house, Wednesday, Dec. 4th at 6 o'clock. There will be a program at 8 o'clock consisting of music by a quartet and a Biblical drama put on by members of the Bible School.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

A GLORIFIED CLEAR SKIN

A clear, smooth, lovely skin enhances personal attractiveness! More happiness and friends may depend upon it.

The way to the skin is through the blood. Rich, red, healthy blood nourishes the body and aids in protecting it against infection and disease.

S.S.S.

© S.S.S. Co.

If you are one of the embarrassed—and men are not exceptions—with skin blemishes that linger, and sometimes leave scars, you will want to possess body power to clear up your skin.

Millions of people have taken advantage of the wonderful medicinal properties in S.S.S. It gives to Nature what it needs to build you up so that your system may throw off the cause.

When your system is filled with rich, red blood, the body's power of resistance to infection and disease is raised. Your appetite should improve. Firm flesh should take the place of that which was once flabby. You should sleep soundly. You should feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

Take S.S.S. daily at mealtime. It promotes healthy body building. Seek energy, vitality and a clear skin through the great blood tonic which is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test for over 100 years.

All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Xmas Price $157.50

The Eveready AC Radio Set (Console) Model 43 is fashioned of walnut in beautifully matched veneers with delicate carving. This console is marvelously balanced in a skillful combination of exact proportion and design. The front is paneled and carved with bands of running ornament.

Two sliding doors open upon an interior even more beautiful and interesting than the exterior. Special designed control knobs and escutcheon plate add to its attractiveness and are evidence of the thoroughness with which all the designs have been carried out. This cabinet is not only beautiful in itself but is of a type which will go well with the rest of the furnishings.

This model employs the regular Eveready Radio Set chassis which is used in all the AC Models of the line.

Console Model 44

Old Price $247.50

XMAS PRICE $120

In this Eveready AC Radio Set Table Model 31, the owner not only will be assured of receiving true radio reception, already recognized as Eveready quality, but also will have a beautiful piece of the cabinet maker's art—worthy to take its place with other fine furniture in the home. Finished in real American walnut, it is a truly handsome cabinet.

Dignified ornamentation and graceful lines complete the effect of well balanced proportions without sacrificing compactness which is so desirable where room space is limited.

On account of its adaptability to a variety of styles in interior furnishings many people will prefer this model and will install it on their "favorite" table.

This model contains the same radio set chassis that is employed in all the other AC models. This set is equipped with a $45 Eveready Dynamic Speaker.

TO ADDRESS LUTHER LEAGUE GATHERING

Aubrey Bowen, New Amsterdam, British Guiana, will deliver an address at the regular meeting of the Luther League of the First Lutheran Church, Sunday at 6:15 p. m. He is a British citizen and is one of the young Lutherans from that English territory who is studying in this country.

Bowen had a scholarship which will enable him to study at Wittenberg College, Springfield, for seven years. He is now enrolled in the arts college as a freshman, is a member of the Cosmopolitan Club and has been actively engaged in speaking before various Lutheran bodies for the past three months. English is his favorite language and he speaks it almost without an accent. The natives of British Guiana have their own language and in addition there is a corrupted English that is spoken. Bowen speaks all three, but claims he has considerable difficulty at times in keeping his English genuine.

The young South American is of Hindu parentage. His father and mother migrated from East India shortly after they were married in the Brahman caste. They were converted to Christianity soon after their arrival in British Guiana. Most of their education was obtained in the Lutheran school in New Amsterdam.

Young Aubrey seemed the most promising of all of the children in the family and through the efforts of Rev. Harlow E. Haas, a Lutheran missionary from the United States, the lad was encouraged to come to Wittenberg to receive his academic education. He arrived in Springfield in August.

While in his native country, Bowen attended the Hindu school and later the grade schools where he learned to read and write English. His scholarship in Wittenberg was given to him by Dr. Rees Edgar Tulloss, president of the institution. After the completion of his theological studies in the Seminary, he will return to his native country to do regular mission work.

Bowen tells incidents and stories of his life and what he has seen in an exquisite and interesting manner. He plays cricket well, likes American football and is one of the few foreign students who is able to really appreciate this collegiate sport. He declines to play it now because of other pressing activities, but intends to learn it so that he will be able to appreciate it still more.

According to another story, a male person is not a "real man" in British Guiana until he has climbed to the top of a cocoanut palm tree. Bowen is proud of the fact that he is a "real man" in this respect. His other sports include fishing and hunting alligators. The latter he says is one of the most popular sports of the boys of their 'teen age. No firearms are used and further masculinity is judged when no club or weapon is used in capture of these aquatic creatures. These are only a few of the numerous and interesting yarns that this young student tells.

The local Luther League is spending every effort to obtain such persons as speakers in order that the people of the church may be better acquainted with the missionary endeavors of the Lutheran church in foreign lands. Miss Helen Nichols will be chairman of the meeting Sunday evening.

Believes Woman Will Head England

Ellen Wilkinson, M. P., believes that the next generation will witness a woman Prime Minister in Great Britain. She says that women politicians must plunge deeper into politics than ever before. And asserts that a woman in office in Downing Street will be the most natural thing in the world.

HOT LUNCHES

In the interest of both better manners and better digestions, home demonstration agents in twenty counties of Ohio, extension specialists with the Ohio State University, and numbers of community organizations of women are co-operating in the maintenance of better hot school lunches in the rural and village schools of the state.

"The school lunch can and should be the means of teaching good food habits," say the nutrition specialists. "Boys and girls often learn to eat foods never eaten before, when they find that to have a good food habits score they must eat certain beneficial foods every day. They will cheerfully refrain from coffee and tea when they find that they must deduct ten points from their score for each cup. They will quit grumbling about food when points are deducted for doing so and will learn to eat all food. They will not refuse breakfast when going without it means a twenty-point reduction. A ten-point penalty for eating sweets or knicknacks between meals encourages them to save the sweet for the end of the meal, when it should be eaten."

Food habits score cards can be obtained by parents and teachers from the agricultural extension service of the Ohio State University here. Plans for establishing hot school lunches or serving hot dishes with school lunches, are available through the nutrition specialists of the same service, or from county home demonstration agents. "Hot dishes are easily prepared, inexpensive, and can be arranged for in almost any rural school in Ohio," say the specialists.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

JOBE'S

Miss Winters has returned to Dayton for the winter.

Thermometers in the village have been registering from ten above to four below zero for the last three or four mornings.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Austin, of Ft. Thomas, Ky., spent Thanksgiving day with Mr. Austin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. William Huston were Thanksgiving day guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wetzel.

Mrs. Rosalie Morris and her brother, Spencer Swigart, spent a few days here with their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bevington.

It is reported that the bus line will discontinue operation in a short time.

WILBERFORCE

Wilberforce W. C. T. U. held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. G. I. Holand Monday at 7:30 p. m. with a large attendance. There were five visitors, each enrolled as members. New members are as follows: Mrs. Arminta Young, Mrs. Caldwell, Mrs. Motley, Mrs. Merchant and Miss Rilda Phelps. Business of importance was transacted. Mrs. Holland, evangelist, offered special prayer for the sick in the neighborhood.

A relief offering was taken. The December meeting will be held on the second Tuesday with Mrs. Newsome. Mrs. Flora Holton was appointed as corresponding secretary.

Mott, Vice President of the General Motors Corporation, and his third wife, Dee Van Balcom Furey, 29-year-old Detroit society woman, upon whom he has settled 25,000 shares of General Motors common stock in obtaining a secret divorce from her. The stock is worth about $962,500 at today's market price.

The World And All

BY CHARLES S. DRISCOLL

LOTS OF THINGS

The funniest book I have read this year is Rube Goldberg's "Is There a Doctor in the House?" and a brand new magazine that looks too good to last is Bookwise, published in Boston. Century Magazine has become The Century Quarterly, big and full of interesting material. But the magazine that has improved most during the year, I think, is Cosmopolitan. Farm and Fireside was the first periodical I ever became acquainted with. We had a clothes closet full of old files of it in our farmhouse in Kansas when I was a youngster, and I used to read the old copies on rainy days. But it is to become The Country Home, beginning with the February number.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Franklin traveled all over France and England last summer, carrying a nickle-plated percolator and a can of ground coffee. They went into the best of the Paris restaurants, set up their little coffee pot, and proceeded to make their own coffee, permitting the restaurant to furnish the rest of the meal. Americans who have had to drink French or English coffee will cheer for the Franklins. Dwight is one of the well-known New York artists, specializing in wax figures of pirates.

* * *

Commodore David Porter was written by Archibald Douglas Turnbull and published by the Century company. It's a grand biography of the kind of man we Americans need to know about just now. But I think Archibald Douglas Turnbull is one of the most unfortunate of all literary names. It is difficult to say, and almost impossible to remember.

* * *

To the many blind and friends of blind persons who have written me about the books in Braille type: You can get complete information, I believe, from the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, 370 Seventh Ave., New York City. If you fail to get information there, please write me again.

* * *

Judge J. D. Dickerson, of Wichita, Kan., was one of my most interesting callers last week. He was in town on business connected with the Kansas Supreme court, but he found time to call on me. He is a fine man, and I am glad to have met him. I shall be surprised when you hear about a book on juvenile delinquency by him. Also, Louis Cook, of Des Moines, who, his friends tell me, will eventually be governor of Iowa. I'm sure Iowa will be in luck. I'm told that several American millionaires are thinking of buying carillons and hiring carilloneurs to play them, as gifts to their home towns. All that's in the way is the inability of the millionaires to pronounce carillon and carilloneur. Mrs. A. L. Woodruff, Berlin, Conn., writes that she likes my stuff, and I bow politely, just as though I were used to such letters. Only in its idlest moments is the world interested in knowing just where Mr. Gann sits at breakfast. The stock market crashed, but the United States of America is just as good as it was last spring.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

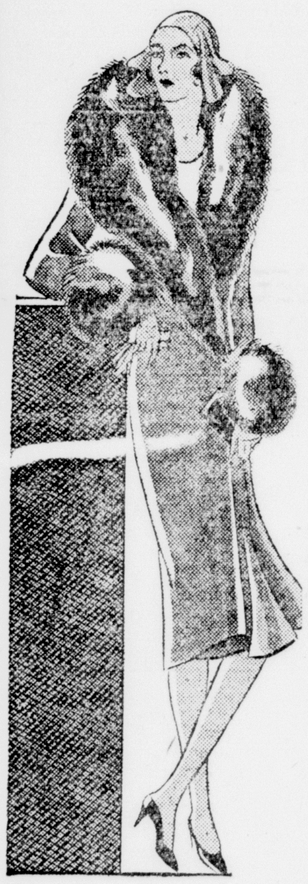

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

TO PICK DESIGNS FOR MODERN AIRPORTS

By HOMER H. METZ
International News Service
Aviation Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—The jury of awards in the Lehigh Airports Competition, for which the Lehigh Portland Cement Company has posted $10,000 in prize money for the fourteen winning designs for modern airports has been announced by Raymond Hood, of the American Institute of Architects, jury chairman.

Francis Keally, noted New York architect and a member of the American Institute of Architects, will act as professional advisor. On the architectural section of the jury will be Professor William A. Boring, director of Columbia University's school of architecture, and Parker Morse Hooper, A. I. A., editor of the "Architectural Forum." The engineering section will be represented by Colonel Willard Chevalier, pubishing director of the "Engineering News-Record."

In the city planning division are George B. Ford, A. I. A., airfield planner to the War Department, and E. P. Goodrich, consulting engineer and advisor to the Chinese Nationalist Government on airport development. In the aeronautics section are Dr. George W. Lewis, director of aeronautical research for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics; Charles S. (Casey) Jones, president of the Curtis Flying Service, and Major John Berry, manager of the Cleveland Municipal Airport.

The jury will meet before the end of November so that the announcement of the winners in this national contest, the first of its kind held in the United States, may be made about December 1. The competition has been open to architects, engineers and city planners throughout the country, and was designed to stimulate the best technical minds in the nation to devise solution for America's airport problems.

First prize will carry an award of $5,000, second prize $2,500, third prize $1,000, fourth prize $500 and ten honorable mentions, with awards of $100 each will be made. The winning designs will be widely published by the Lehigh Portland Cement Company as a contribution to the aviation industry and will also be made available in book form.

Following the announcement of the winners here, the prize designs will be exhibited from December 1 to 7, under the auspices of the "Architectural Forum." They will also be exhibited December 10, in Chicago, before the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Harvey Wiley Corbett, famous American architect, has been general chairman of the competition's program committee. Many others, noted in the architectural, engineering, city planning and aeronautics fields, contributed their counsel to the competition, which is expected to bring out airport and airport terminal designs as a basis for future airport planning in the United States.

COTTON STOCKINGS

READ THIS FIRST:

Rosalie March, seventeen, after the death of her mother, secures a position at the hosiery counter of a store. She is helped by Kenessa DuBarry, an actress, who has a soft heart. Rosalie is adored by her landlady, Mother Murphy, and little Tim O'Hara, corner newsie. Rosalie takes a pair of silk stockings until payday, and is observed by Alberto Martino, hard-boiled store detective. He does not arrest her, but threatens to unless she hides some suitcases in her room. Rosalie is frightened, and when Martino's gang kidnaps Roy Andrews, nephew of the store owner, who has asked Rosalie to marry him, she threatens to expose Martino. Martino is furious, and in a scuffle is shot mysteriously. Rosalie is arrested, and Tim O'Hara confesses that he shot Martino to protect Rosalie, but the police do not believe him. Rowdy Dow, police reporter, and Kenessa Dubarry decide to help Rosalie.

Kenessa tries to solve the mystery, and takes Rosalie's room at Mother Murphy's. She discovers the suitcases left by Martino.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

* * *

CHAPTER XL

Rosalie sat in her cell hte next morning like a statue. When she as much as lifted her hand it was an effort that made her feel weak and listless.

Dully she stared at the bars that confined her and wondered how long it would be before something would happen. It seemed like years since anyone had talked with her. Was it only yesterday that the newspaper man had been to see her? Would he be back again?

He had promised to help her. But, could anyone possibly help her? She remembered an old expression of her mother's—something about "making her bed and having to lie on it." That's what she had done. And she was a thief and had killed a man.

Rosalie raised her hand and pressed her aching head. If only she could think. Remember. Martino—he had rushed at her—and she had opened her eyes, and there was Mother Murphy and all those people.....

There was nothing to do but admit she had killed him. But she didn't remember. She had heard that people killed in a blind rage. Insane passion. That was what she had done. She had been insane with fear—and she had fired to protect herself. The "law of self-preservation."

And yet—no one would understand. They would send her to the electric chair, no doubt. The suitcases? She wished the newspaper man who looked like Tim would hurry back and tell her if they were still there.

She shuddered and reached in her waist and took out the crumpled note that she had found in her cell the evening before. Right at her feet. Where had it come from? She had seen no one except the matron and a guard.

On dirty, cheap paper, it read: "Your friend is not dead. Keep your trap shut and we will not do nothing to him. Tell and he will be bumped off at once."

The writing was in a cramped, childish hand and at the bottom there was a small black hand drawn very badly. Her heart hammered painfully with foreboding.

She had meant to trust the newspaper man. But she couldn't now. They would kill Roy if they were really telling her the truth. Maybe, if she gave him a little more time before she told he would find some way to get away.

Her mind refused to function. She dropped her head on the ugly little cot and was lost in despair.

It was six o'clock when Rowdy arrived at the prison. Word had been sent ahead that he was an attorney with permission to visit her.

She gasped with fear when she heard him call her name and looked up to see a strange dark man.

Then he explained the disguise. Rosalie smiled weakly for the first time since Martino's death.

"Oh, how did you ever make yourself look so different?"

"I didn't," he sat close to her so that no one would hear, "your girl friend DuBarry did it."

"DuBarry!" Rosalie's eyes opened wide with amazement "but —where is she."

"She is at present holding down your old job at the hosiery counter at Boggs and Clarke's. I have Martino's job."

Rosalie could hardly believe him. He saw her doubt and smiled.

"A well-known city detective called me this morning and said they wanted to put a man in Martino's place—and I went over. It was easy as falling off a log. Kenessa told 'em she was a hosiery slinger from Chi. It just happened —the Lord is with us, I guess, that she was put in your place. Sounds like a real detective thriller, doesn't it."

"Oh," tears of relief came into Rosalie's eyes, "maybe you will be able to help me. Did you see about the suitcases?"

"I am now the occupant of your late room. The suitcases are safe under my virtuous couch. Kenessa has the room across the hall. Last night we opened the suitcases and found about a hundred thousand dollars worth of loot from the store. Today, I checked up on the missing stuff and that's where it came from. Now, all I have to do is round up a few racketeers. That ought to be easy."

Rosalie began to cry half with relief and half wtih fear.

"Oh, please be careful. If they catch you they'll kill you. They're such bad people—"

He laughed her fears away.

"Don't fret your little self, honey. When they get Rowdy Dow they'll have their hands full. I know every cop and every crook in Phillie. If they grabbed me and I let 'em know who I was they'd drop me like a barrel of TNT. The wisest and the bravest of 'em know better than to knock off a police reporter."

She smiled whitely and held to his hand.

"I hope not. I—I'd feel terrible if you got in trouble over me."

He stayed with her half an hour and when he was ready to go a little color had come into her face. Several times she had started to tell him about Roy. But the note came before her eyes and she did not dare.

He turned at the door of her cell and grinned:

"Maybe you'd like to kiss me goodbye?"

He was like a big brother. Rosalie held up her arms and was glad to feel his strong arms holding her close. She buried her head in his shoulder for a moment and clung to him. He was a rock of safety in a world that seemed to be full of horror everywhere she turned.

"Don't you worry, baby, Papa Dow won't let anything worse happen to you. I'll find a way to get you out of this mess or blow up every crook in this man's burg."

It seemed that she had known him all her life. Could it be only yesterday that he had come to her with his red hair and his freckles and his happy-go-lucky grin?

* * *

Rowdy lay in Rosalie's room, his thoughts in a turmoil. What a little darling she was. There must be some way to get her out of her trouble.

A shadow crossed the floor. Someone was climbing in the window. Scarcely daring to breathe Rowdy reached up to the switch and flooded the room with light.

UNFROCK MINISTER AT PRESBYTERY MEET

James A. Hill, former pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, Dayton, was unfrocked from the ministry and excommunicated from the church at a meeting of Dayton Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Dayton Wednesday.

The action was taken after the Presbytery conducted a hearing on charges filed against the minister some time ago and which resulted in his suspension from the ministry last summer. The unfrocked minister has since organized a congregation known as the Bethany Community Church in Dayton.

The Rev. R. M. Fox, pastor of the Clifton Presbyterian Church, is moderator of Dayton Presbytery.

TRIAL IS STARTED

Trial of Owen Clemans, 45, near Paintersville, on a charge of burglary and larceny in connection with the alleged theft of five chickens valued at $5 from Omer Sturgeon, a neighbor, last June 22, commenced in Common Pleas Court Thursday. Clemans was indicted by the October grand jury. He had been bound over to the grand jury by R. O. Copsey, Xenia Twp. justice of the peace.

BRINGING UP FATHER — By GEORGE McMANUS

The Theater

Charlie Chaplin will play "Hamlet" in a talking picture of the Shakespearean tragedy despite his reiterated statement he would never make a talking picture.

So prophesies Shayle Gardner famous English player of Shakespearean roles. Gardner believes Chaplin could handle the role more successfully in a sound film than anyone else.

"I know Chaplin has declared he would not make a talking picture", said Gardner, "but I believe eventually he will bow to the demand that he portray the 'Melancholy Dane' in a sound production. When he does, he will create a character that will place him forever among the immortals in the realm of art."

Chaplin himself had nothing to say about Gardner's prophecy. It has been rumored for years, however, that the comedian yearned secretly to sometime play a dramatic or tragic role and that his favorite was that of "Hamlet."

* * *

Chaplin may have spoken rashly when he said he would never make a sound picture. His last picture was "The Circus" and since then he has made "City Lights" but has not announced a release date.

"City Lights" contains talking sequences, although Chaplin himself, will not be heard in the film. It is a United Artists production and the comedian will be supported by Virginia Cherrill, Harry Crocker and Henry Bergman.

* * *

Chaplin beats futively at the doors because Will Hays' offices announced that the advent of sound pictures has added 10,000,000 to the weekly motion picture audiences in America. Hays also reveals that the export of positive film increased more than 41,000,000 feet in the first nine months of 1929 over the corresponding months in 1928.

Mr. Hays' office also advises that the recent agreement to revise the sound picture contracts of small exhibitors has been more that $1,300,000 from the film rental of 3,800 independent theater owners.

The figures were made public by Sidney R. Kent of Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corp., at the convention of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America at Memphis, Tenn., recently. The revision was made on the appeal of small independents who had bid more for sound pictures than they could afford to pay. The contracts were enforcible but the producers agreed to the revision.

The convention thanked Mr. Kent and expressed appreciation of Mr. Hays' "quick and sympathetic action" in responding to the plea of the small independents.

HE'S JUDGE AT 22

New Municipal Jurist In Indiana City Has Led Colorful Life.

By Central Press

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Dec. 5.—Charles J. Eichel, city judge-elect here, a city of 100,000 persons, is believed to be the youngest man in the United States to have been chosen for such an office in a city the size of Evansville. He was twenty-two years old last January 12.

Eichel set a record in this part of the country when he won the office by a majority of almost 2,500 votes of the 19,000 cast. His opponent was a man who has had twenty years' experience in politics, and who has been city judge the past four years.

Young Eichel opened the eyes of the old political war horsemen when he was defeated by only two votes for city chairmanship by Frank W. Griese, now the mayor-elect. Eichel's majority in the city judge race was 500 more than that of the mayoralty candidate.

CHARLES EICHEL

Colorful Career

The rising young politician has had a vari-colored career in the past six years. He served in the air forces at Scott Field, Ill., when only fifteen years of age. When his age was discovered he returned to civilian life only a short time before setting out for Oklahoma oil fields. He drifted from there to Colorado, doing farm work, and thence to California oil fields. He attended Castle Heights school in Lebanon, Tenn., Central high school in Evansville, Cumberland University at Lebanon and Lake Forest Academy at Chicago.

His education was obtained, however, only between trips here and there, as the wanderlust called him. He was a clerk in the Miami postoffice during the Florida boom, and was a seaman on an oil tanker. He wandered into Tampico, Mexico, and worked in oil fields there, moving north to Los Angeles, and again put forth to eea.

Some of his wanderings led him to railroad construction gang work in California as cook and as lumberjack in lumber camps of Idaho. The potential judge was for a while in a foundry at Pontiac, Mich., and in an automobile body making plant in Detroit.

Eichel temporarily abandoned law, his real interest, for study in the Ohio Mechanics Institute at Cincinnati. This was too confining, however, and he sought relief by hopping bells in a hotel in Cuba.

Eichel's first taste of politics was tinged with defeat, when he supported the defeated Democratic mayoralty candidate here in the 1924 election. He returned to Cumberland University after this first dabbling in politics. He graduated, and did post-graduate work in Benjamin Harrison law school in Indianapolis.

Degree at 20

He was twenty years old when he received his degree, and too young to be admitted to the bar. The sea called while on a trip to New York City and, in service with the U. S. steamship lines, he visited Germany, France and England, returning to Evansville to establish so prosaic a thing as a laundry in a nearby town.

As quickly as he reached his twenty-first birthday the youth was admitted to the bar and filed for county prosecuting attorney. Defeat did not daunt him. He had profited by building up a powerful young voters' organization which ultimately was a strong factor in his successful race for city judge.

PLANE TALK

By HARRY A. SUTTON
Of the Technical Staff,
The Aviation Corporation
(Written expressly for International News Service)

21. Forced Landings

A broken gasoline line, faulty ignition or other minor mechanical mishap may cause engine failure and forced landing.

If he is over familiar terrain, the pilot will know the nearest field or cleared ground which can be used for emergency landing and will immediatly head for it. Constant watch is necessary so that he will always be prepared for such an emergency. Decision must be made suickly and correctly and time is generally not available for changes.

Gliding angles of planes vary. Ordinarily, it is about 7 to 1, which means that if the plane is 1,000 feet up, it can glide a horizontal distance of 7,000 feet before coming to earth. Into the wind, this glide is of course shortened while a following wind will lengthen it. Gliding with the wind is inadvisable, however, at low altitudes.

Perhaps the plane is directly over suitable landing ground when the motor fails. In such an instance, if his altitude is sufficient, the pilot can do best by spiralying down, turning into the wind to land. In the absence of a wind sock, smoke, clothes drying on a line, ships at anchor and other improvised weather vanes will indicate the wind direction.

For COLDS

We all catch colds and they can make us miserable; but yours needn't last long if you will do this: Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin just as soon as possible after a cold starts. Stay in the house if you can—keep warm. Repeat with another tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin every three or four hours, if those symptoms of cold persist. Take a good laxative when you retire, and keep bowels open. If throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in a quarter-glassful of water and gargle. This soothes inflammation and reduces infection. There is nothing like Bayer Aspirin for a cold, or sore throat. And it relieves aches and pains almost instantly. The genuine tablets, marked Bayer, are absolutely harmless to the heart.

BAYER ASPIRIN

LINDBERGH JOINS HUNT FOR FLYER

ITALIAN KING, QUEEN, VISIT POPE

MERCHANT POLICEMAN IS KILLED BY DAYTON COP

DAYTON, O., Dec. 5.—P. J. Carrier, 38, a merchant policeman, was shot and killed early today by Motorcycle Patrolman W. P. Dempsey.

According to the story which Dempsey told to his superior officers, Carrier was prowling about the rear of some buildings on Wayne Avenue here.

Dempsey accosted the merchant policeman and asked him what he was doing. The motorcycle officer said that Carrier refused to answer him.

The officer took the merchant watchman to a nearby call box and summoned a police patrol. While they were waiting, Dempsey declared, Carrier made a break for freedom and started running across the street.

Dempsey shouted his commands to stop and Carrier allegedly turned and pulled his revolver. Dempsey also drew his gun and shot the merchant policeman dead.

No charges have been filed against Dempsey. An investigation into the shooting is expected to be made today.

WOOSTER GIRL WINS SPECIAL SING-OFF FROM XENIA SINGER

Miss McDonnell Loses Audition Prize At Cleveland

Adjudged the winner of the special Atwater Kent audition contest for girls over station WTAM at Cleveland Wednesday night, Miss Genevieve Irene Rowe, Wooster, O., coloratura soprano, will be the mid-west entry in the young woman's group in the national finals at New York City December 15.

Previously Miss Rowe had been declared best of the eleven state vocal champions who were heard in the regular mid-west district audition at Chicago recently, and Wednesday night she competed with Eleanor Catherine McDonnell, Xenia soprano, for the honor of representing the mid-west.

Because of an unforeseen conclusion of the fixed broadcasting period, Miss McDonnell, who was adjudged amateur vocal champion among southern Ohio girls, was prevented from properly completing her number in the Chicago trials and a special audition was arranged to give her the opportunity of which she had been deprived.

Miss Rowe, as mid-west winner, is assured of $1,000 in cash and a year's tuition in music and will compete December 15 with girls from the other three districts of the United States at the final audition in New York. The national winner will receive $5,000 in cash and a two-year tuition.

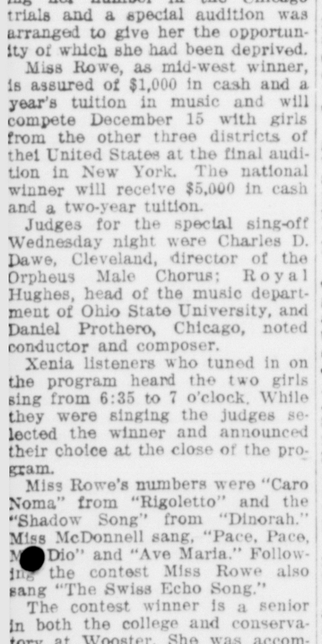

Judges for the special sing-off Wednesday night were Charles D. Dawe, Cleveland, director of the Orpheus Male Chorus; Royal Hughes, head of the music department of Ohio State University, and Daniel Prothero, Chicago, noted conductor and composer.

Xenia listeners who tuned in on the program heard the two girls sing from 6:35 to 7 o'clock. While they were singing the judges selected the winner and announced their choice at the close of the program.

Miss Rowe's numbers were "Caro Noma" from "Rigoletto" and the "Shadow Song" from "Dinorah." Miss McDonnell sang, "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio" and "Ave Maria." Following the contest Miss Rowe also sang "The Swiss Echo Song."

The contest winner is a senior in both the college and conservatory at Wooster. She was accompanied Wednesday night by her father, Neil Rowe, dean and director of Wooster conservatory. She has been studying voice under Miss Eve Richmond, of the conservatory.

Miss McDonnell's piano accompaniment was played by her sister, Miss Mary McDonnell.

SHE'S FAT, MY DEAR!

PARIS, Dec. 5.—Prince Carol of Roumania and his Titian-haired sweetheart, Madame Lupescue, have given the Parisiennes something new to talk about on their latest appearance in Paris after a long absence.

Both show a decided increase in weight.

Paris' night-club habitues were not a little surprised when the formerly Sevite beauty, whose charms are said to have lost Carol his throne, appeared with shoulders not so slim and waist not quite so sylph-like. But on her right hand blazed a brilliant diamond as large as a small square shoe buckle.

BUSINESS LEADERS GATHER IN CAPITAL TO CONSIDER FUTURE

Industrial Chiefs Diagnose Business Prospects

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—American business, as represented by 400 of its outstanding leaders, mobilized in Washington today for a clinical diagnosis of existing conditions, future prospects, and to consider measures for keeping the business wheels humming busily through the winter.

Today's meeting was an outgrowth of the series of conferences which President Hoover initiated at the White House to offset the psychological effect of a falling market, and the list of those attending read like a blue book of high finance and industry.

Henry Ford, who gave his industrial competitors a shock by granting $20,000,000 wage and salary increases to his employes in the face of falling prices, was again one of the conferees. And others among the 400 were W. W. Atterbury, Bernard M. Baruch, John J. Raskob, Charles M. Schwab, Pierre DuPont, J. A. Farrell, James G. Harbord, Louis F. Swift, Myron C. Taylor, Julius Rosenwald, Daniel Willard, Owen D. Young, and scores of others whose names are by-words in big business.

Every branch of business was represented, railroads, manufacturing, merchandising, banking, mining, utilities, construction, insurance, warehousing, publishing, and even motion picture producing.

Nearly 250 trade associations, embracing everything from such institutions as the iron and steel institute to the national taxicab owners' association were represented by one or more delegates.

The mobilization was undertaken by the United States Chamber of Commerce, to which President Hoover turned over the job of "carrying on" the work he initiated in his more personal White House conferences.

It was by far the most ambitious undertaking of the sort ever attempted, and its objective was denoted by the name given it: "The National Business Survey Conference."

President Hoover is to demonstrate his still keen interest in the situation by opening the session with an address. Secretary of Commerce Lamont, and his assistant, Dr. Julius Klein, also will speak, and then representatives of some thirty-two distinct trade groups will present reports covering their particular lines.

BANDITS BEAT BANK RUNNER; GET CHECKS

PHILADELPHIA, Dec 5.—Three bandits battered a runner of the Overbrook National Bank of West Philadelphia unconscious early today and escaped in an automobile with his bag containing between $40,000 and $50,000 in checks.

First Visit In Six Decades Returned By Cardinal

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 5.—In a colorful and imposing ceremony such as only this tradition-drenched seat of ecclesiasticism can produce, friendly relations between the throne of Italy and the popes of Rome were formally re-established today when King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena drove in state to the vatican for their long-heralded meeting with Pope Pius XI.

It was the first time since Rome became the capital of the Italian state that an Italian sovereign had set foot inside the Vatican palace.

RECEIVE GIFTS

The pope presented the king with a mosaic reproduction of Raphael's Madonna and a gold rosary, while he gave the queen a silver-framed autographed photograph of himself.

It was the first time in more than six decades that an Italian king had bowed to the temporal sovereignty of the pope.

The historic meeting was made possible by the signing of the lateran treaties which ended the sixty-year old feud between church and state of Italy, and brought to a termination the pope's voluntary imprisonment within the confines of the Vatican.

A crowd estimated at more than half a million persons witnessed the state procession from the Quirinal royal palace to the Vatican city.

The triumphant procession from the Quirinal to the Vatican was made in seven royal motor cars, although the original program called for luxurious state coaches, richly ornamented and driven by four horses each, to be used. This plan was abandoned by the wish of King Victor Emmanuel, who desired to avoid over-ostentation as well as to speed up the procession.

VISIT RETURNED

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 5.—The visit of the king and queen of Italy to the Vatican today was returned almost immediately by Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, acting on behalf of the pontiff.

Less than half an hour after the sovereigns had departed from St. Peter's Church at the conclusion of their visit, Cardinal Gasparri motored to the Quirinal palace to return the call.

This was in accordance with Pope Pius' expressed determination not to repay in person visits made to him by ruling sovereigns.

The king wore the uniform of a general, with a helmet topped by a tuft of white feathers. The queen was attired in a white gown, her head covered with white veil. The traditional rule that lady visitors to the Vatican must wear sombre black was waived in this case.

At the entrance to St. Peter's square, Swiss guards, attired in their mediaeval uniforms emblazoned with color, were lined at the entrance to the papal state to welcome the royal visitors.

Silver trumpets heralded the approach of the sovereigns as the Swiss guards stood at rigid attention. The king saluted as the royal car swept past them to Sacristy Square, where the whole strength of the pope's army was assembled to honor the guests.

RADIO PHOTOGRAPH RESULTS IN ARREST

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—A radio photograph flashed across the Atlantic Ocean, today had resulted in the identification and arrest at Harwich, Eng. of C. S. Westergaard who, since his having obtained $60,000 from the Chase National Bank here last October, allegedly by the use of forged transfer papers, had been a fugitive from justice.

The photograph, believed to be the first use of trans-Atlantic photographic service for criminal identification, enabled private detectives to prove to officials of Scotland Yard Westergaard was the man they wanted.

SOVIET RESENTMENT AGAINST U. S. NOTE CONTINUES SEVERE

TRAIN WRECKER?

Tom Vernon, above, five-time convict, is under arrest at Pawnee, Okla., charged with the wrecking and robbing of the Portland Limited near Cheyenne, Wyo., and the West Coast Limited near Saugus, Cal. Passengers victimized in each wreck have identified pictures of Vernon as the bandit.

Press Applauding Litvinoff Speech On "Meddling"

MOSCOW, Dec. 5.—The Soviet press continued its staunch support of Acting Commissar of Foreign Affairs Litvinoff today for what it termed his patriotic and heroic stand against "meddling" by foreign powers, particularly the United States, in the Manchurian situation.

It hailed his two hour speech before the central executive committee of the communist party as a straignt-forward, clean-cut presentation of Soviet government's stand in relation to the Kellogg pact.

Litvinoff's declaration that the "demarches of the foreign powers cannot frighten us" was hailed especially as a striking keynote of the Soviet viewpoint regarding "reminders" from foreign powers that the Kellogg pact should be remembered in the Sino-Russ situation.

Litvinoff, while not actually stating that the intentions of foreign powers in sending "reminders" of the Kellogg pact were guided by a desire to interfere just when negotiations between Soviet and Mukden delegates were nearing a favorable conclusion, intimated as much while asserting such interference would in no way alter Soviet policy.

"The Chinese and the Russian people are determined to live peacefully together," he said. "If foreign powers interfere, the Soviet is depending upon the sympathy of the workers, the peasants and the Red army in forcing acceptance of the three conditions of peace presented to China."

Touching upon the sore point of the Soviet government, the United States' failure to recognize it, Litvinoff stated that although business relations between the Soviet and the United States were developing favorably "Washington still considers us too insignificant to recognize diplomatically."

"The reception accorded the airplane 'Land of the Soviets' shows a growing sympathy toward Russia in the United States, despite Washington coolness," he added.

He charged that Secretary Stimson's "reminder" had a hidden purpose behind it—the internationalization of the Chinese Eastern Railroad.

"American capital long desired to grab control of the C. E. R. If we tear off the pacificist husk enclosing the note of Secretary Stimson, we discover the note's hidden purpose— to internationalize the railroad in order to eliminate Soviet participation for the benefit of American and French imperialists."

He reiterated that China, not the Soviets, violated the Kellogg pact.

"The big powers whose troops parade their colonies without violating the Kellogg pact, cannot intimidate the Soviets, in the guise of peace, to believe that the Soviets violated the pact during the Sino-Russ conflict, which we considered would be happily settled.

"China violated the Kellogg pact. As soon as the Soviets launched decisive military action, the big powers decided to interfere.

"The Soviets, unlike Great Britain and France, made no reservations to the Kellogg pact, allowing unhampered action in certain portions of the globe.

VATICAN CEREMONY RESUMES FRIENDLY STATUS WITH KINGS

Return Visit Would Establish Precedent, Said

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 5.—The historic visit of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Elena to the pope today re-opened the friendly relations that united the royal house of Savoy with the pontiffs of Rome up to the perid of the "risorgimento," when Italian unity was achieved under leadership of the Piedmont dynasty.

Prior to that period when a king of Sardinia visited Rome, he paid a visit to the reigning pope in the natural order of things. As a general rule, the pope returned the call. The last time such an exchange of courtesies occurred was in 1802, when Pope Pius VII returned the call of King Victor Emmanuel I, and his wife Queen Marie Theresa of Austria.

However, the present pontiff did not return today's visit. On the contrary, Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, returned the visit on behalf of the pope. The present pope did not wish to establish the precedent of visiting reigning sovereigns in their native territories. To go "abroad" from the Vatican confines—even the two miles to the Italian royal palace—should set a precedent that would have to be followed by all subsequent pontiffs.

It would mean that all future popes would have to make long journeys to visit the countries of those sovereigns who in the future call at the Vatican to pay their respects to the pontiff.

When the lateran treaties first were signed between the Vatican and the Italian state, it was thought possible Pope Pius would take advantage of his new "freedom" to journey to foreign lands. He has stated definitely, however, that he has no desire to make long journeys, particularly state visits to foreign countries.

ASK STATION WLW TO STOP BROADCAST

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5.—Word has been directed to officials of radio station WLW, Cincinnati, to discontinue the broadcasting of an invitation to its listeners to buy "Penny-a-Day" insurance, by C. S. Younger, state superintendent of insurance.

One of the paramount reasons for Younger's action is that the insurance company which issues the policy, a Chicago concern, is not licensed in Ohio.

Younger's message to officials of WLW said, "We trust you may see yourself clear to discontinue the broadcasting and co-operate with this department in keeping the insurance business clean in Ohio."

TUNNEY BACK FROM HONEYMOON

HOUSE LEADERS PREPARE FOR PROMPT TAX REDUCTION ACTION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. — Administration leaders of the house today donned their fighting armor and prepared to use their powerful steam roller, if necessary, to assure prompt passage of the administration's $160,000,000 tax reduction resolution.

The resolution was formally laid before the house by Representative Hawley of Oregon, chairman of the ways and means committee, which advocated its passage in a lengthy report.

The threat of Representative Ramseyer (R) of Iowa to invoke the rules of the house to prevent immediate consideration of the resolution as a privileged measure aroused the Republican leaders to action.

In the event of an adverse ruling by Speaker Longworth, the rules committee was prepared to meet and immediately report out a rule for the bill's consideration.

Ramseyer, leading the opposition to the measure, had exacted a promise from the administration leaders for a full and free debate It is possible he may forestall a vote on the measure late today, as originally planned.

The belligerent Iowa member, however, was not expected to gather sufficient adherents to upset the tax cut plan. With all Democrats on the ways and means committee and all Republicans except himself favoring it, Ramseyer faced an uphill fight.

Efforts were being made to enroll the "farm bloc" which has consistently stood for the application of treasury surpluses to retirement of the public debt. The prediction that tax reduction would force congress to curtail appropriations for the federal farm board in the future also was thrown into the faces of "farm bloc" members.

Ramseyer announced his principal objection to the proposed reduction is that it will invite a treasury deficit. He declared that on the basis of the budget submitted by President Hoover, the probable surplus in the next two years and needs of the federal farm board the tax bill wuld bring about a deficit of $107,000,000 in 1931.

Declaring the prediction is false, Chairman Hawley pointed out the proposed tax reduction is on incomes for the present year, and the administration already knows what the expenditures will be during the period it covers. Even governmental activity can be properly taken care of even though tax reduction is voted, he asserted.

GARMENT WORKERS PREPARE TO START GENERAL STRIKES

New York Strike Is Voted; Others Before Delegates

CLEVELAND, Dec. 5. — With their strike machinery oiled and set in motion by the passage of a resolution calling for a walk-out of 45,000 dressmakers in New York, delegates to the twentieth biennial convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union prepared to authorize general strikes in seven other important garment centers today.

Followed by a fervent demonstration, the New York strike was unanimously voted at the convention yesterday to begin December 31 at the expiration of their existing agreement.

Strike resolutions before the delegates today include those which would affect Philadelphia, Boston, Toronto, Chicago, Cleveland and Toledo. They are expected to be passed with the same enthusiasm that marked the passage of the New York resolution.

The fight, according to the union leaders, is to drive out the sweat shops and cut throat competition, which, they charge, is infesting the garment-making industry.

"The whole industry must be ventilated," Benjamin Schlesinger, New York, president of the union, declared to the delegates.

HARTER APPOINTED JUDGE BY COOPER

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5.—Henry W. Harter, Jr., prosecuting attorney of Stark County, was appointed common pleas judge by Myers Y. Coopertoday to succeed the late Abram W. Agler.

Governor Cooper issued a five line statement at the time of the appointment in which he simply said he made the selection of the prosecutor after "careful consideration of many worthy candidates suggested."

ALL SURVIVORS OF WRECKED STEAMER HAVE BEEN RESCUED

TUTUILA, Samoa, Dec. 5.—All of the survivors of the wrecked British steamer Norwich City have been rescued, according to a radio message received here today from the steamer Trongate, one of the three vessels that were engaged in taking the crew from Gardner Island.

Eleven of the crew of thirty-four were drowned when the ship struck a reef off the island on November 30. The vessel is reported to be a total loss.

The rescue crews surmounted the greatest difficulties in taking the survivors from the island. Before they were finally saved, the Trongate appealed to the governor of American Samoa, asking that a cruiser be sent with seaplanes, in order that a landing might be made in the lagoon, which they reported swarming with sharks.

HONOLULU, T. H., Dec. 5.—Agents of the British steamer Norwich City, which was wrecked on the reef off Gardner Island, received a radio message from the steamer Lavington Court, one of the rescue ships, today, giving the names of those drowned when the ship crashed.

They are: Shorne and Scott, engineers; Jones, steward; Somers and Hamann, carpenters and six Arab firemen.

MARTIAL LAW IN EFFECT IN CANTON

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Martial law has been declared in Canton because of the heavy fighting between Nationalist and rebel troops outside the city, a dispatch from Hong Kong to the London Times stated today.

According to this dispatch, the defenders of the city have checked the advance of the rebel Kwangai armies on the northwest but are now retreating to face the advance of the independent "ironsides" army which is menacing the main lines of the Nationalist defense at Kwantsin.

Dispatches from Shanghai indicated that the mutiny at Pukow was more serious than at first reported.

LEADS FIFTEEN AIR BUDDIES OF NELSON IN INTENSIVE HUNT

Planes Scour Land From Cleveland To Bellefonte

CLEVELAND, Dec. 5.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, veteran leader of many an aerial searching squadron, arrived at the Cleveland Airport at 8:30 a. m. today to take command of a fleet of fifteen planes in a search for an old "buddy," Thomas P. Nelson, air mail pilot who has been missing since early Monday morning.

Defying darkness and snowstorms, the lone eagle flew here from New York early today in an open cockpit Curtiss-Falcon biplane. His route lay over the same snow-swept path, which, it is believed, has claimed the life of Nelson.

Swinging his plane into line along with the fifteen other crafts composing the searching squadron, Lindy, wrapped in a fur-lined flying outfit, heavy boots and a helmet, leaped out of his plane and hurriedly conferred with local airport officials.

Immediately afterward, he returned to his plane, signalled to the fifteen pilots and roared his craft across the field into the air. One by one the other members of the searching fleet followed.

Led by the lone eagle, the squadron—the greatest ever assembled in this territory in search for a missing pilot—winged its way eastward over the snow-swept stretches which are believed to hold the fate of Nelson.

Each of the flyers was given a five-mile square portion of territory between here and Bellefonte, Pa., to scour. One of the points that will be thoroughly searched, officials at the Cleveland airport said before the start this morning, will be the vicinity of Stonesboro, Pa., where it was reported a plane was heard to crash Monday.

Part of the searching squadron, the officials said, is heading directly for Andover, O., to give that territory a second combing for traces of the missing pilot. This district is sparsely settled and is covered with nearly 2,000 acres of heavy, almost impenetrable timberland.

Phil Love of St. Louis, another old flying "buddy" of the missing aviator, was among the pilots of the searching squadron.

Besides the fleet of 15, it was anticipated that several other planes might arrive from Chicago later in the day to join in the hunt.

Many of the planes which set out this morning are equipped with radios. They will keep in touch with ground stations as the search progresses.

Although a $500 reward has been offered to the person who locates Nelson it was not needed to spur the hunt. All of the pilots were grimly determined to find their missing "buddy."

SELECT SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA TO PLAY

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 5.—After "being on the fence" for a time, the football committee of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses today had selected the University of Southern California as western representative to play an eastern team in the annual New Year's Day contest. The invitation has been accepted by the Trojans.

No intimation was forthcoming concerning the eastern representative—an opponent to be chosen by Southern California. Among the possibilities are Pittsburgh, Purdue, Tulane, Tennessee, Notre Dame and Texas Christian.

JUDGE ACCUSED OF BEING DRUNK QUITS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 5—Alleged to have appeared on the bench while intoxicated, Judge I. C. Herndon, of the circuit court embracing McDowell and Mingo Counties, tendered his resignation to Governor G. Conley and it has been accepted, it was learned today.

Judge Herndon was under treatment for three days in a Huntington hospital after he is said to have officially appeared in court while under the influence of liquor.

He received a great deal of publicity last Saturday when he granted a stay of execution to Woodrow Pemberton, 17-year-old boy who had been found guilty of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the slaying of Dewey Copley at Ragland, W. Va., which climaxed an argument over a package of cigarettes. Judge Herndon released Pemberton, a high school senior, under $1,000 bond to permit the lad to complete his school year and graduate before starting to serve the manslaughter sentence.

FEAR RED ARMIES TO RESUME ATTACK

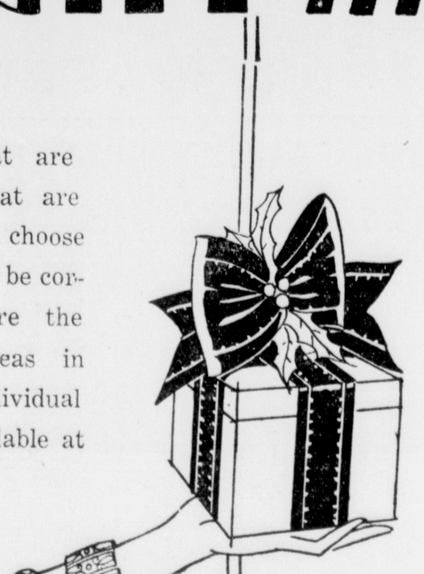

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Fears that the Red armies in Manchuria would resume their aggressive activities on a larger scale than ever were expressed today in dispatches from Shanghai which indicated that negotiations of the Chinese Eastern Railway dispute were still far from a successful termination.

According to these dispatches, the Mukden government, while assuring the outside powers which have interested themselves in the situation that it was anxious to settle the controversy, is not yet willing to accept the stringent terms laid down by Soviet representatives.

Wed New Yorker

MRS. C. H. Little, N. King St., is informally announcing the engagement of her daughter, Miss Margaret Little, to Mr. Claud Brown, of New York City, son of Mr. Louis M. Brown of Los Angeles, Calif. The wedding will be an event of the Christmas holidays.

Miss Little is a graduate of Antioch Academy in 1924 and of Antioch College in 1929. She is a member of the Xenia Woman's Club and is one of the most popular members of Xenia's younger set.

Mr. Brown is a graduate of Antioch College with the class of 1928. He is in charge of the statistics department of Lehman Brothers Co., bankers, New York City.

The wedding will take place at the home of the bride-elect and they will make their home at 61 W. Tenth St., New York City later.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING.

Fifty-five members of the Missionary Society of the Second United Presbyterian Church met at the church, Wednesday afternoon for the regular monthly meeting.

The meeting was preceded by a delightful luncheon, served in the dining room of the church. The room was beautifully decorated in keeping with the Christmas season. An interesting program followed.

Miss Leila Quinn opened the meeting with the reading of devotions. Mrs. R. E. Bryson, read an interesting paper on "Abyssinia" after which Mrs. Jennie Coleman told a short story of several Abyssinian boys whom she knows and are students at Muskingum University.

"The Sudan" was the topic of the paper prepared and read by Mrs. Charles Bickett.

Mrs. J. W. Ballantyne gave a short talk on India. A business meeting closed the program.

Members serving as hostess committee were: Mrs. David McElroy, Miss Mary B. Bickett, Mrs. James Wagner, Mrs. James Kyle, Mrs. Emma Kyle, Mrs. William McClellan, Mrs. Lenora Wolf and Mrs. Raymond Bull.

ENTERTAINS WITH A DINNER PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Wilson, W. Third St., delightfully entertained a large group of relatives and friends at a 6 o'clock duck dinner, Wednesday evening honoring Mr. Wilson's father, Mr. Robert Wilson of near New Jasper, the occasion being Mr. Wilson's birthday.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilson, Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Haines and daughters, Margaret Ellen, Wilma Jean, and Martha Joan, Jamestown, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Glass and son Robert, Mr. and Mrs. James Devoe and daughter, Miss Hilda Devoe, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dean, Mr. Lawrence Glass, Mr. Carl Moore the host and hostess and daughter Pauline.

Members of the Good Samaritan Class of the United Brethren Church will meet at the church Friday evening at 8 o'clock for the regular monthly meeting. By order of the president of the class all having money and soap wrappers are asked to bring them to this meeting. A light refreshment course will be served.

Mrs. James Wilson III will meet with members of the primary department of the First Presbyterian Church, at the church Friday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock, for rehearsal.

DOWNTOWNERS TO GIVE BASKETBALL DANCE

A "basketball dance" will be given under auspices of The Downtown Country Club at the Masonic Temple Friday night, January 3, following Xenia Central's home court contest with Columbus Bexley High, it was decided at the organization's bi-monthly dinner-meeting at the "Iron Lantern Cafe" Wednesday evening.

Arrangements for the dance will be in charge of a committee composed of Messrs. John Wood, chairman; Robert Finlay and Harold Parrett.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ella Snider, who passed away at the home of her son, Mr. Earl Snider, in Wilmington, Wednesday morning, will be held at his home, 312 N. Spring St., Wilmington, at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery, Xenia.

Mrs. Wilbur Chambliss, W. Second St., who has been ill at her home for the last six weeks is able to be up and out a little.

Members and their families of the Gleaners Class of the First M. E. Church are invited to attend the annual Christmas party to be held at the church, Monday evening. A covered dish dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock preceding the program. Each family is asked to bring its own china, silver, rolls and gifts for the Christmas tree.

Members of the choir of the First Lutheran Church will meet Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock for practice.

Members of Trinity M. E. Church Choir will meet Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock for rehearsal of Christmas music at the church.

Children of Trinity M. E. Church are invited to attend the Christmas Party to be given at the church Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Each child is asked to bring a gift for the children of the Rose Gregory Houchen Settlement at El Paso, Texas.

Miss Rozella Harner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy L. Harner, N. Galloway St., has returned home after spending several days with friends in Waynesville and Lebanon.

Miss Mildred Luella Cypners, Alpha and Mr. Carl Everett Knicely of Xenia, were quietly united in marriage, Friday afternoon, the Rev. Mr. Leaming of the Beaver Reformed Church officiating.

The bride wore for the wedding a frock of peach georgette. Mr. and Mrs. Knicely are at home to their friends at 10 Orange St., Xenia.

Miss Lois Street, E. Third St. local cellist and member of the Rozann String Ensemble, with other members will be presented in a radio program over station WSMK, Dayton, Friday evening from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock. The program is one of a series which is being sponsored by the Tire Advertising Co., of Dayton. The personnel of the ensemble is: Miss Margaret Michael and Mrs. Ruth Smith Boyd, violin, Miss Lois Street, cello, Miss Mary Bess Krimendal, harp and Miss Velma Kenney, piano. A vocal quartet will sing.

Members of the Little Theater Guild are urged to attend the meeting at the Library Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Several members of the Guild will discuss plays and playwrights at the meeting.

Miss Bernice Bruce, Catherine, Ala., who has been visiting here for the last month is spending this week with Mrs. Arthur Logue (Sarah Bruce) at Chicago, Ill. She accompanied Mr. J. C. Williamson to Chicago and expects to return to this city the first of next week.

Mr. J. C. Williamson, N. Detroit St., who is spending this week in Chicago, Ill., where he is attending the International Livestock Exposition, is expected to return home, Friday.

Mr. Earl Bone, Wilmington Pike, has been confined to his bed several days suffering from an attack of acute appendicitis. He is showing some improvement.

Mr. S. L. Copsey, N. Galloway St. has resumed his duties at the Southwestern Portland Cement Co. at Osborn, after being confined to his home the last month because of illness.

Condition of Mr. Theodore Johnson, Hill St., who has been ill at his home for some time, is a little improved.

Mrs. Ruth Stingley, Spring Valley, who was seriously hurt about the head Tuesday morning as the result of an automobile accident on the Cincinnati Pike, remains in a critical condition at McClellan Hospital.

Mrs. B. U. Bell, Hill St., who has been confined to her home following a fall which resulted in a broken arm and bruises about the head, is able to be out.

The Rev. Gulzari Lall Lorenzo, Muzaffarpore, India, who gave an address at the First M. E. Church, during the program of the World Mission of Christianity, last week, is confined to McClellan Hospital. His condition is improved.

ENGAGEMENT INFORMALLY ANNOUNCED

Miss Marguerite Reigel, E. Second St., is rapidly recovering at McClellan Hospital from the effects of an operation for appendicitis which she underwent last Saturday.

Condition of Mr. Raymond Smith, Waynesville, who was accidentally shot in the left eye and right thumb, while hunting Monday afternoon, is reported as favorable. He remains at McClellan Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Craig, N. King St., have returned home after spending two weeks with friends in Tryon, N. C.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Arbogust, N. King St., who spent a week with Mr. and Mrs. Oren Arbogust, Chicago, Ill., returned home Tuesday evening.

STATE EXPECTED TO REST ARNLD CASE

WOOSTER, O., Dec. 5.—The state is expected to rest its case against Elias and Arthur Arnold, father and son, who are on trial here a second time for the alleged kidnaping of 4-year-old Melvin Horst.

In attempting to prove its child-stealing charges which the state filed against the Arnolds, the prosecution relied mainly on the same testimony which was introduced at the first trial of the two accused men.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE WILL OF GOD—And this is the will of him that sent me, that every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him, may have everlasting life; and I will raise him up at the last day.—John 6:40.

REASON FOR THANKFULNESS

Possibly as tangible a reason as any for observing Thanksgiving day in a heartfelt way is the fact that most of us are able to celebrate with a good degree of comfort, and with a feeling of assurance that there is nothing substantial to worry about as far as the future prosperity and progress of the country are concerned, unless through utter folly we directly invoke trouble as a necromancer invokes the dead.

That is considerably more than the nation really deserves. For the neglect of heritage and responsibility of which the people of the republic have sometimes been guilty of late would have crippled seriously a less naturally vigorous and opulently blessed land.

The carelessness regarding preservation of natural resources in these United States has amounted to gross shiftlessness. The flouting of law and the tolerance of criminality and social disorder have been a matter of amazement to the outside world. The neglect of the opportunities and duties of self-government has been a constant invitation to trouble. The general indifference to the status of public and private morality has constituted flagrant recklessness.

Yet the United States remains sound. Its fundamental vigor is unimpaired as far as anybody can detect. Its opportunities, both domestic and world-wide, are bigger than they ever were before, and so are its international prestige and influence. The nation possesses in the capital city an administration which has both a conscience and a world-wide vision; which is honest, aggressive and practical; and which, insofar as government may so function in a free republic, will lead the nation in the ways of honors and righteousness.

America is highly favored by Providence; it is fortunate; it is downright lucky. It ought to be deeply thankful because it still has ample chance to quit its follies while relatively unscarred, and build up its virtues and its future.

CONGRESS MEETS

The seventy-first congress reconvened Monday for its first regular session. The brief recess the senate has enjoyed has been, we hope, a salutary break in the chain of vituperation, a cooling off period, which will assist it to approach its important labors wtih asperities so softened that senators may eventually realize their constitutional obligation to be more than decorative inutilities.

A disposition on the part of the insurgents to take a broader and more liberal view of matters of concern to industry, as well as to agriculture, will aid the senate to redeem itself in the eyes of the country. The insurgents are but a minority of their own party in the senate; but by their unnatural and for them and their party eventually unfruitful alliance with the Democrats, they can outvote the combined Old Guard, Young Guard and middle-of-the-road guard, which is ready to flop whichever way the flopping is best. They have a legal right to persist in their insurgency; but if they carry it to extremes in connection with the tariff they are bound to end up with a bill which will have to be compromised in conference or will be vetoed. One horn of this dilemma would be as easy to justify to their constituents as the other.

A little more urbanity in the senate, which wore itself down in the special session to a condition that unfitted it to legislate, a little more intellectual flexibility and a little less determination to bull through measures obviously dictated by the passions and pre-possessions of classes that are hostile only in debate, will go far toward refitting the senate to perform its important duties and restoring it to the status of "the most august body in the world."

A NOSEY MAN

Whenever a ship arrives at the port of New York a gentleman by the name of Mahoney—the initials are L. J., and he's Chief of the Section of Customs Statisticans—sticks his nose into the hold with the idea of making a narrowgauge canvass of the freight. A ship may arrive or depart with only a few of the passengers mentioned in the papers; but if there was a pound of garlic or a set of false teeth carried as freight, Brother Mahoney knows about it.

When a Fifth avenue stocking firm wanted to ship half a dozen pair of chiffon silk hose to Iceland the first person it informed was L. J. If a steamship company accepts a package of rat poison for shipment to Madagascar it must report the fact to the Worthy Brother.

He can tell at a moment's notice how many monkey skins were brought here last year from the Gold Coast and how much ketchup was exported to Jugo-Slavia. He will tell you, if you care to listen, that last year Italy sent more cheese to this country than did Switzerland; that Panama hats are imported from Ecuador and not from Panama and that in 1923 we exported 30,000,000 pounds of sardines and then turned around and imported 80,000,000 pounds. This sounds fishy but it's true.

You ought to meet Mahoney some time. You'd like him.

Neysa McMein, one of the leading illustrators of the country, doesn't think much of The Noble Experiment. Neysa's kid, Joan, is five years old and Maw feels that she'd like her to "grow up in a safer world."

INSIDE AND OUT

Those great big, tender, brown and juicy steaks at Beefsteak Charlie's on W. 50th street, with the hard-boiled waiters and the colored sport prints on the walls . . . Elsie Pierce, the complexion coaxer, who won't permit the taxi chauffeur to travel on Sixth avenue. Elsie is afraid of the elevated road pillars . . . The Brevoort, Bohemia's last stand in Tammany Town, decked out in fresh paint, looking like an old lorette in a new gown. . . The praise agent whose elsiesmith was responsible for a half hundred reputations now pan-handling among his erstwhile friends on The Lane . . . The gang of subway track-walkers who night and day, in weird garb, with streaked faces, resembling mountain bandits, prowl through the gloomy, fearsome and smelly labyrinths of New York's catacombs, looking for defective Friaras, who bought his frau a $200 gown for the party that turned out to be a barn dance with the other Broadway Belles decked out in gingham . . . The forthcoming life of Peggy Hopkins Joyce, by Peggy Hopkins Joyce, in which, it is said, justice is tempted with mercy. Peggy's old man was a barber. Peggy's a bit of a head worker herself.

POOR PARK AVENUE!

Park Avenue is going in for Poverty Parties in the interests of those of The Boys who are feeling most keenly the jolly old Ticker Tumble. Guests are requested to wear plain and if possible tattered outfits, and no person in a new "silhouette" gown is admitted. Hard times decorations are used, such as paper napkins and tablecloths, and electric illumination gives way to candlelight.

Evidently nobody over on Park avenue remembers that they gave a ball in Brussels the night before Waterloo.

FRIGHTENED SAPS!

One of the loudest squawkers today on The Street is a "reformed" Medicine Man who's been operating a charlotte russe brokerage joint for the last two years, taking dough from the saps on phoney airport stock.

When the Big Freak came, a whole new flock of saps that he was ribbing up got scared, cashed in and ran out.

An' you'd oughter hear th' Worthy Brother cussin' out Andy Mellon, J. P. Morgan, Owen D. Young "an' th' rest o' them pirates!"

THE WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

WHERE TRUTH LIES

A Chicago judge, dismissing a charge of perjury brought against a woman, says there are cases where no gentlemen can force a lady to tell the truth. Churchmen, experts on ethics, and others, are inclined to agree with the judge. The case apparently involved the lady's reputation.

There is little defense for lying, and there little defense for telling the truth when silence would be kinder. There is always truth somewhere, and it is not to be tampered with. But there is also the good taste and the generosity of silence.

We of this world do not live all the time inside the trenches of either right or wrong. Much of our lives we spend out in no man's land, meeting situations as they come as best we can.

FILLING THE WOOD BOX

Says the Nomad in the Boston Transcript: " Any boy who has bent his back over a saw-horse, and strained all his muscles with great armfuls of wood for domestic consumption winter after winter, throughout the period, say, from his tenth to his seventeenth year, has laid a foundation for persistence in a pre-eminent duty which will make him an industrious citizen all the rest of his life."

It's a source of unhappiness in our youth that we can't know what is good for us. Few boys who carried in wood night after night, to say nothing of those who had to split it, looked upon their experience as having any value. It was drudgery. And yet, today, the question is raised whether the modern boy has many things as effective for the building of character as the old-fashioned wood box.

Let's not say today's boys are as good as yesterday's but they they have to arrive at character by a different method.

EXPRESSION

Consequently or unconsciously, the thing we are most after is some kind of self-expression. We want, somehow, to do the thing we want to do. Some people interpret that urge as meaning that it is natural and normal for them to do everything they desire to do with very little restriction. But self-expression does not mean the right to do everything one wishes to do. Expression can come through many channels. It is our business to find the channel which in every way is best for ourselves and best for society as a whole.

The World And All

ITEMS

Eddie Cantor's book, "Caught Short," is having a good Christmas sale among those who lost in the stock market crash and have been wondering where to find a nice, cheap Christmas present. It is published by Simon & Schuster, and I do not find it very funny.

H. L. Mencken has a habit of enclosing some tract or pamphlet when he writes to personal acquaintances. The latest I have received from him is a ten-page tract by F. H. Rossiter, entitled, "Is Tobacco-Using a Sin?" It is issued by the No-Tobacco league, of Butler, Ind.

The youngest looking father of six children is Schuyler L. Marshall, a Michigan newspaper publisher. And the most striking name for a newspaper is the Eccentric, published by George R. Averill, at Birmingham, Mich.

About 400,000 Americans, born in America, are living abroad, 20,000 of them in Paris, I read in Harper's Bazaar. But I am not greatly worried by this sad news. I've known some of these expatriated Americans, and I've found them about the unhappiest of all humans. Every country has its own advantages and attractions, but America has so many more good points than any other country that no American can ever be fully contented in a permanent residence abroad.

The most polite and efficient hotel clerk I have ever met is Anselmo Mugica, concierge at the Hotel Biarritz, San Sebastian, Spain. He has a peculiarly difficult job, since guests of all nations are constantly lining up before his desk and asking questions. He is a Basque, and he speaks nine languages fluently. He expresses pleasure about almost anything by smiling, bowing and saying "Magnifico!" That seems to be a good word in any language, and it means whatever the guest wants it to mean.

There's much talk about the low-grade reading matter that is being turned out by printing presses. I've been reading Edmund Pearson's book, "Dime Novels," published by Little, Brown. It gives many extracts and pictures from the "literature" of the nineties. It's my opinion that the reading public of today would scorn such trash. Also, that there's more high-grade reading matter being sold for small prices today than ever before.

Those who live in glass houses should not throw parties. Or, as a concession to the feelings of late home-going prohibition agents, they should pull the shades. Thus I meditate, passing along the streets that are lined with apartment houses, all lighted up and full of guests that are likewise.

ANOTHERW ORLD UPLIFT MOVEMENT GETS UNDER WAY

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

"All you have told me about my own skin is most interesting, but I'm really much more interested in my daughter than in myself. I wonder if you could help her?" said Mrs. Evans, after her first beauty interview with me.

"I shall be very happy, indeed, to help your daughter, Mrs. Evans," I said. "But you should not lose interest in you. own appearance! So many mothers make the mistake of neglecting themselves, and then feel hurt when their children are a little bit ashamed of them. Yet that is only natural, for young folks, especially, love beauty. Instinctively they are drawn to it. Haven't you ever seen a school boy with a beautiful mother? How proud he is when he introduces her to the other boys! And have you even been to a college commencement? I have two sons in college, and I love to attend college functions—to watch the other boys. How proud they are when anyone says: 'Your mother? Why, she looks like your sister!' But to get back to your daughter, Mrs. Evans, tell me."

"She is such a pretty girl," said Mrs. Evans. "Or at least she would be if her skin were not so oily. And blackheads—she just can't seem to get rid of them; and even worse, of late she has been bothered with pimples—quite a lot of them—red and unsightly. She is terribly sensitive about it, and very unhappy. This is her first year at college, and I do hate to have it spoiled. How can she get rid of these blemishes?"

"So many, many girls and boys are plagued with acne," I said. "It is really the bane of youth. The first thing is to watch the general health. At adolescence the body is undergoing serious changes, and mothers should see that their children have good, simple, wholesome food, not too rich, and not too many sweets!

"Encourage your daughter to take all the outdoor exercise possible. Swimming, canoeing, rowing and long hikes, all are excellent. Dancing is good, too, but not too late! She needs plenty of sleep with windows opened wide. And she should give her skin special attention. Before going to bed, she should wash her face with a medicated acne soap and smooth on a film of medicated acne cream. This cream does not melt, but leaves a healing mask over the face throughout the night. In the morning wash it off with a special pore paste, and once or twice a week with little beauty grains that free the pores of all impurities and dissolve the blackheads. If she will do this, very, very soon she will see a decided improvement—and you will see that the sensitiveness and inferiority complex will vanish! But she will need you as an example, Mrs. Evans, so do take care of your skin, too."

"Recently the extraction of all, or nearly all, of the patient's teeth has enjoyed tremendous popularity.

"Possibly the operating table is something of an American fashion.

"On the other hand, possibly others' objections to it may only be their own particular preference in fashions."

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3—Secretary of War James W. Good died because he was not operated on soon enough.

He was operated on directly the doctors were aware he was ill at all, but by that time the odds were many to one against him. They realized that an operation offered only a forlorn hope, but it was all there was. It did no harm though it did no good. The secretary would have died anyway, in a few hours.

Some appendicitis cases are that way. Of discernible symptoms there are none until too late to save their victims.

It may sound foolish in an ignorant layman to raise the question. Nevertheless, even a layman can have noticed that medical science in other lands is far more reluctant to resort to it.

Their version is that they are farther advanced than doctors anywhere else on earth; thus that they are capable of accomplishing beneficent results by surgical means that the profession elsewhere is afraid to tackle.

In at least half a dozen countries I have lived in, I have talked, at one time or another, with quite a lot of them, and it was surprising how exactly their various individual estimates of the surgical trend in the United States tallied with one another.

Not that they did not speak admiringly of American surgical skill.

What they did say was that the average American patient appears literally unable to lie quietly on his back, waiting for nature, and maybe a little medicine, to restore him to health, but insists on something quicker; that the average American doctor sympathizes with them and tries to hasten matters by operating on him, and that the doctor is surprisingly successful at it, but that it is dangerous; that a lot of his operations are unnecessary and that some of them probably are fatal.

In brief, the non-American doctor appears to regard surgery as a last resort instead of the first one, as he insists that the American doctor does.

Obviously, I can furnish no clew to the identity of the American doctor, on the government's payroll, whom I sought for enlightenment on this question, from our own American standpoint, on the very day of the late Secretary Good's funeral.

Imagine how likely he would have been to express himself freely concerning his fellow American doctors' methods!—except under the most binding pledge of anonymity.

Suffice it to say that his job (if it cuold be mentioned) ought to be a sufficient guaranty, to anybody, of his competency.

To begin with, "As to the Good case," said this doctor, "there is no doubt that the war secretary's death was due to delay in the operation—not to the operation, but to the fact that it was not performed much earlier.

"It is equally true that thousands of perfectly healthy appendices are removed—and thousands more which are a little diseased, but not sufficiently to require an operation. The subjects are safer with their appendices gone; still, a needless operation is undesirable.

"Probably the knife does tempt the medical profession, on account of the immediate, definite results which it shows. A doctor knows, too, that a disease is gone permanently, if he has cut out the cause of it."

"Medicine also has its styles," continued the physician, "which change as distinctively as styles in women's dresses change.

"A appendicitis' great vogue was from about 1905 to 1915.

Today's Recipes

BAKED HAM—Wash thoroughly a ten-pound ham. Drain the ham dry and over the fleshy side sprinkle a little ground clove, a teaspoon cinnamon and one-half teaspoon ginger. Cover the ham with a very thick paste made of flour and water. Put skin side down in a roasting pan and fill with cider. Bake slowly for three hours, 300 degrees, basting often with the cider in the pan. Remove the paste and rind. An hour before the ham is to be served, return it to the baking pan, flesh side down. Brush the fat portion with beaten egg, sprinkle generously with chopped parsley and bread-crumbs and let it heat through. Make a gravy by boiling down the cider in which the ham was first roasted. If desired one cup chopped raisins and one-fourth cup vinegar may be added to the cider before boiling down for the sauce.

PUMPKIN PIE—Three cups of pumpkin, one-half cup brown sugar two teaspoons cinnamon, one teaspoon ginger, one teaspoon salt, four eggs, one-half cup molasses, three cups of milk. Add molasses to pumpkin. Mix sugar, salt, and spices together and add pumpkin. Beat eggs, add milk, combine mixtures. Pour into previously baked shell. Bake in hot oven ten minutes to set the custard, reduce heat to moderate and bake until firm, about twenty minutes. Before serving, cover top of pie with grated cheese, slip under broiler and brown. Makes two pies.

Suggestions Vitamins

The term vitamin is a group name for substances other than proteins, fats, carbohydrates and salts, which occur in minute quantities in natural foods. They have been found to be essential for normal nutrition and to be responsible for the prevention of various pathological conditions known as deficiency diseases. At present there are six vitamins the existence of which have been definitely established. They are A, B, C, D, C, E, F or B-1, and G or B-2.

For variety, add to plain or whole wheat muffin recipe one-half to three-fourths cup chopped prunes, dates or figs

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

"DEAR DOCTOR: Some time ago, I wrote you that I was Peterizing and had lost at that time 120 pounds in 13 months. I weighed myself today and have lost 35 pounds more since I wrote you. You know I weighed 350 pounds when I began reducing, and weigh 195 now. I am not losing so rapidly now, but I am feeling fine and am not wrinkling at all. My friends hardly know me. I wouldn't have all that fat back for anything. My rheumatism does not bother me any more, and I can keep going from 5 in the morning to 8 at night. I expect to continue to reduce until I am down to 150.

"I am so glad you wrote on stair climbing. I can do that now, the times I cannot get out to walk. I will never be able to thank you enough for what your column has meant to me. MRS. D."

I am glad to hear from you again, Mrs. D. and to know that you are still carrying on. With the loss of 155 pounds, you are our prize winner. That is the greatest loss we have had reported to us, in all the years I've been conducting this anti-fat campaign.

The fact that your "rheumatism" has disappeared with your loss of fat, must be very great relief to you. This very frequently happens. It is not to be wondered at, for the joints are not only strained by the unnatural excess weight that is put on them, but the resistance of the lining membranes to infections is lowered by unbalanced diet that brings on the fat, as well. As I've told before, it has been found that in many cases of rheumatism, the blood sugar content is higher than normal, and the diet that reduces this blood sugar also relieves the patient. Too much sugar in the blood is also a pre-diabetic state, and very, very frequently those who are over-weight are in this state.

In the morning's mail I have a reprint of a medical article from the Bispebjerg Hospital in Copenhagen, in which the author, Dr. Secher, emphasizes that obesity, instead being an associated condition in a number of disease which are a daily occurrence in the experience of the general practitioner. He goes on to state that treatment of these variegated affections, without treatment of the obesity is useless and accomplishes nothing.

In the Medical department of his hospital, all patients who are admitted with articular rheumatism or other diseases in which obesity plays a part, are placed at once on an "emaciation diet," for it is entirely useless to treat a symptom such as knee-joint affection without simultaneous treatment of the obesity which is the cause of the regional disturbance.

There are many other things that are brought on by excessive weight besides joint trouble: I'll repeat for the thousandth time, for the benefit of those who are just joining us, that in the overweight, heart and kidney disease, high blood pressure, apoplexy, and, yes, it is now being found out, cancer, is much more prevalent. And diabetes fully 75 per cent of those after 40 who have diabetes, are overweight before it is brought on. So you see we have very good reasons for specializing in this reduction field. While it is no doubt true that some carry reduction to an extreme, some go on freak diets, others take powerful medicines, etc., and all of these have bad effects—to the one person who is harmed in this way there are a thousand who are more harmed by continuing to overeat and pile on flesh. I have yet to hear of a case that has just been injured, how ever, by following a scientific reduction regime such as I advocate, and I am in constant receipt of letters such as your Mrs. D., telling of good results.

Our pamphlet on reducing and the articles on the Tummy Ten exercises and Chronic Joint Inflammations can be obtained by following column rules.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Dear Virginia Lee: Because you receive so many letters from unhappy married people, I thought I would like to tell you of something that happened to my husband and me, but we are still happy, though it was a hard test for our love, especially a man's.

"I am 20 years old, have been married almost two years. At times I am very sad because one of my most cherished dreams has been destroyed. All my life I have dearly loved children.

"Nearly five months ago I gave birth to a baby boy who lived only a few minutes. I didn't even see him, although I try to picture in my mind now he must have looked. I nearly lost my life, and since then I have had two serious, but unsuccessful operations from the effects of childbirth. Doctors advise me never to have any more children.

"My husband is a very patient man. Even though this was a terrible blow to him he never shows it. Many times I have been cross and irritable, but he remains the same lovable, patient husband. He does everything under the sun to make me happy.

"Even though a childless life seems hard, an unhappy married life surely must be much worse.

"We wish to extend our sympathies to all those who are not happily married.

"HAPPY LOU."

I am so sorry for your grief over the dear baby, Happy Lou, but so glad you were spared, and know that is the way your husband feels. Why not adopt a child when you feel stronger? Or better, two, as one child should not be brought up alone unless it is necessary. There are so many dear little children in the world who have no parents, that it seems a shame you and your nice husband should not have the comfort of children, and some dear little ones should not have the love and protection that you could give them.

Thank you very much for your sweet letter.

BILLY S.: I certainly do not think it was true love on the part of your boy friend, Billy. I see no connection at all between you breaking a date and his asking you such a thing. I am inclined to think you were lucky to find him out before you married him.

I don't believe in lying about dates or anything else, of course, but it certainly did not give him the right to ask such a thing of you.

If he does not come back and apologize, I feel you should try to forget him, although I know that is a thing that is glibly said and hard to do.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am an everyday reader of your column. I am 18 years of age and married. My husband is the same age.

"Now, Virginia, I love him and he seems to care for other girls. He lies to me and I catch him later, but he doesn't seem to care. I started to leave but he begged me to stay.

"I also have some pictures of other boys I've gone with before meeting him. Do you think it worth while to destroy them?

"JUST BERT.

If the pictures are making trouble in your home, I'd destroy every one, Bert dear. You are both very young, and realizing your husband is nothing but a boy, it is largely up to you to make a success of your marriage. Girls of 18 are generally older than boys the same age. Make up your mind that you will not quarrel. That you will keep happy home, that you will not let him see that you feel jealous when he "plays around" with other people, as long as he loves you. It probably does not mean a thing except that he is young and doesn't want to feel restraint.

Try to be as "wise as a serpent and as gentle as a dove," and much happiness attend you, my dear.

ONE-MINUTE PULPIT

Peter's Adventures

"HERE COMES THE MONSTER MAN!"

The boy was half afraid that Mother Beetle was going to knock one or the other of them over, and he wished that he and Biffer had gotten out of the road. He needn't have worried. Mother Beetle paid no attention to either of them. Just as she had almost reached them she turned sharply and made for the nearest hole. As she flew past Peter he heard her mutter:

"Thank goodness I am in time and the children are all at home."

She bent down over the hole and peered in.

"Child, come up," she cried. "'Tis Mother who has come to warn you." Peter, who had followed her, curious to find out what she was up to, saw the bright eyes of the little tiger grub appear at the opening.

"A horrible man is coming this way," cautioned Mother Beetle and he is hunting for tiger grubs. I heard him say so. Hook yourself to the earth and shut the door with your head so that the wicked man shall not find the hole he is looking for. Above all, do not move until I tell you that all is safe If you do he will catch you and you will never grow up to be a tiger beetle. I have come a long way to save you, so be sure that you mind what I say, baby!"

To one after another of the nest Mother Beetle hurried until she had warned all of her babies and then and only then did she notice the boy.

"Well, what are you following me about for?" she demanded. "Can't you see I am busy? I can't waste much time on you. I must look for a hiding place of my own. I don't care about being taken captive myself."

"Do you think that the man would actually harm you?" asked the boy . "Oh, is he just curious to see you."

"I am sure I don't know but there is one thing sure, and that I am not taking any chances. Good gracious, you're wasting my time and I'm risking my safety. There comes the monster now!"

During the last twenty-five years or more the game of basketball has not only become America's most popular indoor game, but has spread to all parts of the earth.

An investigation brings to light the fact that boys and girls and young men of South America, India, China, Japan, Greece, Italy, France, England and many other countries have not only taken up the game but are becoming quite proficient at playing it. Just a few years ago a team from Mexico toured this country and left with an enviable record of victories.

* * *

From time to time the question is raised of just how the game originated and in a thesis entitled "The History of College Basketball," written by Clarence Moyer, class of 1911, of Springfield College, the following facts are to be found:

The game of basketball was conceived at Springfield College during the winter of 1891-92 by Dr. James Naismith, teacher in the college. The students of the college, in their study of physical education, were searching for games that could be used indoors to replace such games as football, baseball, etc. Dr. Luther Gulick, then director of the department of physical education, discussing the game idea with his students, evolved the following requirements that this new game should embody:

1.—It should be such as could be played by a fairly large number of men at once.

2.—It should be adaptable to any kind of a play space.

3.—It should exercise a man all 'round.

4. It should be so attractive that men would desire to play it for its own sake.

5.—It should have little or none of the roughness of football.

6.—It should be easy to learn.

7.—It should be scientific enough to be interesting to old players.

With these requirements in mind Dr. Naismith invented the game of basketball which has since enjoyed tremendous growth and is a headliner in the field of competitive athletics.

* * *

At least two more games, one at home and one away, may be added to Xenia Central High School's basketball schedule for the coming season if negotiations now in progress have a satisfactory ending. This would give the Bucs a sixteen-game chart with nine home games.

Columbus North and Columbus Bexley High Schools are the schools which may appear on the schedule. The Bexley contest would probably be played at Xenia and the other game at Columbus. If the signatures of these schools can be gotten on the dotted lines of contracts the 1929-30 Buccaneer court chart will be the most attractive in many seasons.

* * *

The annual all-star Miami Valley League football teams for the 1929 season, based on the concensus of opinion of the coaches of the six member schools in the league, are expected to make their appearance Sunday in a Dayton newspaper.

It is considered probable that the backfield of the mythical first team will be composed of two Piqua High players, one from Troy and one from Xenia Central.

Xenia, which finished last in the league race without winning a game, has one candidate for a berth on the all-league eleven in the person of Joe Smittle, star fullback, whose play all season stood out like a sore thumb.

Joe will probably be found in the first team backfield along with Cron and Neth of Piqua and Hoover of Troy. It would be difficult to select another backfield combination superior to this quartet.

SIDNEY HIGH WILL PLAY TWENTY GAMES

An imposing schedule of twenty games has been arranged for Sidney High School's basketball team for the coming season. Sidney's court program opens against Bellefontaine at Sidney December 13.

The cage card is featured by two trips, one of four days and the other of two days. On successive nights during the Christmas holidays Sidney basketeers will be called upon to play at Findlay, Fremont, Garfield Heights, Cleveland, and Berea. The team will play at Upper Sandusky and Shelby January 17 and 18.

Sidney's home games in the Miami Valley League are with Xenia Central, Miamisburg and Piqua. The schedule

Dec. 13—Bellefontaine.
Dec. 19—Marysville.
Dec. 27—At Findlay.
Dec. 28—At Fremont.
Dec. 30—At Garfield Heights. (Cleveland).
Dec. 31—At Berea.
Jan 4—Kiser.
*Jan. 10—Xenia Central.
Jan. 17—At Upper Sandusky.
Jan. 18—At Shelby.
*Jan 24—At Troy.
Jan. 25—Alumni.
*Jan. 31—At Greenville.
Feb. 1—Bradford.

GLENN WARNER SAID TO HAVE RECEIVED OFFER WITH OTHERS

Lou Little Named If Georgetown Will Release Him

By DAVIS J. WALSH
I. N. S. Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—There is a story going around today that Glenn Warner, the old fox of football, can have the Russian sable of all coaching contracts, $25,000 a year, by moving his duffel from Palo Alto to Columbia University and it is a very fine story, even if it isn't right. It isn't the size of the alleged offer that makes it wrong, either. I understand that Charley Crowley got $18,000 a year for losing all day long, which, if true, would entitle Warner, on a mere offer of twenty-five, to enter suit right away for back salary. This job is the fattest morsel on the collegiate meat rack and everybody is eyeing it with a lecherous glance but they shy away from paying the price.

Mr. Warner, for instance, is known to have a hard head. He makes it a point, however, never to butt it against a stone wall and the Columbia situation is nothing if not discouraging. They persist in getting coaches for their football teams instead of getting football teams for their coaches.

As a matter of probability, I don't mind saying that the coach they are likely to get this time is not Mr. Warner, who I understand was considered briefly — without troubling to ask his consent, as it happens. Nor is it likely to be Dick Hanley, of Northwestern.

They had two conferences with Richard and, so far as I can discover, neither of them "took."

The coach they are likely to get is Lou Little, of Georgetown, and even this seems to have a catch in it. As I understand it, Little is under contract at Georgetown and will have to get a waiver of the latter's rights before he can tear those documents down the middle.

Anyhow, one has to admit that they don't cramp themselves when they start thinking about coaches at Columbia. Even when they have to think about somebody else's coach. Long before Crowley was informed that he could go forth and do his losing elsewhere, they were busy "hiring" Warner, Doc Spears, of Minnsota; Hanley and others. Then somebody discovered that Purdue was winning football games and Jimmy Phelan was added to the list, probably much to James' astonishment. In fact, the only thing that stopped them from deciding that Rockne would make a pretty good coach is that they reached that conclusion some years ago and lived to regret it.

Rockne, in fact, did listen to them on that occasion. Possibly his eyes told him much more than his ears heard but, anyhow, he declined to go through when all of the cards were supposed to be on the table and took the next train to South Bend, where it is rumored he was well and favorably received.

They aimed high when they "sighted" at Rockne but no higher than they had done some years before in scoring a direct hit with the late Percy Haughton. This cold, reserved man was as famous in his time as Rockne is today but he couldn't win a marble game at Columbia and ultimately died in harness. So the great hunt for the million-dollar coach was on again and is on to this day.

They will put the cart before the horse and I don't mean cart at all. This cart, as a matter of fact, is a coach.

By JACK VINCENT
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

COLUMBUS, Dec. 5. —Selections for the 1929 mythical all-Ohio football team, which comprises the cream of the state's gridiron talent, were announced today by the International News Service, which was assisted in its choice by Buckeye state coaches. They follow:

First Team		School
Sigenthaler	l e	Ohio Wes.
Hutson	l t	Heidelberg
Nieberg	l g	Ohio Wes.
Edwards	c	Wittenberg
Papritan	r g	Ohio Uni.
Griffiths	r t	Ohio Uni.
Brammer	r e	Ohio Uni.
Wertz	q b	Ohio Wes.
Kepler	l h	Ohio Uni.
Novotony	r h	Ashland
McEwen	f b	Muskingum
Second Team		School
Marty	l e	Wittenberg
Trubey	l t	Wittenberg
Dost	l g	Cincinnati
Baker	c	Ashland
Zarna	r g	Wittenberg
Peele	r e	Cincinnati
Singer	q b	Ohio Uni.
Vokaty	l h	Heidelberg
Thomas	r h	Ohio Wes.
Young	f b	Ohio Uni.

A goodly supply of midnight oil was burned and much time was spent by this scribe in pouring over the data which supplied the selections. Some dissenting opinion may be expressed and some dissatisfied feeling may result, but they will be as naught compared to the mental agony of the writer in making the choices.

Sigenthaler and Brammer are admittedly the best ends in the state. The Ohio Wesleyan star—he is that—was honored by being placed on the all-Ohio team last year and he outdid himself during the season just passed. Brammer, of Ohio University, contributed more than his share to the Bobcats' half-a-point a minute team and their marvelous record of a perfect season.

Hutson and Griffiths as tackles represent the best of the gridders who cavorted their pigskin wares on Ohio moleskin fields this season.

Papritan, another of Ohio University's stars, showed the best guard material. Coupled with Nieberg, of Wesleyan, they would make a pair of huskies which would do any team proud.

Wertz, of Ohio Wesleyan, was the unanimous choice for the quarterback berth among the coaches who were questioned by International News Service.

Novotony and Kepler, the halfback men on the first team, showed par excellence. Novotony, the Ashland ball toter, held the individual scoring honors in the state and Kepler was the best of Don Peden's record setting squad.

McEwen, of Muskingum, drew the fullback position because of his all-around ability. He can pass, kick and run. He is a strong defensive man, and he was in a large share responsible for the eastern Ohio team completing a perfect season in the Ohio conference. With a team like Ohio University, McEwen, or "Curly" as his friends call him, would probably have given an even more stellar performance.

There are many other players who deserve honorable mention. Every man should get his just due. So in accordance, a number of gridders who should thus have their names in print, follow:

Ends—Cramer, Ohio University; Raber, Mt. Union; Wraster, Ashland; Laird and Novotyn, Oberlin; Bilton, Muskingum; O'Brien, St. Xavier; Halpin, Miami; Swanson, Kenyon and Chapman, Bowling Green.

Quarterbacks—Sidinger, Cincinnati; Saxe, Western Reserve; Nelson, Wooster; Frye, Akron; Paetznick, Wittenberg; Games, Miami; Bickle, Muskingum.

CEDARVILLE OPENS WITH VICTORY OVER ANTIOCH FIVE 46-28

Center Smith Stars; Scores 22 Points Against Foe

Cedarville College's basketball team inaugurated its schedule with a convincing 46 to 28 victory over Antioch College's Division "A" quintet, Wednesday night at Alford gymnasium in Cedarville.

The "Yellow-Jackets" led at the half, 17 to 11 but drew away rapidly in the second half, outscoring Antioch 29 to 17 in the second semester of the contest.

It was the meteor-like darts of Smith, star Cedarville center and acting captain, that sent his team's total skyward like a rocket. Smith collected twenty-two points, including ten field goals and two free throws. He tallied nineteen points in the second half. The remainder of the Cedarville scoring was divided between the forward pair, Allen and Turner, the former scoring fourteen points and the latter, ten.

Antioch's scoring was about evenly apportioned between five players, Rhodes, a forward, registered seven points.

Two complete teams were used by both sides. Lineups:

GRIDDERS DINED AT CENTRAL

XENIA Central High School's 1929 football season is over—including the shouting.

The shouting was provided at the annual testimonial banquet sponsored by girls of the senior class in the school cafeteria Wednesday night at which members of the football squad were honored guests.

Following a dinner served at 6 o'clock, a number of impromptu speeches were heard. The principal speaker was Charles A. Bone, member of the city board of education, who pointed out that when the time comes for the boys to make their own way in the world it will be of no use for them to look for a substitute to take their place. Principal F. R. Woodruff and Coach Walter "Pinky" Wilson also gave short talks.

Blazing Trail on Bottom of World

Carrying the Stars and Stripes to the bottom of the world by air, as he has already carried them to the top, Commander Richard E. Byrd set out on Thanksgiving Day in his successful flight across the South Pole. The daring explorer and his crew used the tri-motored airplane Floyd Bennett, named after Byrd's companion on the famous North Pole flight in 1926. Commander Byrd was accompanied in his flight by (top row left to right) Captain Ashley C. McKinley, who is the aerial photographer of the expedition over the ice-covered continent. (Center) Commander Byrd, Harold I. June, radio operator. The tri-motored plane Floyd Bennett. (Bottom row) Bernt Balchen, noted Norwegian pilot, who piloted Commander Byrd in his trans-Atlantic flight of June 29, 1927. Part of the 5,000,000 square miles of Antarctics, of which less than 100 squares miles is not covered by ice of immense thickness.

ALL'S READY FOR GENE TUNNEY'S NEXT "BATTLE"

Gene Tunney might have won the world's heavyweight championship battles with just his fists, but he has an array of legal talent to contest Mrs. Katherine King Fogarty's $500,000 breach of promise suit at Bridgeport, Conn. Mrs. Fogarty is coming from Texas, Gene and Mrs. Tunney from Italy. Above is the ancient Fairfield county courthouse at Bridgeport, scene of the "battle." To the upper left is Gene, himself, and lower left, Mrs. Fogarty; lower center is Judge Frank L. Wilder of Bridgeport, who will second Mrs. Fogarty legally, being chief of her counsel; and lower right is Mrs. Tunney.

Awarded $25,000 For Loss of Her Hair

Award of $25,000 for loss of hair and scalp injuries was granted Regina Kaplan in Supreme Court, New York. In her suit against a beauty salon, she asserted that celluloid combs used to treat her hair ignited under heat of electric dryer. Doctors say victim's hair is permanently destroyed.

Man in the Green Hat

Head McManus Counsel Juror's Former Lawyer

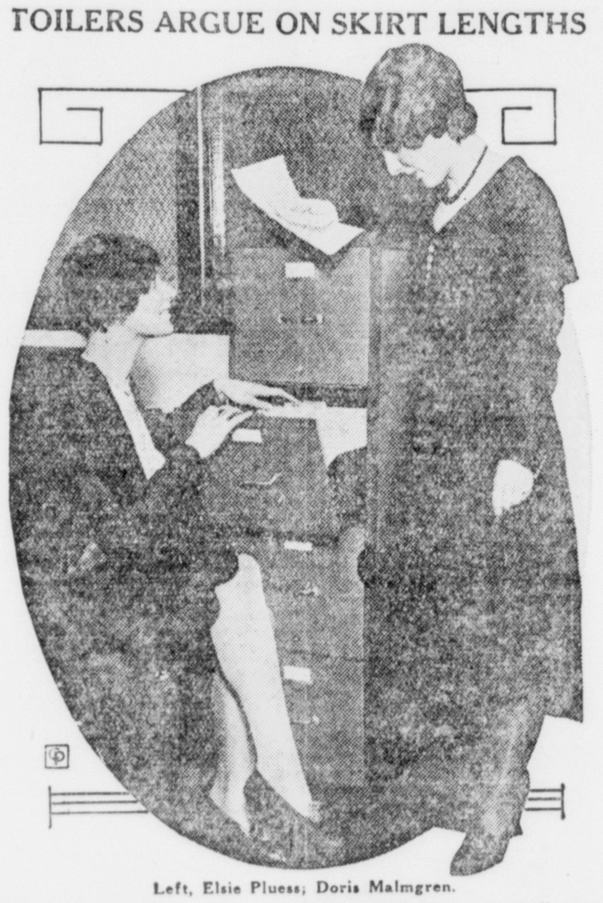

Norris Smith, juror in the McManus trial, who, it has been revealed, was mysteriously shot twice in his apartment in February, 1929. Murray, chief counsel for McManus in the Rothstein case, was attorney for Joseph Monahan, charged with shooting Smith.

SON OF GOVERNOR TAKES BRIDE

Two prominent West Virginia families were united when Miss Gertrude Laing, of Charlestown, W. Va., became the bride of James S. Conley, son of Governor William G. Conley. Mrs. Conley is a graduate of National Park seminary and the governor's son of West Virginia university and Harvard law school.

Shall Toiling Tillie continue to wear a short skirt, or shall she lengthen it according to the present mode? That is the argument which the business girl is trying to settle. Elsie Pluess, short skirt advocate, laughs at Doris Malmgren because her long skirt got tangled in a file cabinet at the National Business show at Chicago recently.

Operatic Shoemaker Toils and Sings In National Capital Musicales

COMPLETE FEMININITY IS EXPRESSED IN MODE

McCormick's Doctor, Freudian Disciple, Gets $300 a Day

The controversy which has brought attorneys and medical experts from all parts of the world in connection with the fight for custodian of Stanley McCormick's $50,000,000 estate, hinges largely on the employment of Dr. Edward J. Kempf, New York neurologist (above) and ardent disciple of Sigmund Freud, Vienna psychologist and originator of psychoanalysis. In the thirty months since Dr. Kempf has been in charge of Stanley McCormick, he has received $10,000 a month.

Freak Will Heir

If 22-year-old Jean Murray, above, of San Bernardino, Cal., does not ever attend movies or dances, wear jewelry or gold, use make-up of any kind, bob her hair, or wear short skirts, she will receive the income from $2,000, which probably will total about $9 a month. This is the provision of the will of her grandfather, John Quincy Murray.

Mysterious Killing

They Leaped Into Matrimony

Mayflower, Yacht of Five Presidents, May Become Official New York Yacht

Mayor Walker soon may pace the decks of the Mayflower, where the feet of five Presidents have trod. The Mayor confirmed the report that wealthy friends are negotiating for the purchase of the Mayflower. If the deal goes through, the yacht will supplant the Macom as New York City's official welcoming yacht. (Upper) Ex-President Coolidge, President Hoover, Mayor James J. Walker, of New York. (Lower) The historic yacht which President Hoover has discarded as too costly.

Social Leader's Views on Society

"Society dosen't deserve the adulation it gets," declared Mrs. Sigourney Thayer, who was the former Mrs. W. H. Vanderbilt and also the former Mrs. Douglas Parmenter. She adds, "Neither does it deserve so many thrusts." Mrs. Thayer gave at a recent interview many interesting ideas concerning social life.

FOUR ARRESTED IN SERIES OF DRY RAIDS HERE ON WEDNESDAY

A series of sudden raids directed against bootlegging activities in Greene County, and based on information furnished by three "under cover" dry agents employed by Prosecuting Attorney J. Carl Marshall, resulted in the arrest Wednesday of five colored men on liquor law violation charges.

The raids, made in Xenia and Yellow Springs, were conducted by G. A. Baynham and O. P. Davis, state prohibition inspectors from Columbus, the three "under cover" agents and deputies of the sheriff's office.

Those taken into custody Wednesday were: James Jackson, 834 E. Church St., James Banks, Xenia, Charley Cassell, Yellow Springs; Cassell Dodge, Springfield, and W. J. Sims, High St., Yellow Springs, all colored.

An affidavit filed against Banks charges him with selling liquor to Harry Sager, one of the agents employed to investigate liquor activities in the county.

Jackson will face a charge of possessing liquor and a possible charge of selling liquor following a raid on his home in which a pint of corn whiskey and a small quantity of home brew is said to have been confiscated.

Authorities visited Yellow Springs in the afternoon and arrested Cassell and Dodge in a raid on a pool room operated by Melville Jackson, colored. The two men were employed at the establishment.

A search of Dodge's car in the rear of the building is said to have revealed twelve empty half-pint bottles and Dodge is also accussed of ownership of a pint of liquor uncovered when the raiders searched a hay mow in a garage in the rear of the place. A small quantity of home brew was found when W. J. Sims' home was raided, it was said.

Sheriff Ohmer Tate, Deputy Sheriff George Sugden and L. A. Davis, county road patrolman, completed the raiding party.

The four men in custody are expected to be arraigned in Common Pleas or Probate Court Thursday.

Armed with a search warrant issued in Common Pleas Court, authorities also raided the Kosy Korner Restaurant, E. Main St., but came away empty-handed.

Three other affidavits are also on file in Common Pleas Court against suspects who have not been taken into custody.

DR. MESSENGER TO HEAD MEDICAL BODY PHYSICIANS DECIDE

DR. H. C. MESSENGER

Dr. H. C. Messenger was elected president of the Greene County Medical Society, succeeding Dr. A. N. Vandeman of Spring Valley, at the annual business meeting of the society at the Court House, Thursday morning.

Dr. W. C. Marshall, Yellow Springs was elected vice-president; Dr. Marshall Best, Xenia, re-elected secretary and treasurer; Dr. A. N. Vandemen to serve on the board of censors succeeding Dr. M. I. Marsh of Cedarville; Dr. R. H. Grube, delegate to the Ohio State Medical Society convention to be held in May and Dr. L. L. Taylor of Yellow Springs, alternate. Mrs. Pearl Wittenmyer, county health nurse was re-elected assistant secretary.

The society voted to urge the public to use only pasteurized milk and to urge city commissioners to pass an ordinance requiring that all milk be pasteurized. A copy of the ordinance the society will support will be published later. The medical society is taking a stand in the subject of pasteurized milk because of the occurrence of many cases of Malta fever in Greene County and adjoining counties.

CHRISTMAS SEALS OFFERED AT BOOTHS

With permission of the Xenia Community Chest organization Christmas seals will be sold in Xenia at three booths to be located in the business section of the city between December 16 and December 21, it is announced by the Greene County Health League.

The county-wide Christmas seal sale, exclusive of Xenia, was inaugurated November 28 and will continue until December 21.

It is pointed out, however, that Xenians desiring to purchase the seals before the booths are opened here December 16 may communicate with the following persons: Mrs. S. M. McKay, phone number 1034R; Mrs. Rayburn McClellan, phone number 88; Mrs. J. H. Benbow, 1224R, or Mrs. J. J. Stout, 1029.

RISING SUN BANK IS ROBBED OF $2,000

BOWLING GREEN, O., Dec. 5.—For the second time within three months, an employe of the state bank at Rising Sun, fifteen miles southeast of here, was today held up and robbed of $2,000 by three armed bandits.

The bank was robbed on October 2 and loot of $3,600 was then obtained.

McMANUS CASE DISMISSED BY COURT; ACCUSED MAN GOES FREE

CRIMINAL COURT ROOM, New York, Dec. 5.—George A. McManus walked out of the court here today a free man, when Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., presiding, dismissed the indictment against McManus charging him with the murder of Arnold Rothstein because of "lack of evidence."

The judge said the state had failed to produce evidence linking McManus with the crime and that he, therefore, took the responsibility of the verdict from the hands of the jury.

McM[illegible] was warmly congratulated [illegible] friends as he left the courtroom. He walked over to where his wife sat with his sister and kissed both of them. He left the Criminal Courts Building amid a booming of flashlights.

The courtroom was thronged when the session opened this morning, many women being among the spectators.

Assistant District Attorney George N. Brothers addressed the court saying the state had decided not to call its remaining witnesses, including two pistol experts, because the prosecution believed that the court's remarks yesterday that their evidence would only be "cumulative" and would not directly connect the defendant with the crime were "sound." Consequently, at 10:45 a. m., the state had rested its case.

Defense Attorney James D. C. Murray promptly arose and said: "Your honor I move that the indictment against this defendant be dismissed on the ground that the state has failed to produce evidence connecting this defendant with the alleged crime."

WOMAN INJURED BY AUTO IN DAYTON

Mrs. R. M. Fox, whose husband is pastor of the Clifton Presbyterian Church, was removed to her home Thursday from Miami Valley Hospital, Dayton, where she was taken late Wednesday morning after being knocked down by an automobile at Main and Third Sts., in Dayton. An x-ray taken Wednesday night revealed no broken bones. Her back was slightly injured and she suffered bruises.

The Rev. Mr. Fox, who is also moderator of the Dayton Presbytery, was in Dayton attending a presbytery meeting when he received word of his wife's accident. Mrs. Fox was crossing Third St. when she was struck by the machine.

OHIO HEALTH CHIEF DIES IN COLUMBUS

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 5.—Dr. Jackson A. Frank, chief of the division of hygiene of the state department of health, died in University hospital here today as the result of an illness of more than six months. The immediate cause of death was acute nephritis. Dr. Frank was 48 years of age.

He is the third member of the state health department to die within the last fourteen months. Fred Berry, chief of the division of laboratories and one of the outstanding health laboratory men in the country, died in October, 1928, following an illness closely related to that which claimed Dr. Frank. Dr. Chandler P. Robbins, chief of the division of comunicable diseases, was taken by a heart attack on May 4, of this year.

HOLD CHRISTMAS FESTIVAL FOR MONTH

It started this week when downtown decorations were completed, lights turned on and stores will have special exhibitions of Christmas merchandise.

The state house will be the center of the downtown decorations. Work of installing varicolored lights there has been completed.

Evergreen trees, red and green bells, tinsel and holly wreaths will be used.

The big event of the celebration will be the arrival of Santa Claus, who will occupy an ice igloo at the west approach to the state house, Dec. 10. There will be peep holes all the way around the igloo so that children may look in and see toyland he is preparing.

EAST HIGH NOTES

The ninth grade is now considered "full-fledged" students of East Wednesday, November 27.

A Thanksgiving program was given in the study hall Wednesday November 27, showing the unlimited talent of several students.

Mr. Maurice Jones, coach at East High School, has been absent for a few days on account of illness.

In order to make the luncheon hour of parents and pupils more uniform, the schools are being dismissed fifteen minutes earlier for luncheon.

"KONJOLA ONLY MEDICINE THAT DID ANY GOOD"

Toledo Lady Had Sought In Vain For Relief — Found It Quickly Through New Medicine.

"Konjola is the only medicine that did any good, and I tried scores of them," said Mrs. D. L. Barker, 76 Walbridge Ave., Toledo, Ohio. "I was weak, nervous, run-down and completely exhausted for two years. After every meal my stomach bloated and filled with gas. I derived little nourishment from what I was able to digest, and I lost in weight and vitality. I tried medicine after medicine, but none touched the spot.

MRS. D. L. BARKER

"A friend highly recommended Konjola. Well, Konjola certainly proved to be all and more than she said it was. Konjola lost no time in getting to the very source of my troubles. In two weeks I realized that, at last, I had found the right medicine. I am feeling better than in years; better than I ever hoped to feel again, and I owe this all to Konjola."

Konjola is a new and different medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices and roots and herbs long known for their medicinal value. Konjola works quickly and thoroughly at the very root, the fount of the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and of rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. Konjola is not designed to give mere temporary relief, but to bring new, glorious and lasting health.

Everyone enjoyed a bountiful supper. The program consisted of parts taken by the girls, their president presiding, and a very pleasing talk given by Miss Carrie Reynolds, of Springfield Y. W. C. A.

Prof. C. C. Eckman and family, spent the Thanksgiving holidays with relatives in the southern part of the state.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Swaby and daughter, Miss Olive Coe, Mrs. Mary Tobias and family and Miss Cornelia Bradfute, spent Thanksgiving day with Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Coe of Yellow Springs. Rev. and Mrs. W. T. McKinney and Esther, of near Cincinnati weer also guests.

The Presbyterian Ladies Aid will meet with Mrs. Fred Estle at her home on next Wednesday at 2 p. m.

Mr. Mac Harris spent the Thanksgiving holidays with his parents.

Mrs. Martha Dailey has been very ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Omar Sparrow for the past week.

Mrs. Rachel Wragg of this village, gave a very interesting talk on Clifton as it was sixty years ago before the Greene County Historical Society at Xenia, last Saturday afternoon.

Clifton Presbyterian Church is honored to have its pastor, Rev. Ralph M. Fox, preside at two of the meetings to be held Tuesday, Dec. 10th, 1929 at Westminster Church, Dayton, at which Dr. Cleland B. McAfee, of Caicago, moderator of the General Assembly, will be the guest of honor. Rev. Mr. Fox is at present moderator of Dayton Presbytery.

Mr. Dan Aultman, of Batavia, O., and Mrs. H. C. Aultman, Xenia, visited Miss Florence White last Saturday.

Miss Ruth Collins spent Thanksgiving with her sister, Mrs. Choate at Toledo, Ohio.

Mr. H. H. Kelly, of Detroit, Mich. spent the Thanksgiving holidays with his sister, Mrs. J. G. C. Webster. He sails on Dec. 6th for a trip around the world in the interest of the Hudson Motor Co.

The Young People of the United Presbyterian Church will hold a social at the home of Miss Frances Stover next Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Mary Collins and Robert spent Thanksgiving with her son, William and wife in Columbus, O.

The committee of Clifton Week Day Bible School announces a cafeteria supper to be held in the opera house, Wednesday, Dec. 4th at 6 o'clock. There will be a program at 8 o'clock consisting of music by a quartet and a Biblical drama put on by members of the Bible School.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

A GLORIFIED CLEAR SKIN

A clear, smooth, lovely skin enhances personal attractiveness! More happiness and friends may depend upon it.

The way to the skin is through the blood. Rich, red, healthy blood nourishes the body and aids in protecting it against infection and disease.

S.S.S.

If you are one of the embarrassed—and men are not exceptions—with skin blemishes that linger, and sometimes leave scars, you will want to possess body power to clear up your skin.

Millions of people have taken advantage of the wonderful medicinal properties in S.S.S. It gives to Nature what it needs to build you up so that your system may throw off the cause.

When your system is filled with rich, red blood, the body's power of resistance to infection and disease is raised. Your appetite should improve. Firm flesh should take the place of that which was once flabby. You should sleep soundly. You should feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

Take S.S.S. daily at mealtime. It promotes healthy body building. Seek energy, vitality and a clear skin through the great blood tonic which is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs and has stood the test for over 100 years.

All good drug stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

A Clear Skin Comes From Within

THERE IS ONE THING CERTAIN . . .

If the hosts of people who own George Steck pianos not only in America, England, France, Germany and Australia where it is produced, but all over the world where it is sold—could have found a better piano for the price—they would not have purchased the George Steck—Considering that you may purchase a dainty "Grand Petite" for $785, is there any wonder that the George Steck has entered so many thousands of homes, both here and abroad?

Xmas Price $130

Outstanding in value is this new Eveready AC Radio Set (Console) Model 42. No finer radio instrument has ever been designed to sell at a popular price. It is built to meet a definite demand and to give a lifetime of superb reception. The lines of the cabinet are quiet and the ornamentation is restrained so that this model will not clash with period or other types of furniture. A richly carved open grille beautifully finishes this pleasing walnut cabinet.

This model employs the regular Eveready Radio Set chassis which is used in all the AC models.

Console Model 43

Old Price $217.50
Allowance 60.00

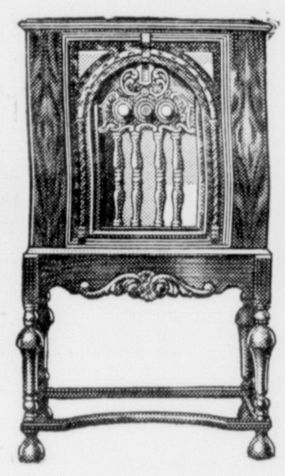

Xmas Price $157.50

The Eveready AC Radio Set (Console) Model 43 is fashioned of walnut in beautifully matched veneers with delicate carving. This console is marvelously balanced in a skillful combination of exact proportion and design. The front is paneled and carved with bands of running ornament.

Two sliding doors open upon an interior even more beautiful and interesting than the exterior. Special designed control knobs and escutcheon plate add to its attractiveness and are evidence of the thoroughness with which all the designs have been carried out. This cabinet is not only beautiful in itself but is of a type which will go well with the rest of the furnishings.

This model employs the regular Eveready Radio Set chassis which is used in all the AC Models of the line.

Console Model 44

Old Price $247.50
Allowance 70.00

Xmas Price $177.50

The Eveready AC Radio Set (Console) Model 44 is a specially fine example of the cabinet maker's art in design and material.

This model, finished in walnut, is distinguished for its simplicity in cabinet design. It becomes a part of the well arranged living room of moderate size, yet is not lost in a spacious drawing room of the most palatial home.

The sliding doors, concealing the controls and loudspeaker grille, open upon an interior which is in harmony with the exterior.

To those who demand the combination of the best in cabinet as well as reception this model will hold the greatest appeal.

This model employs the regular Eveready Radio Set chassis which is used in all the AC models of the line.

XMAS PRICE $120

In this Eveready AC Radio Set Table Model 31, the owner not only will be assured of receiving true radio reception, already recognized as Eveready quality, but also will have a beautiful piece of the cabinet maker's art—worthy to take its place with other fine furniture in the home. Finished in real American walnut, it is a truly handsome cabinet.

Dignified ornamentation and graceful lines complete the effect of well balanced proportions without sacrificing compactness which is so desirable where room space is limited.

On account of its adaptability to a variety of styles in interior furnishings many people will prefer this model and will install it on their "favorite" table.

This model contains the same radio set chassis that is employed in all the other AC models. This set is equipped with a $45 Eveready Dynamic Speaker.

TO ADDRESS LUTHER LEAGUE GATHERING

Aubrey Bowen, New Amsterdam, British Guiana, will deliver an address at the regular meeting of the Luther League of the First Lutheran Church, Sunday at 6:15 p. m. He is a British citizen and is one of the young Lutherans from that English territory who is studying in this country.

Bowen had a scholarship which will enable him to study at Wittenberg College, Springfield, for seven years. He is now enrolled in the arts college as a freshman, is a member of the Cosmopolitan Club and has been actively engaged in speaking before various Lutheran bodies for the past three months. English is his favorite language and he speaks it almost without an accent. The natives of British Guiana have their own language and in addition there is a corrupted English that is spoken. Bowen speaks all three, but claims he has considerable difficulty at times in keeping his English genuine.

The young South American is of Hindu parentage. His father and mother migrated from East India shortly after they were married in the Brahman caste. They were converted to Christianity soon after their arrival in British Guiana. Most of their education was obtained in the Lutheran school in New Amsterdam.

Young Aubrey seemed the most promising of all of the children in the family and through the efforts of Rev. Harlow E. Haas, a Lutheran missionary from the United States, the lad was encouraged to come to Wittenberg to receive his academic education. He arrived in Springfield in August.

While in his native country, Bowen attended the Hindu school and later the grade schools where he learned to read and write English. His scholarship in Wittenberg was given to him by Dr. Rees Edgar Tulloss, president of the institution. After the completion of his theological studies in the Seminary, he will return to his native country to do regular mission work.

Bowen tells incidents and stories of his life and what he has seen in an exquisite and interesting manner. He plays cricket well, likes American football and is one of the few foreign students who is able to really appreciate this collegiate sport. He declines to play now because of other pressing activities, but intends to learn it so that he will be able to appreciate it still more.

According to another story, a male person is not a "real man" in British Guiana until he has climbed to the top of a cocoanut palm tree. Bowen is proud of the fact that he is a "real man" in this respect. His other sports include fishing and hunting alligators. The latter he says is one of the most popular sports of the boys in their 'teen age." No firearms are used and further masculinity is judged when no club or weapon is used in capture of these aquatic creatures. These are only a few of the numerous and interesting yarns that this young student tells.

The local Luther League is spending every effort to obtain such persons as speakers in order that the people of the church may be better acquainted with the missionary endeavors of the Lutheran church in foreign lands. Miss Helen Nichols will be chairman of the meeting Sunday evening.

Believes Woman Will Head England

Ellen Wilkinson, M. P., believes that the next generation will witness a woman Prime Minister in Great Britain. She says that women politicians must plunge deeper into politics than ever before. And asserts that a woman in office in Downing Street will be the most natural thing in the world.

HOT LUNCHES

In the interest of both better manners and better digestions, home demonstration agents in twenty counties of Ohio, extension specialists with the Ohio State University, and numbers of community organizations of women are co-operating in the maintenance of better hot school lunches in the rural and village schools of the state.

"The school lunch can and should be the means of teaching good food habits," say the nutrition specialists. "Boys and girls often learn to eat foods never eaten before, when they find that to have a good food habits score they must eat certain beneficial foods every day. They will cheerfully refrain from coffee and tea when they find that they must deduct ten points from their score for each cup. They will quit grumbling about food when points are deducted for doing so and will learn to eat all food. They will not refuse breakfast when going without it means a twenty-point reduction. A ten-point penalty for eating sweets or knicknacks between meals encourages them to save the sweet for the end of the meal, when it should be eaten."

Food habits score cards can be obtained by parents and teachers from the agricultural extension service of the Ohio State University here. Plans for establishing hot school lunches or serving hot dishes with school lunches, are available through the nutrition specialists of the same service, or from county home demonstration agents. "Hot dishes are easily prepared, inexpensive, and can be arranged for in almost any rural school in Ohio," say the specialists.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

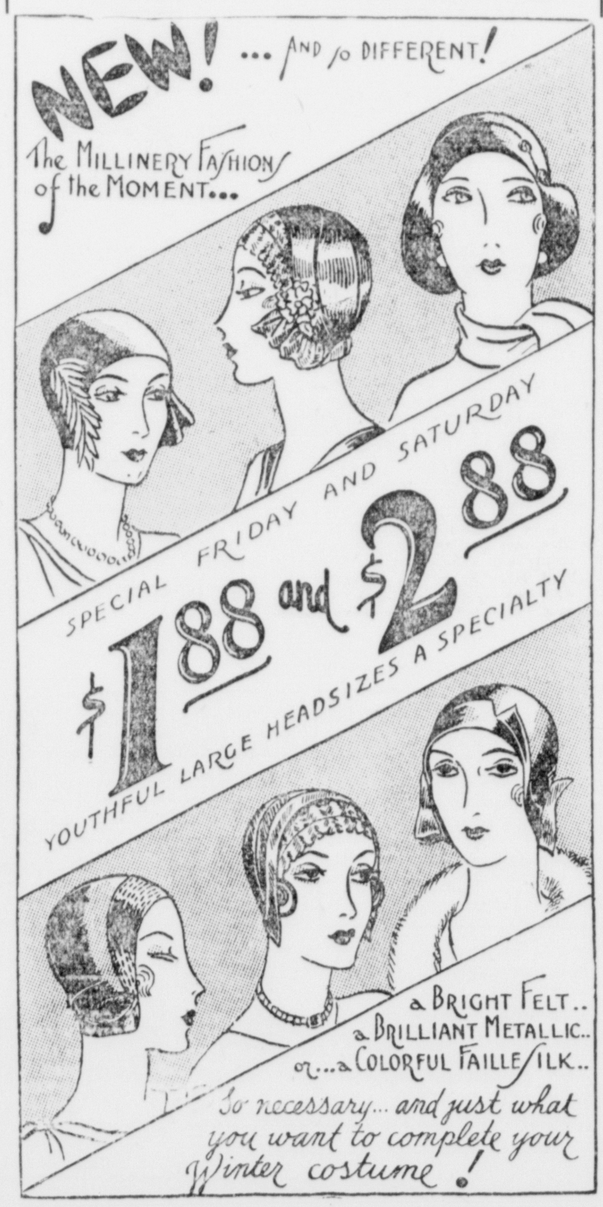

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

JOBE'S

Miss Winters has returned to Dayton for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Austin, of Ft. Thomas, Ky., spent Thanksgiving day with Mr. Austin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Austin.

Mr. and Mrs. William Huston were Thanksgiving day guests of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wetzel.

Mrs. Rosalie Morris and her brother, Spencer Swigart, spent a few days here with their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bevington.

It is reported that the bus line will discontinue operation in a short time.

WILBERFORCE

Wilberforce W. C. T. U. held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. G. I. Holand Monday at 7:30 p. m. with a large attendance. There were five visitors, each enrolled as members. New members are as follows: Mrs. Arminta Young, Mrs. Caldwell, Mrs. Motley, Mrs. Merchant and Miss Rilda Phelps. Business of importance was transacted. Mrs. Holland, evangelist, offered special prayer for the sick in the neighborhood.

A relief offering was taken. The December meeting will be held on the second Tuesday with Mrs. Newsome. Mrs. Flora Holton was appointed as corresponding secretary.

The World And All

LOTS OF THINGS

The funniest book I have read this year is Rube Goldberg's "Is There a Doctor in the House?" and a brand new magazine that looks too good to last is Bookwise, published in Boston. Century Magazine has become The Century Quarterly, big and full of interesting material. But the magazine that has improved most during the year, I think, is Cosmopolitan. Farm and Fireside was the first periodical I ever became acquainted with. We had a clothes closet full of old files of it in our farmhouse in Kansas when I was a youngster, and I used to read the old copies on rainy days. But it is to become The Country Home, beginning with the February number.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Franklin traveled all over France and England last summer, carrying a nickle-plated percolator and a can of ground coffee. They went into the best of the Paris restaurants, set up their little coffee pot, and proceeded to make their own coffee, permitting the restaurant to furnish the rest of the meal. Americans who have had to drink French or English coffee will cheer for the Franklins. Dwight is one of the well-known New York artists, specializing in wax figures of pirates.

* * *

Commodore David Porter was written by Archibald Douglas Turnbull and published by the Century company. It's a grand biography of the kind of man we Americans need to know about just now. But I think Archibald Douglas Turnbull is one of the most unfortunate of all literary names. It is difficult to say, and almost impossible to remember.

* * *

To the many blind and friends of blind persons who have written me about the books in Braille type: You can get complete information, I believe, from the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, 370 Seventh Ave., New York City. If you fail to get information there, please write me again.

* * *

Judge J. D. Dickerson, of Wichita, Kan., was one of my most interesting callers. He's a big man in every way, and I'll be surprised when you hear about a book on juvenile delinquency by him. Also, Louis Cook, of Des Moines, who, his friends tell me, will eventually be governor of Iowa. I'm sure Iowa will be in luck. I'm told that several American millionaires are thinking of buying carillons and hiring carilloneurs to play them, as gifts to their home towns. All that's in the way is the inability of the millionaires to pronounce carillon and carilloneur. Mrs. A. L. Woodruff, Berlin, Conn., writes that she likes my stuff, and I bow politely, just as though I were used to such letters. Only in its idlest moments is the world interested in knowing just where Mr. Gann sits at breakfast. The stock market crashed, but the United States of America is just as good as it was last spring.

COLDS MAY DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

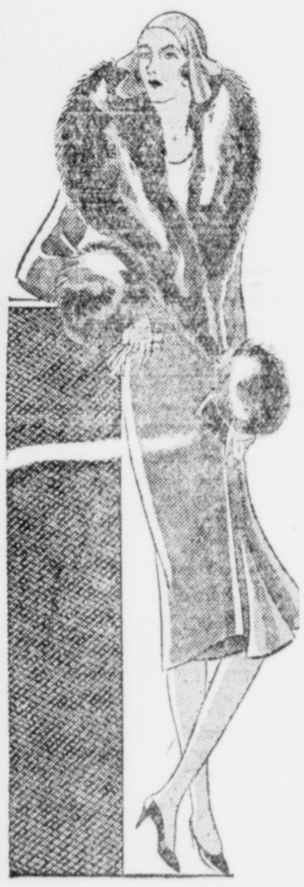

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

TO PICK DESIGNS FOR MODERN AIRPORTS

By HOMER H. METZ
International News Service
Aviation Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 5—The jury of awards in the Lehigh Airports Competition, for which the Lehigh Portland Cement Company has posted $10,000 in prize money for the fourteen winning designs for modern airports has been announced by Raymond Hood, of the American Institute of Architects, jury chairman.

Francis Keally, noted New York architect and a member of the American Institute of Architects, will act as professional advisor. On the architectural section of the jury will be Professor William A. Boring, director of Columbia University's school of architecture, and Parker Morse Hooper, A. I. A., editor of the "Architectural Forum." The engineering section will be represented by Colonel Willard Chevalier, pubishing director of the "Engineering News-Record."

In the city planning division are George B. Ford, A. I. A., airfield planner to the War Department, and E. P. Goodrich, consulting engineer and advisor to the Chinese Nationalist Government on airport development. In the aeronautics section are Dr. George W. Lewis, director of aeronautical research for the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics; Charles S. (Casey) Jones, president of the Curtis Flying Service, and Major John Berry, manager of the Cleveland Municipal Airport.

The jury will meet before the end of November so that the announcement of the winners in this national contest, the first of its kind held in the United States, may be made about December 1. The competition has been open to architects, engineers and city planners throughout the country, and was designed to stimulate the best technical minds in the nation to devise solution for America's airport problems.

First prize will carry an award of $5,000, second prize $2,500, third prize $1,000, fourth prize $500 and ten honorable mentions, with awards of $100 each will be made. The winning designs will be widely published by the Lehigh Portland Cement Company as a contribution to the aviation industry and will also be made available in book form.

Following the announcement of the winners here, the prize designs will be exhibited from December 1 to 7, under the auspices of the "Architectural Forum." They will also be exhibited December 10, in Chicago, before the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Harvey Wiley Corbett, famous American architect, has been general chairman of the competition's program committee. Many others, noted in the architectural, engineering, city planning and aeronautics fields, contributed their counsel to the competition, which is expected to bring out airport and airport terminal designs as a basis for future airport planning in the United States.

READ THIS FIRST:

Rosalie March, seventeen, after the death of her mother, secures a position at the hosiery counter of a store. She is helped by Kenessa DuBarry, an actress, who has a soft heart. Rosalie is adored by her landlady, Mother Murphy, and little Tim O'Hara, corner newsie. Rosalie takes a pair of silk stockings until payday, and is observed by Alberto Martino, hard-boiled store detective. He does not arrest her, but threatens to unless she hides some suitcases in her room. Rosalie is frightened, and when Martino's gang kidnaps Roy Andrews, nephew of the store owner, who has asked Rosalie to marry him, she threatens to expose Martino. Martino is furious, and in a scuffle is shot mysteriously. Rosalie is arrested, and Tim O'Hara confesses that he shot Martino to protect Rosalie, but the police do not believe him. Rowdy Dow, police reporter, and Kenessa Dubarry decide to help Rosalie.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

* * *

CHAPTER XL

Rosalie sat in her cell hte next morning like a statue. When she as much as lifted her hand it was an effort that made her feel weak and listless.

Dully she stared at the bars that confined her and wondered how long it would be before something would happen. It seemed like years since anyone had talked with her. Was it only yesterday that the newspaper man had been to see her? Would he be back again?

He had promised to help her. But, could anyone possibly help her? She remembered an old expression of her mother's—something about "making her bed and having to lie on it." That's what she had done. And she was a thief and had killed a man.

Rosalie raised her hand and pressed her aching head. If only she could think. Remember. Martino—he had rushed at her—and she had opened her eyes, and there was Mother Murphy and all those people.

There was nothing to do but admit she had killed him. But she didn't remember. She had heard that people killed in a blind rage. Insane passion. That was what she had done. She had been insane with fear—and she had fired to protect herself. The "law of self-preservation."

And yet—no one would understand. They would send her to the electric chair, no doubt. The suitcases? She wished the newspaper man who looked like Tim would hurry back and tell her if they were still there.

She shuddered and reached in her waist and took out the crumpled note that she had found in her cell the evening before. Right at her feet. Where had it come from? She had seen no one except the matron and a guard.

On dirty, cheap paper, it read:

"Your friend is not dead. Keep your trap shut and we will not do nothing to him. Tell and he will be bumped off at once."

The writing was in a cramped, childish hand and at the bottom there was a small black hand drawn very badly. Her heart hammered painfully with foreboding.

She had meant to trust the newspaper man. But she couldn't now. They would kill Roy if they were really telling her the truth. Maybe, if she gave him a little more time before she told he would find some way to get away.

Her mind refused to function. She dropped her head on the ugly little cot and was lost in despair.

It was six o'clock when Rowdy arrived at the prison. Word had been sent ahead that he was an attorney with permission to visit her.

She gasped with fear when she heard him call her name and looked up to see a strange dark man.

Then he explained the disguise. Rosalie smiled weakly for the first time since Martino's death.

"Oh, how did you ever make yourself look so different?"

"I didn't," he sat close to her so that no one would hear, "your girl friend DuBarry did it."

"DuBarry!" Rosalie's eyes opened wide with amazement "but—where is she."

"She is at present holding down your old job at the hosiery counter at Boggs and Clarke's. I have Martino's job."

Rosalie could hardly believe him. He saw her doubt and smiled.

"A well-known city detective called me this morning and said they wanted to put a man in Martino's place—and I went over. It was easy as falling off a log. Kenessa told 'em she was a hosiery slinger from Chi. It just happened—the Lord is with us, I guess, that she was put in your place. Sounds like a real detective thriller, doesn't it."

"Oh," tears of relief came into Rosalie's eyes, "maybe you will be able to help me. Did you see about the suitcases?"

"I am now the occupant of your late room. The suitcases are safe under my virtuous couch. Kenessa has the room across the hall. Last night we opened the suitcases and found about a hundred thousand dollars worth of loot from the store. Today, I checked up on the missing stuff and that's where it came from. Now, all I have to do is round up a few racketeers. That ought to be easy."

Rosalie began to cry half with relief and half wtih fear.

"Oh, please be careful. If they catch you they'll kill you. They're such bad people—"

He laughed her fears away.

"Don't fret your little self, honey. When they get Rowdy Dow they'll have their hands full. I know every cop and every crook in Phillie. If they grabbed me and I let 'em know who I was they'd drop me like a barrel of TNT. The wisest and the bravest of 'em know better than to knock off a police reporter."

She smiled whitely and held to his hand.

"I hope not. I—I'd feel terrible if you got in trouble over me."

He stayed with her half an hour and when he was ready to go a little color had come into her face. Several times she had started to tell him about Roy. But the note came before her eyes and she did not dare.

He turned at the door of her cell and grinned:

"Maybe you'd like to kiss me goodbye?"

He was like a big brother. Rosalie held up her arms and was glad to feel his strong arms holding her close. She buried her head in his shoulder for a moment and clung to him. He was a rock of safety in a world that seemed to be full of horror everywhere she turned.

"Don't- you worry, baby, Papa Dow won't let anything worse happen to you. I'll find a way to get you out of this mess or blow up every crook in this man's burg."

It seemed that she had known him all her life. Could it be only yesterday that he had come to her with his red hair and his freckles and his happy-go-lucky grin?

* * *

Rowdy lay in Rosalie's room, his thoughts in a turmoil. What a little darling she was. There must be some way to get her out of her trouble.

UNFROCK MINISTER AT PRESBYTERY MEET

James A. Hill, former pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, Dayton, was unfrocked from the ministry and excommunicated from the church at a meeting of Dayton Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Dayton Wednesday.

The action was taken after the Presbytery conducted a hearing on charges filed against the minister some time ago and which resulted in his suspension from the ministry last summer. The unfrocked minister has since organized a congregation known as the Bethany Community Church in Dayton.

The Rev. R. M. Fox, pastor of the Clifton Presbyterian Church, is moderator of Dayton Presbytery.

TRIAL IS STARTED

Trial of Owen Clemans, 45, near Paintersville, on a charge of burglary and larceny in connection with the alleged theft of five chickens valued at $5 from Omer Sturgeon, a neighbor, last June 22, commenced in Common Pleas Court Thursday. Clemans was indicted by the October grand jury. He had been bound over to the grand jury by R. O. Copsey, Xenia Twp. justice of the peace.

BRINGING UP FATHER — By GEORGE McMANUS

The Theater

Charlie Chaplin will play "Hamlet" in a talking picture of the Shakespearean tragedy despite his reiterated statement he would never make a talking picture.

So prophesies Shayle Gardner famous English player of Shakespearean roles. Gardner believes Chaplin could handle the role more successfully in a sound film than anyone else.

"I know Chaplin has declared he would not make a talking picture", said Gardner, "but I believe eventually he will bow to the demand that he portray the 'Melancholy Dane' in a sound production. When he does, he will create a character that will place him forever among the immortals in the realm of art."

Patricia Moore, in private life Miss Genevieve O'Connell, young blonde Chicago dancer, is suing William N. Telgman, vice-president and traffic manager of Curtis Candy Company, of Chicago for breach of promise

Chaplin himself had nothing to say about Gardner's prophecy. It has been rumored for years, however, that the comedian yearned secretly to sometime play a dramatic or tragic role and that his favorite was that of "Hamlet."

* * *

Chaplin may have spoken rashly when he said he would never make a sound picture. His last picture was "The Circus" and since then he has made "City Lights" but has not announced a release date.

"City Lights" contains talking sequences, although Chaplin himself, will not be heard in the film. It is a United Artists production and the comedian will be supported by Virginia Cherrill, Harry Crocker and Henry Bergman.

* * *

Chaplin beats futively at the doors because Will Hays' offices announced that the advent of sound pictures has added 10,000,000 to the weekly motion picture audiences in America. Hays also reveals that the export of positive film increased more than 41,000,000 feet in the first nine months of 1929 over the corresponding months in 1928.

Mr. Hays' office also advises that the recent agreement to revise the sound picture contracts of small exhibitors has been more that $1,300,000 from the film rental of 3,800 independent theater owners.

The figures were made public by Sidney R. Kent of Paramount-Famous-Lasky Corp., at the convention of the Motion Picture Theater Owners of America at Memphis, Tenn., recently. The revision was made on the appeal of small independents who had bid more for sound pictures than they could afford to pay. The contracts were enforcible but the producers agreed to the revision.

The convention thanked Mr. Kent and expressed appreciation of Mr. Hays' "quick and sympathetic action" in responding to the plea of the small independents.

* * *

All of this has nothing to do with Bebe Daniels' plans to blossom as an opera singer in a picture version of "Carmen" but the item neatly fills out the column today.

HE'S JUDGE AT 22

New Municipal Jurist In Indiana City Has Led Colorful Life.

By Central Press

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Dec. 5.—Charles J. Eichel, city judge-elect here, a city of 100,000 persons, is believed to be the youngest man in the United States to have been chosen for such an office in a city the size of Evansville. He was twenty-two years old last January 12.

Eichel set a record in this part of the country when he won the office by a majority of almost 2,500 votes of the 19,000 cast. His opponent was a man who has had twenty years' experience in politics, and who has been city judge the past four years.

Young Eichel opened the eyes of the old political war horsemen when he was defeated by only two votes for city chairmanship by Frank W. Griese, now the mayor-elect. Eichel's majority in the city judge race was 500 more than that of the mayoralty candidate.

Colorful Career

The rising young politician has had a vari-colored career in the past six years. He served in the air forces at Scott Field, Ill., when only fifteen years of age. When his age was discovered he returned to civilian life only a short time before setting out for Oklahoma oil fields. He drifted from there to Colorado, doing farm work, and thence to California oil fields. He attended Castle Heights school in Lebanon, Tenn., Central high school in Evansville, Cumberland University at Lebanon and Lake Forest Academy at Chicago.

His education was obtained, however, only between trips here and there, as the wanderlust called him. He was a clerk in the Miami postoffice during the Florida boom, and was a seaman on an oil tanker. He wandered into Tampico, Mexico, and worked in oil fields there, moving north to Los Angeles, and again put forth to sea.

Some of his wanderings led him to railroad construction gang work in California as cook and as lumberjack in lumber camps of Idaho. The potential judge was for a while in a foundry at Pontiac, Mich., and in an automobile body making plant in Detroit.

Eichel temporarily abandoned law, his real interest, for study in the Ohio Mechanics Institute at Cincinnati. This was too confining, however, and he sought relief by hopping bells in a hotel in Cuba.

Eichel's first taste of politics was tinged with defeat, when he supported the defeated Democratic mayoralty candidate here in the 1924 election. He returned to Cumberland University after this first dabbling in politics. He graduated, and did post-graduate work in Benjamin Harrison law school in Indianapolis.

Degree at 20

He was twenty years old when he received his degree, and too young to be admitted to the bar. The sea called while on a trip to New York City and, in service with the U. S. steamship lines, he visited Germany, France and England, returning to Evansville to establish so prosaic a thing as a laundry in a nearby town.

As quickly as he reached his twenty-first birthday the youth was admitted to the bar and filed for county prosecuting attorney. Defeat did not daunt him. He had profited by building up a powerful young voters' organization which ultimately was a strong factor in his successful race for city judge.

PLANE TALK

21. Forced Landings

A broken gasoline line, faulty ignition or other minor mechanical mishap may cause engine failure and forced landing.

If he is over familiar terrain, the pilot will know the nearest field or cleared ground which can be used for emergency landing and will immediatly head for it. Constant watch is necessary so that he will always be prepared for such an emergency. Decision must be made suickly and correctly and time is generally not available for changes.

Gliding angles of planes vary. Ordinarily, it is about 7 to 1, which means that if the plane is 1,000 feet up, it can glide a horizontal distance of 7,000 feet before coming to earth. Into the wind, this glide is of course shortened while a following wind will lengthen it. Gliding with the wind is inadvisable, however, at low altitudes.

Perhaps the plane is directly over suitable landing ground when the motor fails. In such an instance, if his altitude is sufficient, the pilot can do best by spiralying down, turning into the wind to land. In the absence of a wind sock, smoke, clothes drying on a line, ships at anchor and other improvised weather vanes will indicate the wind direction.

For COLDS

We all catch colds and they can make us miserable; but yours needn't last long if you will do this: Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin just as soon as possible after a cold starts. Stay in the house if you can—keep warm. Repeat with another tablet or two of Bayer Aspirin every three or four hours, if those symptoms of cold persist. Take a good laxative when you retire, and keep bowels open. If throat is sore, dissolve three tablets in a quarter-glassful of water and gargle. This soothes inflammation and reduces infection. There is nothing like Bayer Aspirin for a cold, or sore throat. And it relieves aches and pains almost instantly. The genuine tablets, marked Bayer, are absolutely harmless to the heart.
